Officers on furlough visiting engineering works at public expense.

Public Works Department Circular No. 52, dated 24th September 1873, publishing the rules under which officers of the Public Works Department, while on furlough, are permitted to visit engineering works in the United Kingdom at the public expense.

Despatch to Secretary of State, No. 25 P. W., dated 24th August 1899, and the reply from Secretary of State thereto, No. 45 P. W., dated 19th October 1899

The Government of India, in consultation with the Secretary of State, have had under consideration the following questions :—

The scope of the rules of 1873 referred to above, that is to say, the classes of officers to whom they might be considered applicable.

The more frequent application of more liberal terms, under the Circular order of 1891, to specially selected officers, in consequence of the modification in the rules relating to the practical course at the Royal Indian Engineering College under the orders of Public Works Department Resolution No. 2352 G., dated 1st September 1897.

The procedure to be followed by officers desirous of visiting engineering works in the United Kingdom under the rules referred to.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor-General in Council is, with the approval of Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, pleased to lay down the following general rules for guidance :—

I. That the rules of 1873 are, as a rule, applicable only to junior officers; but applications from senior officers will, in special cases, be considered on their merits. In either case it is to be understood that no officer is entitled to claim any such privilege as a matter of right.

II. That each application for greater facilities for studying engineering works during furlough than are afforded by the rules of 1873 will continue, as has been the case since 1891, to be considered on its merits.

III. That, in the case of officers whose service does not exceed twelve years, applications to visit engineering works in the United Kingdom, under the rules of 1873, shall be made direct by the officers themselves to the Secretary of State, who will deal with them. In all other cases, whether relating to officers of more than twelve years' service who desire the benefit of the rules of 1873 or to officers who desire greater facilities than are obtainable under those rules (vide Rule II), the applications shall be submitted, through the Local Government under which the officer may be serving, to the Government of India, supported by a recommendation from the Local Government showing the object which it is proposed to secure by allowing assistance from the public purse to the officer applying, and the extent of the assistance which it is desired should be given to him.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Local Governments, Administrations and Officers, noted in the margin, for information and guidance, and that it be published in the Gazette of India.

FROM THE "GAZETTE OF INDIA," DATED FEBRUARY 3, 1900.

FOREIGN DEPARTMENT.

No. 167-G., dated Fort William, the 29th January 1900.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Foreign Department.

READ—

Resolution of the Government of India in the Foreign Department, No. 1633-G., dated the 9th Octobe 1896.

OBSERVATIONS.—It has been pointed out that the above Resolution, which provides that officers of the Political Department will be eligible, under the rules obtaining in the adjoining Presidency or Province, for rewards for passing examinations in the vernacular languages spoken in the Agency or Province in which they are serving, places those officers at a disadvantage as compared with officers serving under the Punjab Government. Under Rule VII of the revised rules for examination in the Pashtu and Baluchi languages, which were approved by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India in his Public despatch No. 120, dated the 4th August, 1898, junior officers of the Punjab Commission who pass the examination in Pashtu or Baluchi by the Higher Standard and senior officers who pass the same examination "when actually posted to the frontier or likely to be sent there" are eligible for rewards of Rs 500 and Rs. 1,000 respectively, without reference to the language spoken in the district where they are serving at the time of passing the examination: whereas officers of the Political Department of the Government of India are, by the terms of the above-quoted Resolution, debarred from obtaining these rewards, unless at the time of passing the examination they are actually serving in a frontier district, where Pashtu or Baluchi is spoken.

RESOLUTION.—With a view to encourage the study of frontier languages by officers of the Political Department of the Government of India, it is desirable that they should be placed on the same footing as regards rewards for passing examinations in those languages with officers of the Punjab Commission. The Government of India have, therefore, decided that the following rules shall henceforth be held applicable to officers of the Political Department of the Government of India :—

(i) Any officer below the substantive grade of Political Agent, 2nd Class, who shall pass the examination in Pashtu or Baluchi by the Higher Standard, when serving in an Agency in which a Pashtu or Baluchi language allowance is not admissible, shall receive a reward of Rs. 500. Rewards for both languages may thus be earned by the same officer, and an officer in receipt of a language allowance for having qualified in one language may obtain the reward of Rs. 500 for qualifying in the other.

(ii) Officers of or above the substantive grade of Political Agent, 2nd Class, who are actually posted to the frontier or likely to be sent there may, with the permission of the Government of India in the Foreign Department, appear for examination in Pashtu or Baluchi by the Higher Standard, and shall receive a reward of Rs. 1,000 on passing each such examination.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded* to Local Governments and Administrations and Political officers under the Foreign Department; and to the Military Department for information.

*The Chief Secretary to the Government of Fort St. George.
The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bombay.
The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

Re-organization of the administrative classes in the Public Works Department.

Despatch from Secretary of State, No. 29 P.W., dated 14th October 1897, paragraphs 17 and 18.

Despatch from Secretary of State, No. 53 P.W., dated 14th December 1899.

RESOLUTION.—The Government of India have had under consideration the question of re-organizing the administrative appointments in the Public Works Department comprising the several classes of Chief and Superintending Engineers.

The rate of pay in these classes has undergone no change since 1870, while that of Executive and Assistant Engineers has been somewhat frequently changed. The last change was in 1893 when the rate of pay of Executive Engineers, 1st grade, was raised to Rs. 1,000, and, with increments, to Rs. 1,100 a month.

Some inconvenience has arisen from the approximation of the pay of Executive Engineers, 1st grade, to that of Superintending Engineers, 3rd class, and it has also been felt that the pay of the latter class was to some extent inadequate to the responsiblities of their duties.

The appointments of Chief Engineers and Superintending Engineers for the several Provincial lists under the Government of India, which comprise the appointments of the Buildings and Roads Branches, and of the Railway Branch, have hitherto formed one list. The promotions to the lowest or 3rd class in each of the ranks of Chief and Superintending Engineers have, like the appointments in the Executive and Assistant classes, been on the separate lists noted in the margin, but promotions to the 2nd and 1st classes of these ranks have been made on a combined list.

Bengal.
North-Western Provinces and Oudh.
Punjab.
Burma.
Minor Administrations.
State Railways.

2. Public Works Department resolution No. 3386 G., dated 23rd December 1897, provided for a re-organization of the Public Works Department Secretariat of the Government of India based on the idea of separating the Department into two Branches, the Railway, and the Irrigation Roads and Buildings, each under its own Secretary. It has now been decided to complete the separation of the two Branches by placing the Chief and Superintending Engineers in each Branch on separate lists.

It has not been possible hitherto to effect this complete separation under the existing rules for determining the strength in each class of Chief and Superintending Engineers, and so long as the sanctioned number of appointments in the 1st class of Chief Engineers has been limited to three. Hitherto these three 1st class appointments have been held by the three Chief Engineers on the combined list whose personal qualifications were highest, without reference to the Branch in which they were serving, a Chief Engineer in the Railways being as eligible as one in the Irrigation Roads and Buildings for promotion to these 1st class appointments. It has now been decided, with the approval of the Secretary of State, to reserve the three existing 1st class appointments exclusively for officers in the latter, and His Lordship has also sanctioned the creation of two additional 1st class appointments in this Branch, a corresponding reduction being made in the combined strength of the 2nd and 3rd classes. This increase in the number of 1st class appointments to be reserved for this Branch, has been sanctioned in recognition of the increased importance of the Province of Burma, which now forms a Local Government, and of the fact that, under the recent organization of the Secretariat, officers in the Buildings and Roads will no longer share the chance which they had previously enjoyed with officers of other Branches, of promotion to the post hitherto known by the title of Secretary to the Government of India in the Public Works Department, while officers of the Irrigation Branch will also be eligible only for the appointment of Secretary, Irrigation Roads and Buildings, which must be filled by the Inspector-General of Irrigation.

3. In order to compensate the Railways for the reservation of the three existing 1st class appointments for the officers of the Irrigation Roads and Buildings the Secretary of State has also sanctioned a proposal that one of the four Chief Engineer appointments in the Railways should be in the 1st class. There will also be, as at present, two other appointments, outside this scale, ranking as Chief Engineer, 1st class, which will be open only to Engineers of the Railways, and two other appointments of the same rank and pay in the Superior Revenue Establishment of State Railways, which are open to Railway Engineers as well as to officers of the Superior Revenue Establishment.

4. Six of the twelve Chief Engineer appointments belonging to the two lists, Railway, and Irrigation Roads and Buildings, under the Government of India, will thus, in future, belong to the 1st class, and there will be three appointments in each of the other two classes. The Railways will have two appointments in the 2nd class and one in the 3rd, while the Irrigation Roads and Buildings will have one in the 2nd and two in the 3rd class. In the event of future additions to or deductions from the 2nd class and 3rd class appointments, the numbers will be recalculated under Public Works Department Code, Volume I, Chapter I, paragraph 57. The arrangement agreed to in Public Works Department resolution No. 1194 G., dated 6th September 1883, in reference to the Bombay list by which the appointment of Chief Engineer, 2nd class, goes to the senior officer of the two lists, when a vacancy occurs, will continue to apply as between the Bombay list and the list of the Irrigation Buildings and Roads Branch under the Government of India. The promotions admissible under these orders will be notified in due course.

No modification is proposed in the sanctioned scales for Chief Engineers in the Madras and Bombay Presidencies, in each of which a 1st class appointment has always been reserved.

5. As regards the strength of the various classes of Superintending Engineers, the distribution has hitherto been effected, in accordance with the rule prescribed in Public Works Department Code, Volume I, Chapter I, paragraph 58, on the total strength of Superintending Engineers on the Government of India list, that is on that of the combined Branches. In future the distribution will be made separately for each of these Branches. The total number of Superintending Engineer appointments will vary from time to time in accordance with requirements. Under the existing sanction the distribution between the two Branches of the graded administrative appointments of Chief and Superintending Engineer under the Government of India will be as in margin.

	Irrigation Roads and Buildings.	Railways.	Total.

Superintending Engineers, 1st class ...	10	5	15

6. The official designations of the heads of the Railway and General Branches will be respectively :—

Secretary to Government of India, Public Works Department, Railways.

Secretary to Government of India, Public Works Department Irrigation Roads and Buildings.

7. As regards the rate of pay drawn by Superintendig Engineers, the Secretary of State has sanctioned the pay of the 3rd class being increased from Rs. 1,100 to Rs. 1,250, and that of the 2nd class from Rs. 1,350 to Rs. 1,400. This sanction will have effect from the 1st January 1900 and will be applicable to all lists, including those of Madras and Bombay.

ORDER.—Ordered that this resolution be communicated to the Local Governments, Administrations and Officers noted in the margin. Also that it be published in the Gazette of India.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

ARRANGEMENTS BETWEEN HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT, THE IMPERIAL INSTITUTE AND THE LONDON UNIVERSITY FOR TRANSFERRING A PORTION OF THE BUILDINGS OF THE IMPERIAL INSTITUTE TO THE LONDON UNIVERSITY.

Circular No. 6-1—2.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture (Practical Arts and Museums), dated Calcutta, the 2nd February 1900.

RESOLUTION.

Read the following :—

Memorandum, dated October 1899, by the Honorary Director and Secretary, Imperial Institute, London, and enclosures, regarding the recent arrangements between Her Majesty's Government, the Imperial Institute, and the London University for transferring a portion of the buildings of the Imperial Institute to the London University, and for assigning the remaining portion to the general work of the Institute in such a manner that its practical utility may not be prejudicially affected.

MEMORANDUM.

Negotiations have recently been completed between Her Majesty's Government and the Governing Body of the Imperial Institute, having for their object the devotion, to the housing of the London University, of portions of its Main Building which are not required by it for carrying on its operations connected with the practical representation by collections of the resources of the Colonies and India, the advancement of the commercial interests of the various portions of the Empire, and the accommodation of Fellows of the Institute and of others desirous of obtaining information available at the Institute in connection with all Countries composing the British Empire.

The publicity given to the proposals which led to these negotiations resulted in the promulgation by the Public Press, at home and in the Colonies, of many statements of a more or less erroneous and misleading character, based in part upon the assumption that the contemplated relinquishment by the Institute of portions of the building, erected in commemoration of the 50th year of the reign of Her Majesty, must arrest, or at any rate prejudicially affect, the operations and future of the Institute.

The Executive Council have therefore directed that the following statement be communicated to Colonial Authorities and to others concerned or interested in the work of the Institute.

The design of the Main Building of the Institute, accepted in 1887, provided an amount of accommodation very considerably in excess of the actual requirements of the Institute, allowing even for important future expansion of its work. The Institute Authorities, in adopting this design, contemplated the possibility that house-room might have to be provided for certain then existing Societies, or Institutions, whose objects and work were more or less akin to those of the Institute. The space available for such purposes in the Main Building constituted about two-thirds of the East Wing. In meeting the proposal to provide accommodation for the University it has been found practicable, by a concentration of the arrangements for carrying on the administrative portions of the Institute, to surrender the whole of the East Wing for that purpose. In addition thereto, the Halls attached to the centre of the building have been placed at the disposal of the University, with the stipulation that the Institute should have the use of them when required, by arrangement with the University Authorities. Other apartments hitherto devoted to the accommodation of Fellews, and situated in the Central Block, have, together with the Main Entrance, also been made over to the University, the Government having undertaken the erection of corresponding apartments for the use of Fellows as an addition to the West Wing, a special Main Entrance being also provided to this—the Institute portion of the Main Building.

The East Wing of the Main Building included two Conference Rooms, the one for India and the other for the South African Colonies. The latter will be furnished with corresponding accommodation in the West Wing, while India has had made over to it the large addition to the East Wing, the cost of the erection of which, some years ago, was covered by special contributions received from India. The Government of India has, however, arranged that the large Conference Hall and the Entrance thereto, which form part of this Indian Section of the Buildings, shall be used by the Institute for its Lectures, Conferences, or for special functions.

The Galleries in which the Colonial and Indian Collections are housed are in no way interfered with by the arrangement made with the Government in the interests of the London University. Their sub-division among the Colonies, which was carried out as soon as the buildings were erected, remains intact.

The North Gallery remains as heretofore available for special exhibitions illustrative of the progress of particular industries, and for other objects of interest and importance included in the sphere of action of the Institute.

The accommodation provided for Fellows (Reading, Writing, and News Rooms, Retiring Rooms, etc.) will now be in apartments in the West Wing, corresponding to those which the Fellows have occupied in the East Wing. Commodious Dining and Smoking Rooms, with accessories, will, as already stated, be built, and will immediately adjoin the other apartments devoted to Fellows.

The Library will be removed to the West Wing, and will, in future, be divided into a General Library and an Official Library, which will be in distinct contiguous rooms.

The weekly special Lectures, by well-recognised Authorities, on subjects relating to the various countries composing the Empire, and on matters of special Imperial interest, will be delivered during the Winter Season as heretofore, and will be open to the General Public as well as to Fellows and their Friends. But in view of the more or less heavy losses which have been sustained by the Institute in providing open-air musical entertainments during the Summer (to which Fellows had free access), the Council resolved, early this year, to discontinue the maintenance of the enclosed gardens, and the provision therein of the Concerts referred to. This action of the Council was taken before the proposal to house the University of London in the Institute Buildings was made the subject of negotiation with Her Majesty's Government.

Upon the completion of those negotiations the Institute Buildings were transferred to the Government, from whom, as has been shown, the Institute Authorities have secured the retention of the Galleries, and of the necessary accommodation in the Main Building for the proper conduct, and further extension, of the work of the Institute. In addition, the Institute has been relieved of considerable burdens of debt, of very heavy taxation, and of several important incidental liabilities and expenses. The Governing Body will consequently find itself, in the future, in a position to promote, to a greater extent than heretofore, the pursuit and elaboration of the work of the Institute in the interests of the various Countries composing the Empire.

It follows, therefore, that so far from the prospects of usefulness of the Institute having been interfered with or prejudicially affected, they have been very materially improved by the conclusion of the arrangements which enable the Government to house the University of London in portions of the Institute Buildings.

There are more especially two Departments of the Institute whose operations have been steadily developed in the last few years, the practical value of which, to the Colonies, to India, and to the United Kingdom, has already been decisively and amply demonstrated, and the more extensive utilisation of which by the Colonies rests entirely with their Governing Authorities and public Institutions. These are the Commercial Information Department, and the Scientific and Technical Department, with its Laboratories, its staff of trained Chemists, its Scientific, Technical and Commercial Referees, etc.

Accompanying this Memorandum are two Papers which gives illustration of the useful, and often important, work accomplished in these two Departments in connection with development of our knowledge of the nature and commercial value of the natural products of the Colonies and India, as well as with every variety of commercial subjects, and with other matters of direct interest and utility to the various countries composing the Empire.

To meet the requirements of merchants and others whose business operations are conducted entirely or in part, in the City of London, a branch of the Commercial Information Department of the Institute has been established in a very convenient quarter of the City. This Branch is in telephonic communication with the head office at South Kensington and includes a very completely equipped Commercial News Room for the use of Fellows and of Subscribers to the City Intelligence Office.

The arrangements in course of organisation by Her Majesty's Board of Trade for the establishment of a Government Commercial Intelligence Office are intended to provide for co-operation with the Imperial Institute, which is to be represented by two members upon a mixed Committee to be appointed for directing the work of this new Government Department. The Institute will take part in carrying out the arrangements for the reception, from the Colonies and Foreign Countries, of samples of materials and of manufactured goods representing supplies, made from Countries which compete with British manufactures and Merchants;—their exhibition at commercial centres of the United Kingdom;—their circulation and eventual storage and exhibition at the Institute, as reference-collections for purposes of comparison, etc.

It is hoped that this brief statement will serve to demonstrate that the operations of the Imperial Institute will continue, and increasingly, to promote the interests, and to assist in developing the resources and commerce, of the various countries composing the British Empire.

Emigration Enquiries.

A considerable proportion of inquiries relate to the emigration to British Colonies, and embrace very varied written and personal requests for information respecting the best fields for emigration, and particulars of all kinds, e. g., climatic conditions, prospects of employment in professions and trades, rates of wages, cost of living, best routes, outfits, etc. Great pains are taken to promptly furnish full details, and to render assistance in the way of introductions, etc.; the literature of the Emigrant's Information Office is also widely distributed to such applicants. Reports and statements from that office, together with particulars of the Parlimentary Emigration Returns are, moreover, regularly published in the Monthly Journal of the Institute. The Curators for Canada and for South Africa likewise furnish enquirers with information respecting the British Possessions they represent, whilst the British Women's Emigration Association has its home at the Institute, and carries out a large amount of valuable work in selecting suitable females for Colonial employment. The Association secures for such persons proper protection during their voyage, and adequate reception upon arrival. Many instances of the success attending these various efforts are on record, letters expressing gratitude for the assistance rendered having been received from persons in Australasia, Canada, South Africa, and some of the minor Possessions.

4th October 1899.

Illustrations of practical results attained, or in course of attainment, from information supplied by the Commercial and Industrial Intelligence Office and by the Scientific and Technical Department of the Imperial Institute.

Messrs. George Crossfield & Co., of Liverpool, wishing to place a new "rainbow cube" sugar on the Australasian and South African markets, were supplied with a list of firms in the different Colonies, likely to be interested, and the firm has sent samples and particulars with a view to orders.

A South African correspondent enquired about the prospects of a trade between the United Kingdom and Natal, in thyme, grown in the Colony. Samples were obtained from Natal, and reported on by the Institute's expert Referee; the probable result being that stills will be erected in Natal and a trade in the essential oil of thyme established.

Mr. E. B. d'Auvergne desired information as to tea-planting in Ceylon, viz:— average price of suitable land; quantity of tea grown per acre; how long tea-plants take before bearing; labourers' wages; whether trade is exclusively in the hands of Companies; and other details only obtainable on the spot. The Corresponding Agent of the Institute in Colombo provided a full report explaining all the particulars.

The "Oil and Colourman's Journal" wrote for samples of tung-tree oil, and information as to the sources of supply. The samples and particulars were supplied. Several other enquiries respecting the same material have been dealt with.

Messrs. Stevenson & Son, Moygashel Mills, Dungannon, Co. of Tyrone, enquired whether samples of cotton and linen goods, suitable for the South American Market, could be inspected, they being anxious to manufacture similar qualities. The desired information was given.

Two firms of exporters, one in Brighouse, Yorkshire, and the other in Belfast, enquired as to the descriptions of cotton and woollen goods and of linen goods respectively, which were suitable for the Indian markets. Full information was given of the various kinds of textile manufactures in which trade might be developed.

NEWFOUNDLAND—

Steatite.—A sample of mineral, closely resembling steatite, and useful for most of the purposes for which steatite is used, was received, from the late Premier of Newfoundland. The results of its analysis were reported to the Colony and brought to the notice of British traders in French chalk; a large firm in Liverpool, who use this mineral extensively, offered to take a trial shipment, and have been put in communication with the deposits.

Some specimens of iron ores (hæmatite, magnetite, and chrom iron ore) received from Newfoundland, were found by analysis to be of a nature and quality likely to prove valuable. Further, average samples are to be sent.

BRITISH GUIANA—

Crowa fibre seems likely to be a useful fibre and of a nature for which there is a demand in this country. Steps are being taken to induce merchants in British Guiana to undertake the export of this fibre.

FIJI—

Fibres for fancy articles.—Samples of fibres from Fiji, suitable for various articles for which a demand exists here, have been obtained at the instance of a London firm, who have taken up the matter with a view to placing these products on the market.

CANADA—

Timbers.—Enquiries have been made of the authorities in the Canadian Provinces and the West Indies, at the instance of the Institute of British Carriage Manufacturers, for timbers which might be useful as substitute for English ash. Various samples from Quebec, Ontario, Nova Scotia, etc., were submitted, and have been reported on. Among them were some which have been very favourably received, and details are now being obtained as to possibility of regular quantity being exported to this country.

JAMAICA, TRINIDAD—

Specimens of woods from these Colonies have also been obtained in connexion with the foregoing enquiry and have been tested. A larger sample, for practical trial, has been asked for of a wood from Jamaica which seemed promising.

BRITISH CENTRAL AFRICA—

Numerous samples of metaliferous minerals, sands, coals, etc., found in British Central Africa have been analysed in the Scientific Department and reports furnished to Her Majesty's Commissioner at Zomba.

NEW SOUTH WALES—

Australian sandarac (resin).—A sample of Australian sandarac was received from New South Wales and, being valued at less than the African sandarac at present on the market, on account of the alleged inferiority in point of solubility, etc., samples were examined in the Scientific Department and it was evident that the resin is not so inferior as the difference in valuation would indicate.

Copra oil-mills.—Messrs. Lever Brothers, Ld., of Birkenhead, enquired for details of the crop and exports of copra in Ceylon, India, new Guinea, Philippine Island, Fiji and South Sea Islands; whether there were any oil-mills in these countries and of what type; whether there was any sale for the oil-cake, if so, where it was shipped and at what price. Full information was obtained from the Corresponding Agent of the Institute and communicated to the applicants, with the result that the firm has established oil-mills at Sydn y, thus introducing a new field for labour in new South Wales.

Messrs. Arnold & Co., timber merchants, of Woolwich, applied for particulars and samples of certain timbers from New South Wales, not hitherto introduced into the British markets. Samples and information were supplied, and they state that some of their customers have been favourably impressed with the samples and they expect business to result.

QUEENSLAND—

Information has been furnished, for the use of the Government, respecting the sources of supply of arrowroot, the cultivation of agave and the extraction and preparation of the fibre for the market; the commercial value of various fibres; the cultivation and extraction of pine-apple fibre; the cultivation of ginger; the commercial value of rutile; machines for practically testing fibres, etc.

Mr. R Callard, having observed certain specimens of Queensland woods in the Section of that Colony, made enquiries as to importing some quantity for ornamental purposes. Small samples of the woods (Casuarina) were supplied to him, together with the names of timber dealers in the Colony through whom supplies could be obtained.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA—

Coal—A full chemical and technical report has been made on the Collie coal of Western Australia, samples of which were sent for the purpose by direction of the Premier.

BARBADOS—

Manjak.—Enquiries having been made for information as to "Manjak," a mineral of the nature of "glance pitch," which has been found to occur in large quantities in Barbados. Samples of the material have been supplied from the Commercial Collections to several enquirers and recommendations have been made to the owners at Barbados as to the preparation of the material for the market.

GRENADA—

Ground-nuts and castor seed.—The. Curator of the Botanic Gardens, Grenada, has made enquiries as to obtaining a market for the above products in the United Kingdom. It has been reported that there is an opening for new supplies of these products. This enquiry is of interest in connection with the request (see above) of Messrs. Kamim & Schrempft.

INDIA—

India-rubber.—A number of samples of india-rubber from Burma, Assam and Madras have been introduced to the notice of manufacturers, cable-makers and brokers, and their valuation of the samples have been reported to the Indian authorities. Samples of the rubber-like material obtained from certain new plants have been received and are under examination.

Jute.—A number of samples collected at various stages of the plant's growth, and submitted to certain treatment after retting have been investigated chemically and examined by commercial experts, with the view of ascertaining at what period of maturity the plant yields the most constant quality of fibre.

Castor oils.— A numerous series of castor-oils from various parts of India have been investigated as to their comparative properties and reported upon.

Indian dyes.—Professor Hummel and Mr. A. G. Perkin have investigated the dyeing properties and chemical constituents of a number of Indian dye stuffs amongst which may be mentioned Myrica Nagi, Morinda, Delphinium Zalil, etc., etc.

Fibres.—The following are some of fibres which, after chemical examination by the methods adopted for comparative valuation, have been brought to the notice of merchants and brokers, who have reported on their market value:—Sunn hemp, Phœnix paludosa, Agave rigida, Sansevieria (bow-string hemp), Pine-apple fibre, Calotropis silk floss, Banriha fibre, Madar bark-fibre, Sabai fibre, Tacca bast, etc., etc.

Mica.—Various preparations of this mineral have been submitted to manufacturers for their opinions, at the request of the authorities in India.

The value of samples of mica from Jeypore has been determined and recommendations made as to the best methods of mining and preparing the products for the market.

Coals.—A full report on Indian coals, with an extensive series of analyses and practical tests, has been furnished to the Government of India.

Limestone.—In connection with smelting experiments with Madras iron ore and Bengal coal, a number of samples of Madras limestone are being analysed.

Iron ores.—A large number of analyses of iron ores from Madras have been made and published. Steps have since been taken to ascertain whether it would be possible to work these ores in Madras.

Turpentines.—A complete series of the turpentines produced in India, from various districts, is under investigation and has been partly reported upon.

Tanning materials.—Acacia arabica pods and bark, Cassia auriculata bark, Terminalia chebula fruit (myrobalans), Cæsalpinia bark, etc., etc. Many samples of these tanning materials have been analysed, and especially samples of the three first named collected from trees of different ages, with the fruit or bark at various degrees of ripeness, have been compared, the object being to determine the best conditions for cultivation and the most favourable periods in the age of the plants for collecting the tanning materials for the market. At present the proportion of tanning in these materials as sent into the market, and their consequent value, varies very greatly.

A report on a number of samples of Mangrove barks and extracts as to both their tanning and dyeing value has been communicated to the Indian authorities.

Catech and catechu.—Samples of these preparations have been analysed and a report on them is in preparation.

Edible Oils.—An extensive series of samples has been examined and the results published so as to receive the notice of manufacturers and consumers.

Medicinal plants.—A number of plants have been and are being investigated, both as to the chemical nature of their constituents and their therapeutic value, e.g., Indian aconites, Indian opium, Podophyllum, Indian henbane (Hyoscyamus muticus), Malabar kino, Castor-oil cake, etc.

Timber.—A report was made by Professor Unwin on the strength and physical properties of pyinma wood, and reports were obtained from the War Office authorities as to its suitability for making gunstocks.

Food-grains.—A large number of food-grains (including famine foods) have been analysed and reported on, and others are now under investigation.

Sun-flower seed and hibiscus (musk mallow) seed have been dealt with as to their commercial prospects.

Tobacco from India has been analysed, and also reported on from the commercial point of view.

Gums.—A chemical enquiry has been made and supplemented by commercial reports, in reference to the value of some Indian gums occurring abundantly in certain localities, which appear likely to be serviceable as substitutes for gum arabic, or for frankincense.

Corundum.—Samples of this material from India have been brought to the notice of manufacturers.

For details of the above extensive researches see the REPORTS for 1896-97, 1897-98 and 1898-99 on the INDIAN SECTION OF THE IMPERIAL INSTITUTE, presented to the Under-Secretary of State for India by the Special Sub-Committee for India at the Imperial Institute, composed of Sir Steuart C. No. 487.—The following revised draft of a Notification, which it is proposed to issue in exercise of the powers conferred by section 4, sub-section (1), of the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), is published for the information of all persons likely to be affected thereby, and notice is hereby given that the said draft will be taken into consideration by the Governor-General in Council on or after the 1st June 1900.

In exercise of the power conferred by section 4, sub-section (1), of the Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct that the following addition be made to Part III of the first schedule to the said Act:—

"6. Application of the test to viscous fluids or preparations, such as solutions of India-rubber in mineral naphtha, or thick paint made with that material:—

About a teaspoonful of the substance to be tested is placed in the cup, and the cover fitted with a thermometer is put on.

The cup thus prepared for the test is then cooled down until the thermometer indicates a temperature of 50° F. This may be accomplished either by placing the prepared cup in a refrigerator, or by immersing it up to its projecting collar in water which is maintained at a sufficiently low temperature until the result specified has been obtained.

The prepared cup thus cooled is then transferred to the water bath the temperature of which has previously been raised to 76° F. (The scale of the thermometer in the water bath should range from 60° to 180° F.).

The test is then applied as described in section 4 of this part. If no flash has taken place when the temperature in the cup has reached 75°, the test need not be continued.

The temperature at which the flash occurs is the observed flashing point of the substance and, subject to correction of atmospheric pressure as prescribed in the Act, is the true flashing point."

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
HOME DEPARTMENT.

DECENNIAL CENSUS OF 1901.

NO. 30-32.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Home Department (Census),—under date Calcutta, the 2nd April 1900.

READ—

Home Department Resolution No. 3-Census / 114—124-A., dated the 1st July 1890.

Despatch to the Secretary of State, No. 13, dated the 2nd March 1899.

Revenue Despatch from the Secretary of State, No. 140, dated the 11th May 1899, and enclosures.

The replies of the Local Governments and Administrations who were consulted thereon.

RESOLUTION.

BY Home Department Notification No. 23, dated the 13th October 1899, Mr. H. H. Risley, C.I.E., I.C.S., was appointed Census Commissioner for India for the purpose of the decennial Census of 1901. Sanction has since been given to the appointment, from the 1st April 1900, of the following officers to be Provincial Superintendents of Census Operations :—

Madras	Mr. W. Francis, I.C.S.
Bombay	„ R. E. Enthoven, I.C.S.
Bengal	„ E. A. Gait, I.C.S.
North-Western Provinces and Oudh ...	„ R. Burn, I.C.S.
Punjab	„ H. A. Rose, I.C.S.
Burma	„ C. C. Lowis, I.C.S.
Central Provinces	„ R. V. Russell, I.C.S.
Assam	„ B. C. Allen, I.C.S.
Hyderabad Assigned Districts	„ A. D. Chinoy.

2. After consultation with the Census Commissioner the Government of India determined that it was unnecessary on this occasion to assemble a conference of the officers who had been engaged as Provincial Superintendents in conducting the Census of 1891. The reports of the conferences held in 1878, in 1890, and in October 1891 embody in a clear and well-ordered form the experience acquired in the last three Censuses of India, and the Census Commissioner himself, while recently on leave, has had the advantage of consulting Mr. J. A. Baines, C.S.I., the late Census Commissioner for India, Mr. Noel Humphreys, the Assistant Registrar-General for England and Wales, and other statistical authorities in Europe. At the present time, when the resources of the administration are strained by the prevalence of famine over a large area and by the persistence of plague in several localities, much inconvenience would have been caused by calling together from all parts of the country officers whose services are required in their own Provinces.

3 With his Despatch of the 11th May 1899, the Secretary of State forwarded letters from the Registrar-General and from Mr. Baines containing certain suggestions for simplifying the procedure and reducing the particulars recorded for the bulk of the population. Local Governments and Administrations have been consulted on the subject, and the Census Commissioner has submitted his final proposals regarding the date on which the Census should be taken, the form in which information should be collected, and the instructions to be issued to the enumerators. It now remains for the Governor-General in Council to pass orders on these points.

4. The Census will be taken on the night of Friday, the 1st March 1901. The selection of the particular date is determined by several considerations. The moon will be at the full on the 5th March, and there will be light enough on the 1st to enable the enumerators to complete the work of checking the schedules before midnight; while on that date the people will not ordinarily have gone to the sacred rivers to attend the lunar bathing festivals. Auspicious days for marriages must be avoided and also the greater festivals and important fairs which take people away from their homes on a large scale. The date proposed complies with all these conditions, and has been agreed to by Local Governments and Administrations. In some forest and desert tracts a synchronous enumeration may either be wholly impracticable or may have to be carried out on the morning of the 2nd March instead of on the night of the 1st. In such cases Local Governments and Administrations will determine, in consultation with the Census Commissioner, the procedure to be adopted, which will vary with the requirements of the locality, and will report their conclusions for the information of the Government of India.

5. The general and household schedules sanctioned for adoption throughout British India are given as appendices to this Resolution in the form in which they will actually be issued after translation into the various vernacular languages The instructions to enumerators, which are printed inside the cover of the general schedule, have been simplified and reduced in bulk, in view of the relatively illiterate character of the agency employed. They will be supplemented by a set of rules for the guidance of Supervisors and Charge Superintendents, the general lines of which will be laid down by the Census Commissioner, and will be subject to such modifications as local conditions may render necessary.

6. In the general schedule itself the headings for sex, age, civil condition (married, unmarried or widowed) and birthplace deal with facts which are recognized as important for the purpose of comparative international statistics, and there can be no doubt as to the necessity for retaining them. In regard to the other headings dealing with religion, caste, occupation, language, ability to read and write English or a vernacular language, and mental or physical infirmity, the question of maintaining uniformity with the procedure of other nations does not arise, and they have to be considered merely with reference to the administrative utility and the intrinsic interest of the information which they are intended to record.

7. In connexion with religion it has been suggested that, as on the last occasion, a subsidiary column should be added showing the sect to which each person belongs. After considering this point in its separate bearing on the Christian and non-Christian population the Governor-General in Council has determined that the sects of Christians should be recorded, but has decided in the case of non-Christian sects to leave the matter to the discretion of Local Governments, who may either omit sects altogether, or, if they wish to have figures for particular sects only, may direct the enumerators to ascertain by special inquiry the number and distribution of those sects. This can readily be done by means of the rules for the guidance of Supervisors and Superintendents referred to in paragraph 5 above. Or again, if this course is considered open to objection, the names of all sects might be recorded, but only those abstracted which are thought to be of special interest or importance. The case of Europeans and Eurasians is met by the rule for filling up column 4 of the household schedule, which instructs people to enter

It is more difficult to obtain an accurate record of the sects or denominations of Native Christians, but the Government of India hope that comparative accuracy may be secured by directing the enumerators to enquire specially to what denomination the persons enumerated belong, and by asking the heads of the various missions to instruct their people as to the answers to be given.

8. In order to simplify the final tables and expedite the publication of the results, Mr. Risley has proposed that the heading for caste should be omitted and the return of 1901 made use of as a standard until 1911. The balance of opinion, however, is strongly in favour of retaining this heading, and the Governor-General in Council accepts this view, both on the general ground taken by Mr. Risley, namely, that "the whole social fabric of India rests upon caste", and for the special reason that the caste statistics afford the best clue to the progress of the movement which Sir Alfred Lyall describes as "the gradual Brahmanising of the aboriginal, non-Aryan or casteless tribes," and to the changes in respect of widow and infant marriage which are known to be going on. There will be no heading for sub-caste, but this will not preclude Local Governments, who may consider it desirable to procure statistics for any particular sub-caste, from undertaking such inquiries on the lines indicated in paragraph 7.

9. The treatment of occupation for Census purposes is everywhere recognized as a matter of extreme difficulty, and in India the subject is further complicated by the vague and general descriptions which the people give of their means of livelihood and by the fact that many industries are at present only imperfectly specialized. On this point the Governor-General in Council accepts the proposals of the Census Commissioner as set forth in columns 9, 10 and 11 of the schedule and the rules for filling them up. These are in general accord with the views of the latest International Conference on Statistics and with the practice of several European countries, and they promise to avoid the confusion between dependants and actual workers which vitiated the results of the last Census, and at the same time to bring out more clearly the prevalence of double occupations.

10. The remaining columns differ from those used in 1891 only in two respects: the attempt to record persons under instruction has been abandoned, and a separate column has been provided for persons who know English. The former change was recommended by the Census Conference of October 1899; the latter is required by the importance of obtaining a complete record of the English-knowing population. Both proposals are accepted.

11. It is believed that the schedule and instructions now prescribed will be found suitable for use in the Native States, and it is very desirable that those States, which conducted their Census operations in 1891 with conspicuous efficiency, should adopt the same forms and follow the same procedure as the districts of British India.

RESOLUTION.

The Governor-General in Council has had under his consideration a case which occurred in August last in the Saran District, of which Chapra is the head-quarters, and which has attracted much public attention and comment. The salient facts, about which there seems to be little or no dispute, are briefly summarized below. At the time of their occurrence, Mr. Twidell, an officer of not quite five years' standing, was temporarily officiating as Magistrate and Collector of the district. Mr. Bradley, an officer of about the same service, was his District Superintendent of Police, and had for his assistant Mr. Corbett, a probationer, who had been for less than two years in the department. Mr. Simkins was the District Engineer. On the district staff was Maulvi Zakir Hossein, a Deputy Magistrate of 27 years' standing.

2. On the 19th August Mr. Corbett and Mr. Simkins went out to the village of Phulwária, in order to supervise and obtain labour for the repair of certain embankments which protect the surrounding country from dangerous and destructive floods, and the responsibility for maintaining which lies upon the local landholders. In the village they met one Narsingh Singh, a police constable, on sick leave from Jalpaiguri. When required to assist the authorities, this man was insolent to Mr. Corbett, who assaulted him slightly. Narsingh Singh then ran at Mr. Corbett, who knocked him down in self-defence. The man then called upon the villagers, of whom a considerable number were standing round, to help him (láthi chaláo), upon which Mr. Corbett thrashed him severely while he was down, and Mr. Simkins gave him several cuts with his cane. One of the villagers threatened Mr. Simkins with a láthi, but was disarmed by him.

3. On the next morning, which was a Sunday, Narsingh Singh attended at the Chapra hospital to be treated as an out-patient for a certain disease. The Civil Surgeon noticed that he had two black eyes, and, upon asking how he got them, was told that he had been beaten by the Assistant District Superintendent of Police. It appears that the occurrence of the previous day had been discussed in the station; and after leaving the hospital, the Civil Surgeon mentioned to both Mr. Corbett and Mr. Bradley that "Corbett's friend" was in the station. Mr. Bradley immediately sent an Inspector to find the man: but meanwhile Mr. Corbett had himself gone to the hospital, and found Narsingh Singh, whom he brought to Mr. Bradley's house. There Mr. Bradley gave him his choice between resigning and being prosecuted; and on his refusing to resign, the two police officers took him off to Mr. Twidell's house, where, after consultation with the latter, Mr. Corbett lodged a formal complaint against him under Section 353, Indian Penal Code, of assault to deter a public servant from the discharge of his duty, a non-compoundable but bailable offence, for which the police may arrest without warrant. Mr. Twidell accepted the complaint and directed a prosecution, and Narsingh Singh was forthwith placed in confinement. Before the formal complaint was presented, Mr. Bradley had again asked Narsingh Singh whether he would resign, and the latter had agreed to do so; but Mr. Bradley then refused to accept his resignation.

4. Narsingh Singh was tried by Maulvi Zakir Hossein, and eventually convicted of abetment of simple assault (Section 352), and of insult intended to provoke a breach of the peace (Section 504), and sentenced to two months' rigorous imprisonment. At one stage of the trial Mr. Bradley was allowed to assist in the prosecution while sitting on the Bench; and the Deputy Magistrate twice consulted the District Magistrate regarding its conduct, on one occasion in consultation with Mr. Bradley also. Narsingh Singh appealed to the Sessions Judge, Mr. Pennell, and his counsel filed, together with his appeal, an affidavit containing serious allegations against the officers concerned with regard to their conduct in the case. Mr. Pennell called upon Mr. Twidell and, through him, upon Maulvi Zakir Hossein, for an explanation in respect of these allegations. Mr. Twidell declined to submit any explanation; and thereupon Mr. Pennell summoned Messrs. Twidell, Bradley, Corbett, and Simkins, the Maulvi and the Civil Surgeon, as witnesses under Section 428 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Finally, he accepted the appeal, quashed the conviction, and set aside the sentence. And in his judgment he commented at great length and with great severity upon the conduct of all concerned.

5. The Government of Bengal then took up the matter. The conclusions at which His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor arrived, and the action which he took, are set forth in the following extracts from the second letter read in the preamble:—

"Mr. Pennall's strictures on the conduct of the officers are substantially as follows—

(1) that Mr. Corbett did not receive from Narsingh Singh provocation justifying the violence which he used;

(2) that the prosecution of Narsingh Singh was instituted because it was feared that he would otherwise himself proceed criminally against Messrs. Corbett and Simkins;

(3) that Mr. Twidell very improperly interfered by repeatedly discussing the case against Narsingh Singh with Maulvi Zakir Hossein in the course of the trial; and

(4) that Maulvi Zakir Hossein permitted himself to be influenced by Mr. Twidell, and convicted Narsingh Singh on entirely inadequate grounds.

"Both Mr. Twidell and Maulvi Zakir Hossein have asserted their innocence of any improper motive throughout the proceedings in which they were concerned. It is unnecessary to refer to their explanations in detail or to analyse the evidence on which the comments of the Sessions Judge were based. The Lieutenant-Governor's opinion on the various points is clear, and I am now to state it for the information of the Government of India. The orders issued by Mr. Twidell for the repair of the embankments were dictated by a laudable desire on the part of a district officer to prevent the risk of inundations, which would have caused serious loss to the people. It lay on the zamindars and villagers to do what was needed to strengthen the embankments, any wages required for work done being payable by the zamindars, and the deputation of Messrs. Corbett and Simkins to the spot to induce the people to assist was legitimate. The Lieutenant-Governor considers, however, that in the altercation and fracas which took place with Narsingh Singh Mr. Corbett was seriously to blame. He was hasty in first striking the man, and subsequently gave him a severe beating. The man was in a bad state of health, and His Honor is unable to accept the plea that the provocation he gave in any manner justified the treatment to which he was subjected. With regard to the prosecution instituted against Narsingh Singh, the Lieutenant-Governor condemns the conduct of Messrs. Corbett and Bradley, and of Mr. Twidell in particular. Mr. Twidell acted with extreme want of judgment and impropriety in ordering the prosecution, being aware specially that Narsingh Singh had been beaten for his alleged opposition to Messrs. Corbett and Simkins. In the course of the trial also Mr. Twidell's action was open to most serious comment. Subordinate Magistrates may sometimes seek the advice of the District Magistrates in difficult cases, while preserving their own judicial independence. Such consultations between judicial officers are presumably not unknown even in higher Courts. In the present case, however, Mr. Twidell had himself directly ordered the prosecution, and the impropriety of his entering into any discussion of the case with the Deputy Magistrate should have been patent to him. As regards Maulvi Zakir Hossein, the Lieutenant-Governor considers that his conduct of the trial betrayed lamentable weakness of judgment and character. The conviction of Narsingh Singh was bad, and the sentence passed altogether excessive for the offence charged. Mr. Bradley had a smaller share in the case than the officers already named, but the Lieutenant Governor regards him also as deserving of censure for aiding in the institution of the prosecution against Narsingh Singh and for taking an unnecessarily prominent part in the conduct of the prosecution during the trial.

"The Lieutenant-Governor greatly regrets that the officers of the Saran District should, by their proceedings in this case, have brought themselves under the condemnation which must thus be passed upon them. Serious notice of their conduct is necessary, and His Honor has issued the following orders. Mr. Twidell will be barred from promotion to an Officiating Magistrate-Collectorship for one year. Mr. Corbett, who has become entitled to confirmation as an Assistant Superintendent of Police of the second grade, on completely passing the departmental examinations, will not be confirmed for the same period. An expression of the Lieutenant-Governor's severe displeasure will be conveyed to Mr. Bradley: and Maulvi Zakir Hossein will also be admonished. The latter is an old officer who has hitherto borne a blameless reputation."

6. As soon as Mr. Pennell's judgment was brought to the notice of the Government of India, they requested the Bengal Government to furnish them with a full report upon the case. When that report was received, it appeared that the matter had not been completely dealt with, inasmuch as the action of all the parties concerned had not been equally considered. With regard to the judgment of the Sessions Judge, they thought it desirable to invite the opinion of the High Court of Calcutta and to enquire whether the Honorable Judges contemplated taking any action with regard to it. The Honorable Court has now replied that it "is of opinion that certain passages in the judgment are expressed in terms which the Judges cannot but regard as intemperate, and conspicuously wanting in that sense of dignity and self-restraint which ought to characterise judicial utterances," and that an expression of the disapproval of the Court has been communicated to Mr. Pennell.

7. The Governor-General in Council regards this case as one of unusual importance. It exemplifies in an aggravated, but typical, form several evils which from time to time force themselves upon the attention of Government, and which it is upon every ground of the utmost importance to restrain. The action of the executive and of the judicial officers has conduced to give to the facts a notoriety so great as to fall little short of a scandal, and to render it desirable that the Supreme Government should itself deal with the matter.

8. With regard to the fracas that occurred on the 19th August, the Governor-General in Council concurs in the conclusions of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. Whatever the provocation received, Mr. Corbett's action in first assaulting Narsingh Singh was undignified and improper. And if, as appears to have been the case, he knocked him down in self-defence, his conduct in severely thrashing a man who lay at his mercy was lacking in any justification. In judging of his conduct, moreover, it is impossible to forget the fact that he was an English officer of Government; and that the position of such officers imposes upon them a very special responsibility towards the inhabitants of the country, in whose eyes they represent, each according to his degree, the Government of Her Majesty. It is incumbent upon any one so placed to exercise a very special self-restraint in his dealings with the people, and it is necessary that he should be judged in such matters by a specially strict standard.

9. But it is the proceedings which followed after the quarrel of the 19th August that constitute the really serious element in the case. On the 19th a very young officer lost his temper and his judgment, and thrashed a man who had been insolent to him and had attemped to attack him. On the 20th, if the conclusions of the Judge who heard Narsingh Singh's appeal are to be accepted, the Chief Magistrate of the district conspired with his two police officers to screen Mr. Corbett from the consequences of his fault, by prosecuting the man whom the latter had beaten for what was at most a merely technical offence, and for which ample, if not excessive, punishment had already been inflicted; while at a later stage, the District Magistrate and District Superintendent of Police brought improper influence to bear upon the Subordinate Magistrate who was trying the case. No more serious charge could be laid at the door of the officers charged with the administration of criminal police and justice in a district. The Governor-General in Council has therefore examined and considered the facts with the most scrupulous care, and the most anxious desire to do no injustice to any of the parties concerned; and the more so, because he gathers from the Lieutenant-Governor's silence on the point, that His Honor does not accept Mr. Pennell's conclusions, at any rate as to the conspiracy.

10. The result of this examination has been to leave upon the mind of the Governor-General in Council the impression that Messrs. Bradley and Corbett were not so much animated in laying a complaint against Narsingh Singh by a desire to vindicate their outraged authority or to uphold the discipline of the Police force, as they were by a desire to put further pressure upon Narsingh Singh. Such conduct on their part amounted, in the opinion of the Governor-General in Council, to little short of persecution, and was a flagrant abuse of the authority with which as police officers they were entrusted.

11. As regards Mr. Twidell's part in the matter, Mr. Pennell's assertion that he was a party to a conspiracy in order to shield his friends, would, if it were accepted, involve a culpability on his part by so much greater than theirs, as his office and responsibilities were higher. The circumstances are not free from doubt. But the Governor-General in Council, while holding that Mr. Twidell's conduct was both unwise and improper, is prepared to believe that in directing the prosecution he acted in good faith.

12. His subsequent action, in advising the Deputy Magistrate as to the conduct of the case, was unfortunately not less indiscreet. The Governor-General in Council agrees with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor in thinking that Subordinate Magistrates may properly and usefully seek the advice of the District Magistrate on questions arising in cases that are before them, without in any way forfeiting or impairing their judicial independence. But it is essential that the District Magistrate should scrupulously abstain from such consultation, whenever there is possible room for the suggestion that any personal element may color his advice. The question of the union of judicial and executive functions is now under the consideration of the Government of India, and is one upon which much discussion has already been expended. It will be conceded, however, by all parties that when the two functions are united in the same hands it behoves those who exercise them to abstain, not only from any abuse, but also from any semblance of abuse, of the powers thus conferred upon them, and to avoid, with the most scrupulous care, any action that may give reasonable ground for the allegation that the objects of the executive are improperly permitted to influence the independence of the judicial branch of the administration. Both branches have one common object—the good government of the country, and the peace and prosperity of the people; and it is regrettable that there should be either confusion or collision of functions in aiming at this end.

13. The Government of India do not propose to interfere with the orders which the Bengal Government have passed in the case of the executive officers concerned. The punishment inflicted, if not adequate to the offence as it is regarded by the Governor-General in Council, is at least substantial. And His Excellency in Council cannot but regard the lamentable occurrences which he has been discussing, as in some degree due to the fact that there was no officer of age and experience present in the district staff, whose more mature judgment might have prevented them. That this was so is explained by the Bengal Government to have been due partly to an unavoidable accident, but mainly to the regrettable shorthandedness of the executive staff, which is now rapidly disappearing in consequence of increased recruitment.

14. There remains the action of Mr. Pennell, the Sessions Judge who heard Narsingh Singh's appeal. The Governor-General in Council has read with entire agreement the opinion expressed by the High Court upon the nature of Mr. Pennell's judgment. It appears to His Excellency in Council to have been affected by an animus which there was little attempt to conceal. The issue before Mr. Pennell was whether Narsingh Singh had or had not been rightly convicted and sentenced. But it is clear that Mr. Pennell was even more concerned with the conduct of the executive officers than with the guilt or innocence of Narsingh Singh, and that those officers who had been summoned as witnesses virtually occupied the position of accused, though put on oath to criminate themselves. While it is inevitable that a Judge should comment upon the conduct of the executive in so far as it bears upon the issue which he is trying, and while it is proper that he should bring to the notice of the superior authority any abuse of power which may seem to him to have taken place, there is yet a corresponding responsibility imposed upon him for the discreet and proper use of the liberty of enquiry and of comment which is essential to the due discharge of judicial duties. In the present case the Governor-General in Council is in concurrence with the High Court in thinking that this discretion was altogether ignored.

15. Such are the conclusions to which the Governor-General in Council has been led regarding a case which, while discreditable to the majority of the officers concerned, has also cast discredit upon the Government to which those officers belong. Cases of such a serious nature are fortunately of rare occurrence; but when they do occur the authority and prestige of Government are materially weakened. It is to be hoped that the public attention which has been called to the present incident, and the notice which the Government of India have been compelled to take of the matter, may prevent the recurrence of similar events in the future, and may be productive of good in vindicating that high standard to which it is essential that British administration in this country should steadily conform.

ORDER—Ordered that the Resolution be communicated to all Local Governments and Administrations, with the request that it may be published in the local official Gazettes.

Ordered, also, that the Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India for general information, and that a copy be forwarded to the High Court, Calcutta, for information.

[True Extract.]

J. P. HEWETT,

Secretary to the Government of India.

12. His subsequent action, in advising the Lieutenant-Governor as to the [illegible] of the [illegible], was unfortunately not less indiscreet. The [illegible] with the Head of the Lieutenant-Governor in that [illegible] may properly and usually seek the advice of the [illegible] that are [illegible] in [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. It is essential that the [illegible] [illegible] from early consultation, whenever there is possible [illegible] for [illegible] [illegible] may offer his advice. The [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] functions is now under the [illegible] of the Government of [illegible] upon which much discussion has [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that when the two functions are united in the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] it is [illegible], not only that the [illegible] [illegible] of the powers [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] any action that may give [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] executive are improperly [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] administration [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of the country, and the [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that there should be either confusion or [illegible] in [illegible] [illegible].

13. The Government of India do not propose to interfere with the [illegible] the Bengal Government have passed in the case of the executive officers concerned. The punishments inflicted, if not adequate to the offence that is regarded by the Governor-General in Council, is at least substantial. And His Excellency in Council cannot [illegible] regard the lamentable occurrence which has been [illegible] [illegible] in some [illegible] [illegible] doubt that there was no officer of age and experience [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] mature judgment might have prevented them. That this was so [illegible] by the Bengal Government to have been due partly to an unavoidable accident, but mainly to the [illegible] of the executive staff which is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] consequence of increased recruitment.

14. There remains the action of Mr. [illegible], the Sessions Judge, who tried [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the opinion expressed by the High Court upon the nature of Mr. [illegible] [illegible]. It appears to His Excellency in Council [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] little attempt to conceal [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Mr. [illegible] was [illegible] though he had not been [illegible] convicted and sentenced. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] even more concerned with the [illegible] of the executive officers [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of innocence of [illegible] [illegible] and that these officers who had been [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] occupied the position of [illegible] though [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] themselves. While it is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] so far as it [illegible] upon the [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] should [illegible] to the [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to have taken place, there is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] for the discreet and proper use of that [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] which is essential to the [illegible] discharge of judicial [illegible]. In the present case the Governor-General in Council is in [illegible] with the High Court in [illegible] that this [illegible] was [illegible] [illegible].

15. Such are the conclusions to which the Governor-General in Council has [illegible] led regarding a case which [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] has [illegible] discredit upon the [illegible] [illegible] to which these [illegible] belong. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] nature [illegible] fortunately [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] they do occur the [illegible] and practice of Government are [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] public attention which has been called to the present [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] which the Government of India have been compelled to take of the matter [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of similar events in the future, and may be productive [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to which it is essential that British administration [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] conform.

VICTORIA BY THE GRACE OF GOD OF THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND QUEEN, DEFENDER OF THE FAITH, EMPRESS OF INDIA.

To all to whom these presents shall come.

Greeting.—WHEREAS We, taking into Our Royal consideration that there do not exist adequate means whereby We can reward important and useful services rendered to Us in Our Indian Empire in the advancement of the public interests of Our said Empire, and taking also into consideration the expediency of distinguishing such services by some mark of Our Royal favour: Now for the purpose of attaining an end so desirable as that of thus distinguishing such services aforesaid, We have instituted and created, and by these presents for Us, Our Heirs and Successors, do institnte and create, a new Decoration,—to be designated as hereinafter described,—and We are graciously pleased to make, ordain, and establish the following Rules and Ordinances for the government of the same which shall from henceforth be inviolably observed and kept:

Firstly.—It is ordained that this Decoration shall henceforth be styled and designated "The Kaisar-i-Hind Medal for Public Service in India."

Secondly.—It is ordained that any person without distinction of race, occupation, position, or sex, shall be eligible for this Decoration who shall have distinguished himself (or herself) by important and useful service in the advancement of the public interest in India.

Thirdly.—It is ordained that there shall be two classes of the Decoration to be styled respectively "The Kaisar-i-Hind Medal for Public Service in India" of the First Class, and "The Kaisar-i-Hind Medal for Public Service in India" of the Second Class.

Fourthly.—It is ordained that awards of the Medal of the First Class shall be made by Us, Our Heirs and Successors, by Warrant under Our Sign Manual and countersigned by One of Our Principal Secretaries of State and such awards shall only be made on a recommendation to Us by Our Secretary of State for India.

Fifthly.—It is ordained that awards of the Medal of the Second Class shall be made by Our Governor General of India for the time being.

Sixthly.—It is ordained that the Medal shall consist of an oval shaped Badge or Decoration—in gold for the First Class and in silver for the Second Class—with Our Royal Cypher in the centre on one side and on the reverse the word "Kaisar-i-Hind for Public Service in India" and that it shall be suspended on the left breast by a dark blue ribbon.

Seventhly.—It is ordained that the names of those persons to whom a Medal of either class may be awarded shall be published in the Gazette of India and in the Gazette of the Local Government under the jurisdiction of which the service was rendered, and shall be entered in all Civil and Official lists, and that a registry of such name shall be kept in the Office of the Home Department of the Government of India.

Eighthly.—It is ordained that if any one, after having received either of the Medals, again renders such service as, if he had not received such Medals, would have entitled him to it, such further service shall be recorded by a bar attached to the ribbon by which the Medal is suspended: and for every such additional service an additional bar may be added.

Ninthly.—In order to make such additional provisions as shall effectually preserve pure this honourable Decoration, it is ordained that if any person on whom the Medal of the First Class is conferred be guilty of any crime or disgraceful conduct which in Our Judgment disqualifies him for the same, his name shall, by an especial Warrant under Our Sign Manual, to be countersigned by One of Our Principal Secretaries of State, be forthwith erased from the lists of those upon whom the said Decoration shall have been conferred and his Medal forfeited and returned to Us, Our Heirs and Successors: and in the case of those who have been awarded Medals of the Second Class, such erasure of their names from the lists of those upon whom the said Decoration shall have been conferred and forfeiture of their Medals shall be effected under the Order of Our Governor General of India for the time being, to whom their Medals shall be returned. And every person to whom the said Medal is given shall, before receiving the same, enter into an engagement to return the same if his name shall be earsed as aforesaid.

Provided that We, Our Heirs and Successors, shall at all times have power to restore the Medal of the First Class to any person who may have been deprived of it when circumstances render such resortation just and expedient, and that in like circumstances Our Governor General of India for the time being shall have power by his Order to restore the Medal of the Second Class to any person who may have been deprived of it.

Lastly.—We reserve to Ourselves, Our Heirs and Successors, full power of annulling, altering, abrogating, augmenting, interpreting, or dispensing with these Regulations or any part thereof by a Notification under Our Royal Sign Manual.

Any objection to the proposed order or suggestions thereon should be transmitted in writing to the Secretary to the Government of India in the Foreign Department, by the 2nd day of July, 1900, on which date the proposed scheme will be taken into further consideration.

Draft of a scheme for the administration of the proposed Trust.

1. The Trust shall be known as the Indian People's Famine Trust.

2. The purpose of the Trust shall be the alleviation by grants of money or otherwise of general distressed caused by failure or destruction of the crops or by any calamity of like nature either in British India or in any Native States.

3. The income of the securities so as aforesaid vested in the Treasurer and of such other securities (if any) as may at any time hereafter be in like manner so vested for the purpose of the Trust, shall be administered by a Board of Management (hereinafter referred to as "the Board") consisting of the following persons :—

(a) Five persons appointed by the Governor-General in Council, of whom three shall be in the executive service of the Government.

(b) Five persons appointed, respectively, by the Local Governments of Madras, Bombay, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab.

(c) Two persons appointed, respectively, by the Agents to the Governor-General in Rajputana and Central India.

(d) One person appointed by His Highness the Maharaja of Jaipur for the time being.

(e) Any persons becoming life-members under clause 14.

The Governor-General in Council shall also appoint the Chairman of the Board from among the members.

4. Each appointed member of the Board shall hold office during the pleasure of the authority by whom he has been appointed.

Provided that a member who is absent from India for a period exceeding eight months shall cease to be a member of the Board, but may, notwithstanding, be re-appointed thereto on a vacancy hereafter occurring. Provided also that any member may resign his place at the Board, by notice in writing, addressed to the Chairman.

5. During any vacancy in the Board the continuing members may act as if no vacancy had occurred.

6. The Chairman may convene meetings of the Board at such times and places as he may consider necessary and convenient for the transaction of business, and at all meetings four members shall form a quorum.

7. The Board shall frame bye-laws for the regulations of its proceedings, the maintenance of accounts, and the like.

8. No grant for the relief of distress shall, at any time, be made by the Board unless and until the existence of general and severe privation over a considerable area has been notified to it by the Governor-General in Council.

9. When the existence of distress has been so notified to the Board, the Board, after considering all the information regarding it which may have been transmitted by the Governor-General in Council or by the Local Government or Native State in which the distress exists, may, if it think fit, make a grant for relief.

10. Before paying over the amount of any such grant, the Board shall satisfy itself that the money granted will be expended in one or more of the following ways, namely :

Firstly.—In supplementing the subsistence ration of the Famine Codes by the addition of small comforts, whether of food or of clothing, for the aged or infirm, for patients in hospitals, for children and the like.

Secondly.—In providing for the maintenance of orphans.

Thirdly.—In relieving pardah nashin women and persons in distressed circumstances who by social or caste conditions are debarred from applying for State relief and from submitting to the ordinary tests of distress prescribed in the Famine Codes.

Fourthly.—In helping to re-establish impoverished agriculturists and others who have lost substantially the whole of their capital in the period of distress, and thereby giving them a fresh start in life.

Fifthly.—In providing for any object specially recommended to the Board by the Governor-General in Council.

11. When a grant is made for relief by the Board, the Board shall, unless otherwise authorised by the Governor-General in Council, pay over the grant for expenditure as follows :

(1) To a Central Relief Committee, if a General Relief Committee shall have been established for the time being to administer Famine Charitable Relief funds in all parts of India.

(2) To a Relief Committee established in the Province in which distress prevails, should no Central Relief Committee have been established.

(3) If neither a Central Relief Committee nor a Provincial Relief Committee shall have been established, then to such person or persons as the Board may appoint in the locality where the distress prevails, the Board having first satisfied itself that proper arrangements for the distribution of relief through trustworthy agents have been made.

12. (1) Subject to any general or special orders which the Governor-General in Council may issue in this behalf, the Board may at its discretion invest any monies in its possession, and not being immediately required for expenditure on relief, in or upon the securities specified in section 4 (3) of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, and may vary and realise such investments.

(2) Any monies so invested shall be invested in the joint names of not less than two of the members of the Board.

(3) Provided that the Board may at any time apply to the Governor-General in Council that any securities for money so held may be vested in the Treasurer on the same trusts as the original Endowment Fund and as part of the eddowments.

13. The Board may accept for the purpose of addition to the original Endowment Fund any securities for money of the kinds specified in section 4 (3) of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, not being of smaller amount in each case than Rs. 10,000 in face value, that may be so offered to it for acceptance by any person or persons. The Board shall notify each such donation to the Governor-General in Council, and shall jointly with the donor apply that the said securities be vested in the Treasurer on the same trusts as the original Endowment Fund and as part of the endowment.

14. Any person who thus subscribes a sum of not less than Rs. 5,00,000 shall become a life member of the Board.

15. (1) The Board may accept from a Central or Provincial Charitable Relief Committee the unexpended balances of any monies at the Committee's disposal which the Committee on terminating its operations may wish to make over to the Board for expenditure hereafter on the relief of distress. Such monies shall not be added to the original Endowment Fund, but shall be retained by the Board in current account or temporarily invested in the manner specified in sub-clauses (1) and (2) of clause 12.

(2) Subject to any general or special orders which the Governor-General in Council may issue in this behalf, the Board may similarly accept and dispose of any sums of money of less amount than Rs. 10,000 that may be presented to it from any other source.

16. The Board shall at all times conform to, and abide by, any rules relating to the administration of endowments under the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, which the Governor-General in Council in exercise of the powers conferred by section 13 of that Act, may from time to time see fit to make: and in particular the Board shall submit abstracts of its accounts and reports on the administration of the money entrusted to it to such public servant, in such form and at such times as the Governor-General in Council may by such rules prescribe; and shall, when called upon by any public servant appointed by the Governor-General in Council to be auditor of its accounts, produce any books, papers, vouchers and documents which may appear to him to be necessary for purposes of audit.

THREE-AND-A-HALF PER CENT. LOAN OF 1900-1.

His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor-General in Council has resolved to borrow three hundred lakhs of rupees for the public service in the following manner:

2. Promissory Notes will be issued for the said amount, bearing interest at the rate of Three-and-a-half Per Centum Per Annum, payable half-yearly on the 30th day of June and the 31st day of December. The notes will be in the form annexed to this Notification and they will not be discharged before the 31st day of December 1920, nor until the expiration of three months after notice of payment to be published in the Government Gazette.

Tenders.

3. Tenders for the whole or any part of the said amount of Rs. 3,00,00,000 will be received by the Comptroller-General from this date to noon of Wednesday, the 4th July next. Tenders must be for sums of 100 Rupees or 300 Rupees or multiples of those sums.

4. Each tender must be addressed, in the form annexed to this Notification, to the Comptroller-General, Calcutta, and enclosed in a closed cover, superscribed "Tender for the Three-and-a-half Per Cent. Loan." If the tenderer is not resident in India, he must name an agent resident in India to whom an allotment-certificate may be issued, if any part of the loan is allotted to such tenderer.

NOTE.—Tenders made in accordance with these instructions will also be received by the Accountants-General at Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, and Lahore, on account of the Comptroller-General, Calcutta, on the 3rd July and up to the local time corresponding to 12 o'clock in Calcutta on the 4th July; provided that—

(a) they are delivered personally or by clerk or messenger at the Accountant-General's Office (where a receipt will be given for them);

(b) they are made on printed forms, to be obtained at the same office or at the local Presidency Bank;

(c) each tender is for not less than Rs. 10,000;

(d) the deposit is either a promissory note or a Treasury Receipt from the local Office of the Presidency Bank, or a cheque on a local Bank in favour of the Accountant-General;

(e) the amount of the tender is made payable either in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, or Lahore;

and the Accountant General will return deposits on non-accepted tenders, and will issue allotment-cetificates so far as the tenders are payable in Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, or Lahore.

5. The rate at which each tender is made must be specified in rupees or rupees and annas: a tender in which no rate is thus specified, but a subscription is offered in some other terms—as, for example, at the recorded minimum, or at some specified percentage in addition to the recorded minimum, or at the average of the accepted tenders—will be rejected as null and void.

6. The rate at which a tender is made must not contain a fraction of an anna: if a rate containing a fraction of an anna is inserted in any tender, such fraction will be struck out and the tender treated as if the rate did not contain such fraction of an anna.

Deposits.

7. Each tender must be accompanied by a deposit of not less than one-hundredth, or, if the tender be for less than Five Lakhs of Rupees, then for not less than one-fiftieth part of the tender. The deposit must be in one of the following forms: (a) a receipt for the amount from the Head Office of the Bank of Bengal, or Madras, or Bombay, or one of their Branches, or from an officer in charge of some Public Treasury, or (b) a cheque drawn in favour of the Comptroller-General on a Bank in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, or Lahore, or (c) Government Promissory Notes[1] standing in the name of, or endorsed to, the tenderer or the person making the deposit.

[1] It is particularly requested that such Promissory Notes may NOT be endorsed to the Comptroller-General.

8. (a) Deposits, not being promissory notes, will, in the case of accepted tenders be credited proportionately in part payment of the allotment-certificates issued in respect of the tender, and will bear interest for the purpose of clause 16 below from the date of the opening of tenders. When a tender is not accepted in full, the deposits, when they are not in the form of promissory notes, will be credited as far as possible proportionately in even tens of rupees in part payment of the allotment-certificates issued in respect of it. If any allotment-certificate is not fully taken up, the deposit credited in respect of it will be forfeited.

(b) Promissory notes deposited in respect of any accepted tender will be held until all the allotment-certificates issued in respect of the tender are paid up, and will, if the allotment-certificates are not fully taken up, be appropriated by the Government and cancelled.

Opening of Tenders.

9. The Governor-General in Council reserves the right to declare, on or before the 27th June, the minimum rate at which tenders will be accepted. If not so declared, the said minimum rate will be recorded under the signature of the Comptroller-General, and, before the tenders are opened, placed upon the table in a sealed envelope, but will not be declared unless some tender is rejected only because it is below the recorded minimum.

10. Tenders will be opened publicly by the Comptroller-General at the Treasury Buildings, Calcutta, at noon (Calcutta time), on Wednesday, the 4th July next, and those received under the terms of the note under clause 4 will be similarly opened by the Accountants-General at Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, and Lahore at the local time corresponding to noon Calcutta time, on the same day; but the contents of the tenders will not be disclosed otherwise than as provided in clause 12.

11. Tenders at rates not below the minimum rate will be accepted in the order of the rates tendered, beginning with the highest rate. The amount allotted at the lowest rate at which tenders are accepted will be divided amongst those who have tendered at this rate in proportion, as nearly as may be found convenient, to the amounts of their tenders; provided that no allotment will be issued if the amount distributable on any tender is less than Rs. 100: preference will however be given to small tenders, not exceeding Rs. 2,000, at the lowest rate, such tenders receiving allotments in full as far as possible.

Allotment-Certificates.

12. To each tenderer (or to his agent) whose tender is accepted in whole or in part such number of allotment-certificates as may be necessary to make up the aggregate amount allotted to him will be issued by the Comptroller-General[2] as soon as possible after the 4th July; and an alphabetical list of the names of those to whom such allotment-certificates are issued will be posted for general information at the Head Offices of the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay.

13. If the allotment made on any tender is less than Rs. 3,000, then the whole of the allotment-certificates (after credit of the deposit under clause 8 (a)) will be made payable upon the 20th August.

Otherwise the whole amount of each allotment will be divided into three instalments as follows:

Instalment I.—As near as convenient to 35 per cent., but not exceeding 35 per cent., payable upon the 20th July:

T. W. HOLDERNESS,

No. 1806-P., dated Calcutta, the 31st May, 1900.

From—S. C. HILL, Esquire, Offg. Secretary under the Inventions and Designs Act,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Revenue and Agriculture.

I HAVE the honour to submit, for the information of the Government of India, the following report on the working of the office of the Secretary under the Inventions and Designs Act of 1888 during the calendar year 1899.

2. Mr. G. W. Forest held charge of the office up to the 9th March 1899, when he proceeded on furlough and I took over the duties of the Secretary.

3. The number of applications filed under Part I of the Act was the same as in the previous year, but there was a falling-off in the case of those received from residents in India, only one hundred and fifty-two out of a total of four hundred and eighty-one having been lodged against one hundred and seventy-one in 1898. Of these, thirty-four were from natives of the country, or eleven less than in the year before.

There was a corresponding increase in the number of applications from Europe and elsewhere, the figures of 1898 and 1899 having stood at three hundred and ten and three hundred and twenty-nine, respectively. Of the inventions for which protection was sought, forty-eight were connected with railways, forty-six with electrical contrivances, twenty-one with lamps and burners, fifteen with acetylene gas, fourteen with bicycles and other similar vehicles, as many with the treatment of fibres, eleven with elegraphy, and nine with the pulling of punkahs.

4. At the commencement of the year eighty-two applications of 1898 were pending of which five were rejected and three were abandoned, leave to file specifications being granted in the remaining cases. As regards the applications lodged during the year under report, permission to file specifications was accorded in three hundred and seventy-five instances, and refused in fifteen, while four were treated as abandoned and eighty-seven remained undisposed of on the 31st December 1899, eleven being in the hands of experts.

5. There was a marked increase in the number of references to paid and departmental experts, these having stood at one hundred and twenty-four as compared with sixty-six in the previous year. Fees were paid in twelve cases.

6. Four hundred and fifteen specifications were filed, being six in excess of 1898.

7. The number of exclusive privileges kept alive by payment of the prescribed fees rose from three hundred and eight in 1898 to three hundred and thirty, while two hundred and thirty-five privileges or twenty-three less than the previous year ceased.

8. The applications for the registration of designs numbered twenty as against sixteen in 1898. Of these nine were registered and six were refused, the remainder remaining undisposed of at the close of the year.

9. The gross revenue rose by over two thousand rupees, having been Rs. 38,743-2-0, while that of the previous year was Rs. 36,303-9-0. This sum was mainly made up by fees collected for the continuance of privileges and the filing of specifications.

10. Ten models were received in the Museum during the year under report.

11. The usual statistics are given in the appended statement.

JUDICIAL.

Simla, the 28th June, 1900.

No. 928.—In exercise of the power conferred by section 4, sub-section (1), of the Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct that the following addition be made to Part III of the first schedule to the said Act:

"6. Application of the test to viscous fluids or preparations, such as solutions of India-rubber in mineral naphtha, or thick paint made with that material.

About a teaspoonful of the substance to be tested is placed in the cup, and the cover fitted with a thermometer is put on.

The cup thus prepared for the test is then cooled down until the thermometer indicates a temperature of 50° F. This may be accomplished either by placing the prepared cup in a refrigerator, or by immersing it up to its projecting collar in water which is maintained at a sufficiently low temperature until the result specified has been obtained.

The prepared cup thus cooled is then transferred to the water bath, the temperature of which has previously been raised to 76° F. (The scale of the thermometer in the water bath should range from 60° to 180° F.)

The test is then applied as described in section 4 of this part. If no flash has taken place when the temperature in the cup has reached 75°, the test need not be continued.

The temperature at which the flash occurs is the observed flashing point of the substance and, subject to correction of atmospheric pressure as prescribed in the Act, is the true flashing point."

PROSPECTUS.

THE Exhibition, which it has been decided to hold in Glasgow in the Summer of 1901, will, it is believed, be one of the most important International Exhibitions held in Great Britain in recent years.

Her Majesty the Queen has been graciously pleased to lend her patronage to the undertaking, and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has kindly consented to become Vice-Patron.

The undertaking has already met with hearty and widespread support among all classes, and in the list of Office-bearers will be found many of the leading Noblemen and Gentlemen of Great Britain and Ireland, as well as the civic heads of the principal towns of the United Kingdom. The Guarantee Fund now exceeds £447,000, and is still being increased.

The Exhibition will be held on the same site as that of 1888, and will be under similar control. While not following lines identical with those of the Exhibition of 1888, its attractions and success may reasonably be expected to surpass those of the former Exhibition, which was visited by over six millions of people, and left a clear surplus of £54,000. That surplus, with accumulated interest, has been supplemented by the subscriptions of private citizens to the amount of £74,346, and is being expended in the erection of Fine Art Galleries, which will form a principal part of the Exhibition building of 1901. When completed, these Galleries will have cost about £172,000.

The site, which extends to 67 acres, has been granted by the Corporation of Glasgow, and is one of exceptional beauty and convenience. It comprises the western portion of the Kelvingrove Park and the Bunhouse Grounds. The River Kelvin intersects t at various points, and the slopes of Gilmorehill, crowned by the University Buldings, constitute a dignified and appropriate boundary on the north.

The City itself lies in the centre of the great manufacturing and ship-building industries of Scotland, and has a population of over three-quarters of a million. It is surrounded by densely populated districts, while Edinburgh and other large cities are within about one hour's railway journey. The tourist routes to the Western Highlands radiate from Glasgow.

The scope of the Exhibition will be wide and general. It is intended that it should present a full illustration of the Produce and Manufactures of the British Empire, its Dependencies, Dominions, and Colonies, and that an adequate representation from other countries should also be arranged. For these purposes special courts will be provided.

The Exhibition will be divided into sections, among which the following will receive particular attention, viz. :—" Fine Art History, and Archæology, " " Locomotion and Transport, " " Electricity, " " Labour-Saving Machinery, " " Marine Engineering, " " The Women's Section, " and " Sports." The Fine Art Section will be a very special feature of the Exhibition, and will include a large and extensive Collection of Sculpture and Paintings illustrative of Fine Art of the Nineteenth Century.

Musical Entertainments, both vocal and instrumental ; Lectures, scientific and otherwise ; Illuminations ; sports and recreations of every kind will be provided for the enjoyment of visitors. Restaurants, Tea Rooms, and other places of refreshment will be provided in the grounds ; and Postal, Telegraphic, Banking, and other facilities will be vailable within the buildings for the convenience of the Exhibitors and of the public.

The buildings which it is proposed to construct will cover about 13 acres, in addition to the Permanent Art Galleries, and will be erected according to plans prepared by competent architects. The ornamental flower plots, pond, and fountains of the Kelvingrove Park will be included in the Exhibition Grounds ; and the Terraces in front of the University are well adapted for the effective display of electric lighting and pyrotechnic illuminations, as well as for musical promenades and other entertainments, which it is intended to provide.

The River Kelvin will be available for the Exhibition of Naval Ship-building and Life-saving Apparatus, either in motion or stationary. The reach of the river which can be utilised for this purpose has a length of 1,500 feet, a width of 90 feet, and a depth of 6 feet.

The situation of the Exhibition Buildings is specially convenient of access for Exhibitors, as, by means of the lines of rails, which will be carried into the Exhibition Grounds at more than one point, heavy goods can be delivered at a minimum cost and with the least possible amount of risk. In addition to this, the port of Glasgow offers a cheap and ready means for the delivery and redelivery of sea-borne goods.

It is requested that all communications in regard to the Exhibition may be addressed to Mr. H. A. HEDLEY, General Manager and Acting Secretary.

REGULATIONS FOR EXHIBITORS.

Date.

1. AN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, under the patronage of Her Majesty the Queen, will be held in Glasgow in 1901.

Opening.

2. The Exhibition will be opened early in May, and will continue open for a period of about six months.

Objects.

3. The principal objects to be exhibited are comprised in the accompanying Classification, which must not be considered to be exhaustive.

Non-competitive.

4. It is not intended to issue any awards.

Expenses to be borne by Exhibitors.

5. Charge will be made for space, except in special cases to be determined by the Exhibits and Space Committee. The charge for space inside the building will be 3s. per square foot, with a minimum charge of £5. Whatever vacant space Exhibitors require around their exhibits, beyond the usual passages, will have to be paid for. Exhibitors requiring wall-space only must mention the fact when making application, when they will be informed on what conditions it will be granted. Space in the grounds will be let on special terms to be arranged by the Committee, but in such cases plans must accompany the application, and all surface damage must be made good by the Exhibitor on removal. Payment to the extent of 25 per cent. of the amount payable must accompany all applications, and the balance must be forwarded on receipt of the notice of allotment. In no case, however, can the deposit be less than the minimum charge of £5. Exhibits will not be admitted until payment for space has been made in full. Spaces not occupied seven days previous to the opening of the Exhibition will be otherwise allotted, and all payments made in respect thereof absolutely forfeited. Exhibitors will have to pay all expenses of conveying, delivering, arranging, fixing, and removing their exhibits, and also the cost of the erection of all fixtures, screens, and counters required; and they must personally, or by a representative, superintend the transmission, reception, unpacking, installation, and (at the close of the Exhibition) the removal of their goods. The Executive Council reserve to themselves the right of doing whatever may be considered necessary at the expense of the Exhibitor, unless this regulation is strictly complied with. The Executive Council will not be responsible for any loss of exhibits by theft, or for any loss or damage to exhibits, from any cause whatever.

Motive Power.

6. Steam, and power from the main shafting, will be supplied to Exhibitors in the Machinery Hall by the Executive Council free of charge, and subject to special regulations. Exhibitors requiring motive power must fill up the special Application Form which has been prepared for this Section, and which will be supplied by the General Manager upon application. Exhibitors requiring counter-shafting, pulleys, belting, cables, pipes and fittings must supply these at their own expense.

Applications Exhibit.

7. Schedules of Applications for Space and for Power may be had from the General Manager, Mr. H. A. HEDLEY, 36 St. Vincent Place, Glasgow. These must be filled up and returned on or before 1st June 1900. The decision of the Exhibits and Space Committee will be notified as soon as possible after that date.

Nature of Exhibits.

8. The nature of the articles which it is proposed to exhibit must be fully specified in the Form of Application for Space, and no article which is not clearly described in the Application Form will be allowed in the Exhibition without the special permission of the Exhibits and Space Committee.

Right to refuse Exhibits.

9. The Executive Council reserve the right to refuse any exhibit, without stating any reason for so doing.

Foreign and Colonial Exhibits.

10. The Foreign and Colonial Commissioners or Commercial Agents appointed by the respective Governments are invited to communicate with the General Manager. The Executive Council will place at their disposal all information and plans that may be useful to them.

Foreign Countries.

11. Applicants for space from countries in which no Commissioner or Agent has been appointed will correspond directly with the General Manager.

Railway Rates.

12. The Executive Council will endeavour to obtain from the various Railways, Steamship Companies, and Carriers special terms for the conveyance of Exhibitors' goods to and from the Exhibition, and these arrangements will be communicated to intending Exhibitors.

Marks on Packages.

13. All packages containing goods for Exhibition must have painted on two sides the distinctive mark [G. I. E. 1901.] The name and address of the Exhibitor, and the allotment number of the space must also be given. Labels for this purpose will be supplied to each Exhibitor.

Marks on Foreign Packages.

2. The purpose of the Trust shall be the alleviation by grants of money or otherwise of general distress caused by failure or destruction of the crops or by any calamity of like nature either in British India or in any Native States.

3. The income of the securities so as aforesaid vested in the Treasurer and of such other securities (if any) as may at any time hereafter be in like manner so vested for the purpose of the Trust, shall be administered by a Board of Management (hereinafter referred to as "the Board"), consisting of the following persons:

(a) Five persons appointed by the Governor General in Council, of whom three shall be in the executive service of the Government.

(b) Five persons appointed, respectively, by the Local Governments of Madras, Bombay, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab.

(c) Two persons appointed, respectively, by the Agents to the Governor-General in Rajputana and Central India.

(d) One person appointed by His Highness the Maharaja of Jaipur for the time being.

(e) Any persons becoming life-members under clause 14.

The Governor General in Council shall also appoint the Chairman of the Board from among the members.

4. Each appointed member of the Board shall hold office during the pleasure of the authority by whom he has been appointed.

Provided that a member who is absent from India for a period exceeding eight months shall cease to be a member of the Board, but may, notwithstanding, be re-appointed thereto on a vacancy hereafter occurring. Provided also that any member may resign his place at the Board, by notice in writing, addressed to the Chairman.

5. During any vacancy in the Board the continuing members may act as if no vacancy had occurred.

6. The Chairman may convene meetings of the Board at such times and places as he may consider necessary and convenient for the transaction of business, and at all meetings four members shall form a quorum.

7. The Board shall frame bye-laws for the regulation of its proceedings, the maintenance of accounts, and the like.

8. No grant for the relief of distress shall, at any time, be made by the Board unless and until the existence of general and severe privation over a considerable area has been notified to it by the Governor General in Council.

9. When the existence of distress has been so notified to the Board, the Board, after considering all the information regarding it which may have been transmitted by the Governor General in Council or by the Local Government or Native State in which the distress exists, may, if it think fit, make a grant for relief.

10. Before paying over the amount of any such grant, the Board shall satisfy itself that the money granted will be expended in one or more of the following ways, namely:

Firstly.—In supplementing the subsistence ration of the Famine Codes by the addition of small comforts, whether of food or of clothing, for the aged or infirm, for patients in hospitals, for children and the like.

Secondly.—In providing for the maintenance of orphans.

Thirdly.—In relieving pardah nashin women and persons in distressed circumstances who by social or caste conditions are debarred from applying for State relief and from submitting to the ordinary tests of distress prescribed in the Famine Codes.

Fourthly.—In helping to re-establish impoverished agriculturists and others who have lost substantially the whole of their capital in the period of distress, and thereby giving them a fresh start in life.

Fifthly.—In providing for any object specially recommended to the Board by the Governor General in Council.

11. When a grant is made for relief by the Board, the Board shall, unless otherwise authorised by the Governor-General in Council, pay over the grant for expenditure as follows:

(1) To a Central Relief Committe, if a Central Relief Committee, shall have been established for the time being to administer Famine Charitable Relief funds in all parts of India.

(2) To a Relief Committee established in the province in which distress prevails, should no Central Relief Committee have been established.

(3) If neither a Central Relief Committee nor a Provincial Relief Committee shall have been established, then to such person or persons as the Board may appoint in the locality where the distress prevails, the Board having first satisfied itself that proper arrangements for the distribution of relief through trustworthy agents have been made.

12. (1) Subject to any general or special orders which the Governor General in Council may issue in this behalf, the Board may at its discretion invest any monies in its possession, and not being immediately required for expenditure on relief, in or upon the securities specified in section 4 (3) of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, and may vary and realise such investments.

(2) Any monies so invested shall be invested in the joint names of not less than two of the members of the Board.

(3) Provided that the Board may at any time apply to the Governor General in Council that any securities for money so held may be vested in the Treasurer on the same trusts as the original Endowment Fund and as part of the endowment.

13. The Board may accept for the purpose of addition to the original Endowment Fund any securities for money of the kinds specified in section 4 (3) of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, not being of smaller amount in each case than Rs. 10,000 in face value, that may be so offered to it for acceptance by any person or persons. The Board shall notify each such donation to the Governor General in Council, and shall jointly with the donor apply that the said securities be vested in the Treasurer on the same trusts as the original Endowment Fund and as part of the endowment.

14. Any person who thus subscribes a sum of not less than Rs. 3,00,000 shall become a life-member of the Board.

15. (1) The Board may accept from a Central or Provincial Charitable Relief Committee the unexpended balances of any monies at the Committee's disposal which the Committee on terminating its operations may wish to make over to the Board for expenditure hereafter on the relief of distress. Such monies shall not be added to the original Endowment Fund, but shall be retained by the Board in current account or temporarily invested in the manner specified in sub-clauses (1) and (2) of clause 12.

(2) Subject to any general or special orders which the Governor General in Council may issue in this behalf, the Board may similarly accept and dispose of any sums of money of less amount than Rs. 10,000 that may be paesented to it from any other source.

16. The Board shall at all times conform to, and abide by, any rules relating to the administration of endowments under the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, which the Governor General in Council, in exercise of the powers conferred by section 13 of that Act, may from time to time see fit to make: and in particular the Board shall submit abstracts of its accounts and reports on the administration of the money entrusted to it to such public servant, in such form and at such times as the Governor General in Council may by such rules prescribe; and shall, when called upon by any public servant appointed by the Governor General in Council to be auditor of its accounts, produce any books, papers, vouchers and documents which may appear to him to be necessary for purposes of audit.

IMPERIAL TABLES PRESCRIBED FOR THE CENSUS OF 1901.

Nos. 137—149.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Home Department (Census),—under date Simla, the 3rd August 1900.

Read—

Home Department Resolution No. 30—32, dated the 2nd April 1900.

RESOLUTION.

THE returns attached to this Resolution are prescribed for general adoption in the census of 1901. They comply with the requirements of international statistics and they contain all the information that is necessary for administrative purposes. The principles on which they have been drawn up are more fully stated in the annexed memorandum which explains their relation to the tables annexed to Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{\text{3-Census}}{\text{114—124-A.}}$, dated the 1st July 1890.

2. Some observations and instructions are necessary in connection with the question what should be the unit of compilation of the various tables. For the Imperial Volume of Statistics the unit is the province, state or town. In the provinces there are two sets of statistics, usually printed in separate volumes. These may be called in future Imperial Statistics and Provincial Statistics. The terms used, and the arrangement of the volumes themselves on the occasion of the last census varied in a rather confusing manner, and it seems desirable to make the practice more uniform. For the province the unit of the Imperial Statiatics is the district, state or town, and these statistics should be printed in a separate volume as part of the Imperial Series.

3. The Provincial Statistics are what each province requires for administrative purposes in addition to the Imperial Statistics. The unit of these is whatever happens to be the standard administrative unit subordinate to the district, in Bengal the thána, in the North-Western Provinces the tahsíl, in Burma the township, and so on. It is noticed that, on the occasion of the last census, different units were in some cases adopted in the same Province. For instance, in the North-Western Provinces, Tables I to IV were for the tahsíl, Table V for the pargana, and Tables VI and VII for the police circle. In Assam there were compulsory registration circles, parganas, thánas, outposts, tahsíls, mauzas, etc.

4. Without wishing to interfere unduly with the discretion of Local Governments in a matter of this kind, the Government of India are constrained to point out that there is a tendency to multiply statistics out of all proportion to the use that will ever be made of them. A census offers special temptations to indulge this tendency, and many of the statistics, which are compiled on such an occasion, are open to objection in two ways from the Imperial point of view. They cost money in themselves and they delay the completion of the Census Reports—both forms of expenditure being Imperial charges.

5. The followiug principles should, therefore, be observed:—

(1) the unit of the Provincial Statistics should be the thána, tahsíl or other corresponding unit for rural areas, and the city or town for urban areas;

(2) that unit should, if possible, be the unit of tabulation;

(3) statistics for smaller units should be prepared after the report has been completed, and definite proposals for their compilation should first be submitted to the Government of India.

The cost of any tables prepared for units other than those prescribed will have to be met from Provincial Revenues.

6. The question, however, of the cost of compiling particular tables is a small matter compared with the delay in sending in the report. On the occasion of the last census the Census Commissioner completed his own report on the 10th July 1893, and he had not then received the reports for the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Central India, Baroda and Hyderabad. If the attention of the Superintendents is concentrated on the larger units and figures for minor units are made up afterwards by the Deputy Superintendents of the various compiling offices, the Government of India see no reason why the Provincial Reports should not be completed by April 1902, or within about a year from the date of the census itself.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance, and that a copy be forwarded to the Foreign Department and to the Census Commissioner for India.

Ordered, also, that the Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

J. P. HEWETT,

Secretary to the Government of India.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

(i) Table I (Area, Houses and Population).—This is the same as the old Table I, with a few verbal changes mostly taken from the last English Census Report.

(ii) Table II (Variation in Population since 1872).—This corresponds to old Table II, but takes in four censuses and gives the net variation for the period as well as for each decade. Where there was no census in 1872, the column will be blank, but it should be noted in the column of remarks that the net variation is for 1881 to 1891. Or again, when the first census of a province or state was taken in some year other than 1872, the actual figure should be entered and the year noted.

(iii) Table III (Towns and villages classified by population).—This corresponds to old Table III except that—

(a) following Table 3 (agglomeration de la population) of the "Cadre international pour le Recensement Séculaire au commencement du xx siécle" proposed by the St. Petersburg Conference on Statistics the two classes, under 200 and under 500, of the form of 1890, have been doubled up; and

(b) a column has been added for people enumerated in encampments, boats trains, etc., who cannot be localized in any particular town or village.

(iv) Table IV (Towns classified by population with variation since 1872).—This is the same as old Table IV with the variation extended as in new Table II.

(v) Table V (Towns arranged territorially with population by Religion).—Practically the same as old Table V. Column 2 provides for showing suburbs or cantonments separately, if desired.

(vi) Table VI (Religion).—There is no change. Provinces which show non-Christian sects will sub-divide the heading Hindus and Muhammadans according to requirements.

(vii) Table VII (Age, Sex and civil condition).—This combines old Tables VII and VIII, and the International Tables 4 and 6, which it follows in point of form, omitting the column "Divorced," which is not shown separately in the Indian table. The comparison of persons living at different age-periods and in different sex-groups will be found to be easier in the present table than in the old tables. Four fresh totals are now obtained with only three extra columns, and under the new arrangement there will probably be a considerable saving of space.

(viii) Table VIII (Education).—This takes the place of old Table IX. It adopts age-periods which correspond approximately to primary, secondary and higher education; it shows literacy in English and in such provincial vernaculars as may be selected for tabulation; and it gives, what old Table IX does not give, sex-totals for each age-period.

(ix) Table IX (Education by selected Castes, Tribes or Races).—This is a substitute for old Table C, and its adoption is optional.

(x) Table X (Language).—The same as old Table X.

(xi) Table XI (Birthplace).—This is practically the same as old Table XI. The main heading has been slightly expanded and in head B of column I the word "Districts" has been added in order to enable a province like Assam to show not merely what provinces but what districts of each province supply it with immigrants. In Assam, for example, the returns of 1891 distinguished districts in the case of Bengal only and lumped the North-Western Provinces immigrants. The returns for Bengal were of great interest, and, thought the North-Western Provinces numbers were much smaller, that Government would probably have been glad to know which of its districts were drawn upon by Assam and what part of Assam the emigrants went to.

(xii) Table XII (Infirmities).—This takes the place of old Tables XII—XV inclusive.

(xiii) Table XII-A (Infirmities by selected Castes, Tribes or Races).—This corresponds to Tables XII-A—XV-A inclusive.

(xiv) Table XIII (Caste, Tribe, Race or Nationality).—Corresponds to old Table XVI.

(xv) Table XIV (Civil condition by age for selected Castes). —This is new. Its object is to throw light on (1) the prevalence of infant marriage; (2) the extent of the prohibition of widow re-marriage, and (3) the prevalence of female infanticide. By its limitation to selected castes it is intended that Local Governments and Administrations are not required to compile the table for every caste, however small or unimportant.

(xvi) Table XV (Occupation or means of Livelihood).—This takes the place of old Tables XVII-A, XVII-B and XVII-C. The first of these is omitted because the tables of 1901 will be compiled in full for all cities as defined in the Imperial Census Code, Chapter I, Article 28, viz., (1) every town containing not less than 100,000 inhabitants, and (2) any other town which the Provincial Superintendent, with the sanction of the Local Government, may decide to treat as a city for census purposes.

The old Tables XVII-B and XVII-C are covered by the new Table XV, subject to the following remarks:—

(a) the new table does not give age-periods, but instead of this it distinguishes actual workers from dependents. Ages are only useful in so far as they bear on the question of controlling by law the employment of children in certain occupations, and the Factory Act covers that ground;

(b) it shows occupations combined with agriculture, but does not break up such combined occupations into owners, tenants, labourers, etc.

(xvii) Table XVI (Caste, Tribe and Race by Territorial and actual Occupation).—This is new, and its adoption is optional. If adopted, it should be compiled only for selected castes, tribes or races.

(xviii) Table XVII (Territorial distribution of the Chritian population by Sect and Race).—This takes the place of the old Supplementary Tables A-I and A-II. The arrangement of the form of the table is optional, as some Provinces may prefer to put the sects at the top and the districts at the side.

(xix) Table XVIII (Christians by Race and Age).—Corresponds to the old Supplementary Table B, with some changes in the age-periods.

No. 80.

To His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor General of India in Council.

MY LORD,

Congratulations from India on the success of British arms in South Africa.

I have submitted to Her Majesty the Queen-Empress your letter in the Home Department, No. 30, of the 17th May last, with which you forward congratulations on the success of the British arms in South Africa received from numerous Native Chiefs, public bodies and private individuals throughout India.

2. I have now received Her Majesty's commands to convey to your Excellency the expression of the gratification with which the Queen-Empress has received these tokens of loyalty from every quarter of India, from the ruling Princes of the Native States, and from all classes of her loyal Indian subjects. At a time when many parts of the country are afflicted with famine, pestilence and drought, Her Majesty's subjects, and the Chiefs and people of the Protected States, have alike hastened, in spite of the prevailing distress, to express their joyful sentiments on the occurrence of each success that has been achieved by the military forces of the Queen-Empress, and Her Majesty cordially appreciates the spirit of union and devotion which has called forth their congratulations.

I have the honour to be,

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

RULES FOR TAKING THE CENSUS OF CANTONMENTS AND OF TROOPS ON THE MARCH.

NOS. 168—185.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Home Department (Census),—under date Simla, the 17th August, 1900.

Read—

Home Department Resolution Nos. 30—32, dated the 2nd April 1900.

Home Department Resolution Nos. 137—149, dated the 3rd August 1900.

RESOLUTION.

THE rules issued on the occasion of the last Census for the enumeration of Cantonments and troops on the march were found to work well on the whole and are prescribed for adoption in respect of the Census of 1901, as reproduced with certain slight modifications in the Appendix to this Resolution.

2. In connection with the Census of 1891, the enumeration of the native servants and camp followers of British regiments was found in one Province to have been very badly done, the entries in many instances being incomprehensible. For instance, in one Cantonment the language of some regimental servants was put down as "Mori," probably a mangled version of "Moorish" or "Moors". It seems to the Government of India essential that natives attached to a British regiment should be enumerated by the regimental Munshi or by a Commissariat native official, or by some one selected with reference to his knowledge of their language and customs. Provision has accordingly been made for this in Rule 10.

3. On the occasion of the last Census no provision was made to ensure that a regiment on the march should arrange to make one of its weekly halts on the day of the Census. This is now provided for in Rule 17.

4. The enumeration of troops and military outposts beyond the administrative frontier was not clearly provided for in the rules of 1890. The Government of India are of opinion that in both cases the enumeration should be recorded in the final tables as showing them to form part of the Cantonment or station within the administrative frontier from which, or in connection with which, they are detailed, or which is nearest to the fort they occupy. Rule 20 has been made with a view to this.

5. The Government of India desire that native regiments should be enumerated by vernacular schedules in Urdu, Marathi, Tamil, Telegu, etc., as the case may be. On the last occasion some Commanding Officers prepared the schedules in English. This gives trouble in the abstraction offices, and unless there are special reasons for using English in any case, the general rule now prescribed for all native troops should be followed.

6. Cantonment funds will, as in 1881 and 1891, bear the cost of enumeration; but the schedules will be supplied by Government which will also tabulate the results.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution, with Appendix, be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance and that a copy be forwarded to the Foreign, Finance and Military Departments and to the Census Commissioner for India for information.

APPENDIX.

RULES FOR TAKING THE CENSUS OF CANTONMENTS AND OF TROOPS ON THE MARCH.

A.—Military limits.

1. Within regimental lines, or other purely military limits, the census will be atken by the military authorities.

2. The determination of these limits should be undertaken, as soon as possible after the receipt of these instructions, by the military and civil authorities in consultation with each other, and should be shown on a map, so that both may know clearly the areas for the enumeration of which they are respectively responsible.

3. To prevent mistakes or double enumeration, it is advisable for the military authorities to have their limits cleared, between sunset on the 1st of March 1901 and sunrise on the 2nd idem, of all persons who are not residing temporarily or permanently within those limits as officers of any grade, fighting-men, non-combatents attached to the regiments, the servants of the above, regimental followers, or members of the families of any of these.

4. The census to be taken by the military authorities under the above orders will therefore include all persons, of whatever age, sex, race, or profession, who on the night of the 1st March are temporarily or permanently residing within military limits. In other words, it will include all persons who, though ordinarily residing elsewhere, may on that night be stopping temporarily within those limits; and also those who, while actually living at the time and taking their meals within the same, may be absent for a few hours on night duty, etc.

5. On the receipt of these orders, a list should be prepared showing every house or other building in the area in question which is inhabited, or is likely to be inhabited, on the 1st March. A convenient form for this list is the following:—

HOUSE LIST.

District. Cantonment or Station. Regiment.

Serial No. of house.	Description of house (i.e, barracks, guard-house, dwelling-house, married quarters, followers, quarters, etc.)	Name of chief occupant or officer in charge.	Usual number of occupants.	Language spoken.	Number of household schedules required.
1	2	3	4	5	6

6. If any large building has been divided into separate dwellings or tenements, such as married quarters occupied by distinct families or groups of persons, each of these dwellings should be given a separate number in column 1 of the list. Large buildings not so divided, such as the quarters of unmarried privates, should be given only one number.

7. An abstract of the list should be prepared in the following form and forwarded to the District or Political Officer, as the case may be. It serves as an indent for schedules and must be carefully prepared.

ABSTRACT OF HOUSE LIST.

District. Cantonment or Station. Regiment.

Total number of houses.	NUMBER OF OCCUPANTS SPEAKING				Number of household schedules required at one for four persons.	REMARKS.
	English.	Vernacular A.	Vernacular B.	Vernacular C.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7

8. Some time before the 15th November the number entered against each house in the above list should be painted conspicuously upon the building, so that it may be easily noted on the night of the census.

9. After the numbers have been painted, the houses should be arranged in compact blocks, and these blocks grouped into circles. No block should contain more than 150 persons and no circle more than 2,500.

10. For each block an enumerator should be appointed and for each circle a supervisor. Non-commissioned officers will usually be selected for these posts. Native followers and servants attached to British regiments or employed by the officers should be enumerated by the regimental munshi, by a Commissariat native official, or by some one selected with reference to his knowledge of their language and customs.

11. A circle list should then be drawn up in the following form and forwarded to the District or Political Officer as the case may be—

CIRCLE LIST.

District. Cantonment or Station. Regiment.

Circle Number.	Name of Supervisor.	Number of Block.	Name of Enumerator.	Number of houses in each block.	Number of persons in each block.	REMARKS.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7

12. As soon as the forms are received the block list forming part of the book of schedules and showing the number and description of houses in each block should be written up from the house lists. A commissioned officer should then teach the supervisors and enumerators their work by making them fill up a few entries by way of experiment and correcting their mistakes. Spare forms will be supplied for this purpose at the rate of two leaves (four pages) for each enumerator.

13. At the beginning of February, each enumerator should go round his block and enter in the book of schedules full particulars regarding every man, woman, or child whom he finds residing therein. This record should be carefully examined and initialled by the officer responsible for the census, and all errors rectified. The houses should be taken in the order in which they are entered in the house list, and exact observance of the instructions must be rigidly enforced. Black ink only must be provided for this preliminary enumeration. Europeans and Eurasians should not be enumerated on this occasion, but household schedules should be distributed to them and the signature of the head of the family taken in the last column of the block list.

14. After gunfire on the night of the 1st March 1901 the enumerator should again go over his block, check and bring up to date the entries previously made, and thus complete the census. All such additions or erasures must be made in red ink.

15. On the morning of the 2nd March the enumerators should collect all the household schedules that have been issued and sew them into their books. They will then assemble at some place fixed by the supervisor and prepare under his instructions the abstracts inside the covers. After testing the figures the supervisor will compile them into a circle summary, and the various summaries will then be combined into a single statement by the officer in charge of the census and sent to the District or Political Officer as the case may be. The books and schedules for each regiment or detachment should be packed and registered separately and despatched to the same officer.

16. As it is necessary that the scheme laid down for the census of the whole country should be strictly followed, arrangements will be made by Local Governments and Administrations to place a European district official in direct communication with the military authorities in each cantonment, so that he may give advice to the latter, and otherwise ensure uniformity and punctuality in the arrangements.

B.—Troops on the march and on duty outside cantonments.

17. The census of regiments on the march and of troops on duty will be taken by the officer in command This census will include all persons, of whatever sex, age, or profession, who are marching with the troops. It will probably be known beforehand what troops will be on the march on the night of the 1st March, so that the officer in command should be provided with enumeration books and schedules at the cantonment from which the troops start. He should also arrange to make one of the weekly halts on the 1st March 1901. There will be no preliminary enumeration in this case, unless one has been completed before the troops left their last cantonment.

18. If the regiment or detachment be travelling by rail on the night of the census, the enumeration should be effected at the first place at which the men alight. Such trocps will not be enumerated by the Railway authorities who will, however, enumerate the families, servants and followers travelling with them.

19. The books and schedules for detachments on the march should be sent to the head-quarters of their regiments if it be within the province where they are enumerated. For regiments on the march, the books, etc., should be despatched to the military authorities of the cantonment at which they were last stationed, and will be then dealt with as prescribed in paragraph 15 above.

20. Troops or military outposts beyond the administrative frontier will be recorded in the final tables as belonging to the cantonment or sration within the administrative frontier from which or in connexion with which they are detailed or which is nearest to the post they occupy. Their schedules will be dealt with accordingly.

C.—Cantonment Bazars and Civil limits.

21. The census of so much of each cantonment as lies beyond regimental or other purely military limits will be taken by the Cantonment Magistrate acting under the direct orders of the civil authorities of the District or State. Exceptional cases will probably be found, such as that of Mhow, in which the whole arrangements will have to be controlled by the Officer Commanding, who will thus be responsible for their efficiency and punctuality. The rules to be followed are those laid down in the Imperial and Provincial Census Codes.

D.—General.

22. The Provincial Superintendents will issue the necessary subsidiary instructions, and in particular will see that the General Schedules and Instructions are supplied in English in a form suitable for the enumeration of British troops. This can be most readily done by reproducing the instructions on the back of the household schedule with such modifications as may be necessary.

VISITS OF NATIVE CHIEFS TO EUROPE.

No. 3145-I.-A.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Foreign Department (Internal),—under date Simla, the 20th July 1900.

Circular letter to Local Governments and Administrations.

I am desired to address you upon the subject of the grant of permission to Native Princes and Chiefs in India to visit Europe. Under the existing orders, an early and detailed reference respecting the desire of any Chief to travel outside of India is required to be made to the Government of India, whose assistance must be invoked if honours or conveniences, as commonly rendered to distinguished persons, are to be secured for the traveller while abroad.

2. It does not appear to have been definitely laid down that the sanction of the Government of India is in every instance necessary for the grant of such permission although, in the case of the majority of the local Governments, this practice has invariably been followed; while, in the case of the Governments of Madras and Bombay, the practice has been for the Local Government to grant the permission, unless any proposed arrangements in connection with the journey required the concurrence of higher authority; and then to report the matter to the Government of India under the above-mentioned orders.

3. There is not in the opinion of the Governor-General in Council any reason why a different procedure should be adopted in different parts of India; while there are very strong reasons why the reference made to the Government of India should not be a mere formal or perfunctory reference, sometimes submitted at a period too late to admit either of examination upon its merits, or of refusal except at the cost of much inconvenience to the applicant; but should on the contrary present the Supreme Government with the opportunity of forming and pronouncing an independent opinion upon each individual request, prior to making the requisite communication to the Secretary of State. Only by means of such a procedure can any uniformity of principle be observed in the method of dealing with these applications; and only so can the situation be avoided in which a difference of opinion may occur between the Supreme and the Local Governments, with results that may be compromising either to the authority of the one—should the Supreme Government be urged to acquiesce in a permission already granted which they would themselves have declined—or to the dignity of the other, should the sanction given by the Local Government be subsequently overruled.

4. I am, therefore, instructed to inform you that, upon all future occasions from the present date, the application of any Native Prince or Chief to leave India, for purposes of travel abroad—whatever be the objects or motives of such travel—should be transmitted at a reasonable distance of time in advance to the Government of India, with a detailed account of the circumstances in which and the object for which the request is made, and of the reasons which induce the Local Government either to recommend or to dissuade compliance therewith. Sanction should not in any case be given in advance, either conditionally or absolutely, by the Local Government. The Government of India must be left with an unfettered discretion to comply or to refuse, according as the circumstances may, in their judgment, require.

5. There is a further point upon which I am instructed to address you. Recent cases, occurring in different parts of India, have revealed not only the divergence of method which has already been described, but a similar disparity of principle as regulating the attitude or advice of the Local Governments. Foreign tours on the part of Native Chiefs have been recommended on grounds so diverse and sometimes mutually inconsistent as the benefit, the desire, or the convenience of the ruler; and the advantage, the interests, or the financial position, of the State. Sometimes the sanction has been given or recommended because there were good reasons for it; more frequently because there were no very strong reasons against it. In a number of cases, little or no regard appears to have been paid to the effect likely to be produced upon the character of the ruler, or to the bearing of his taste for travel upon the interests of his people, and his own duty towards his State. It is in order to obviate the inconsistencies of attitude that have thus grown into being, and to check the anomalies that have sometimes resulted therefrom, that I am desired to lay down for the assistance of Local Governments the principles by which the Government of India will themselves be guided in dealing with such applications, and to which it is, therefore, desirable that the Local Governments should pay due attention in forwarding their views.

6. The Government of India hold very strongly to the opinion that the first and paramount duty of a Native Prince or Chief lies towards his own State and people. By the protection and authority of the Supreme Government, he is guaranteed a security of tenure in his exalted station superior to that enjoyed by rulers in any other country in the world, and one which is only sacrificed or impaired by gross misconduct on his part or by some other offence of exceptional gravity. In return for these advantages the Government are entitled to claim that the ruler shall devote his best energies not to the pursuit of pleasure, nor to the cultivation of absentee interests or amusements, but to the welfare of his own subjects and administration. Such a standard of duty is incompatible with frequent absences from the State, even though these may be represented as inspired by the pursuit of knowledge or by a thirst for civilisation. In proportion as a Chief becomes infected with these tastes and inclinations, so in many cases is he apt to be drawn further away from, instead of nearer to, his people. It is not denied that advantages may result to both parties, from a widening of the range of knowledge of an intelligent ruler, and from the application to his local administration of the lessons acquired in the school of western experience. Cases have occurred of such felicitous consequences; and the Government of India have no desire, by any revulsion of policy, to preclude or to retard their recurrence. But it cannot be denied that such cases are on the whole in the minority; that habits of restlessness and extravagance are even more likely to be inculcated in the Oriental mind by a sudden change of environment, and by the temptations of European society, than are incentives to duty or aspirations for reform; and that the result of European tours, particularly if too frequently repeated, is more often a collection of expensive furniture in the palace and of questionable proclivities in the mind of the returned traveller, than an increase in his capacity for public or political service.

7. It is not any defence of repeated journeys to urge that their cost is borne by the private income of the individual, and not by the treasury of the State. The line of division between these two sources of revenue is, in many Native States, so thin that a private outlay is often synonymous with a public encumbrance Nor, even were this not the case, can the Government of India admit that the personal revenues of a Chief are of so sacrosanct a character, as to be expended without protest, in a matter where their own sanction is required, in a fashion or upon objects which may be inconsistent with the public responsibilities of their owner.

8. The Government of India desire, therefore, to lay down the initial proposition that repeated absences from India of Native Chiefs should be regarded as a dereliction, and not as a discharge, of public duty. Secondly, the visits of such Princes and Chiefs to Europe should only meet with encouragement in cases where the Local Government is convinced that benefit will result from the trip both to the Chief and to his people. In other words, the criterion of compliance should not be private convenience, but personal and public advantage. Thirdly, in cases where such permission is recommended by Local Governments and is granted by the Government of India, it should be understood that, so far from constituting a ground for the early renewal of the request, it is a reason against it; and that a suitable interval of time should elapse between the return from travel and the submission of a fresh application for leave. Lastly, it should be the business of Local Governments, as it is of the Government of India in the case of the Princes and Chiefs under their direct charge, carefully to watch the effects of foreign travel upon character and habits, so as as to be able to base their future recommendations not only upon general principles, but upon a careful study of the individual case.

SALT.

Simla, the 30th August, 1900.

No. 4284-S.R.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the following rules for regulating first appointments to the superior executive grades of the Northern India Salt Revenue Department, in supersession of those published with the Notification in this Department No. 1469-S.R., dated the 5th April 1899, in Part I of the Gazette of India of the 8th idem.

Rules for admission to the superior executive grades of the Northern India Salt Department.

I.—Appointments to the superior executive grades of the Northern India Salt Department will be made :—(a) by competitive examination; and (b) partly also by the promotion of subordinates of proved merit serving in the Department.

II.—Excluding the Commissioner's appointment, the cadre of the Department comprises 44 sanctioned appointments, and may, from time to time, include a varying number of junior officers, recruited under the following scheme of recruitment, in temporary excess of the sanctioned scale.

III.—The Department will in future ordinarily be recruited at a ratio of 3·8 per cent. per annum on the sanctioned strength; or, in other words, the number of appointments made will for the present be one and two in alternate years. The number of appointments offered to competitive examination will usually be one a year. The second vacancy in each alternate year will be available for allotment to a deserving subordinate of proved merit. If no qualified subordinate be forthcoming, the second vacancy may also be thrown open to competitive examination. A candidate who has successfully passed the competitive examination will be appointed a Probationary Assistant Superintendent on Rs. 100 a month.

Proviso.—This scheme is, however, subject to the condition that the sanctioned scale shall not be much exceeded, and that if the number of supernumerary officers shows any tendency to undue increase, the rate of recruitment shall be temporarily diminished.

IV.—The qualifications necessary for the acceptance of candidates for competitive examination are the following:

(a) A candidate must not be under 18 or over 25 years of age on the birthday preceding the examination at which he wishes to compete.

(b) He must furnish the certificate of physical fitness prescribed by Article 61 of the Civil Service Regulations and such further evidence on the subject as the Commissioner may think necessary, having regard to the work required from officers of the Salt Department and the conditions of climate under which they must serve.

(c) He must satisfy the Commissioner—

(1) that he is of good moral character;

(2) that he is of active habits and especially that he is able to ride; he must show that he is able to make journeys on horseback.

V.—A candidate who possesses the above qualifications may be permitted by the Commissioner to present himself for examination; but this permission is a matter entirely within the discretion of the Commissioner, and no appeal lies from his decision.

VI.—Not less than three candidates will be nominated for each expected vacancy. Ordinarily not more than five will be nominated. If at any time the number of accepted candidates exceeds this, fresh nominations will not ordinarily be made till an approximation to the above proportion is effected.

VII.—The examination of nominated candidates will be held in the following subjects:

Compulsory,

Subjects.	Marks.
(1) English Composition. In allotting marks clear and legible hand-writing will be considered.	200
(2) Arithmetic	150
(3) English History and Literature (Elementary)	150

(7) French ... ... / German ... ... / Latin	100
TOTAL ...	950

VIII.—No candidate who fails to obtain 400 marks in all shall be appointed, whatever his place in the examination.

IX.—The Commissioner may, at his discretion, prescribe text books in any of the subjects enumerated in rule VII.

X.—†A Probationary Assistant Superintendent may be appointed to officiate as Assistant Superintendent or to be sub. pro tem. Assistant Superintendent, but shall not be confirmed in the appointment of Assistant Superintendent until—

(a) his service has been approved during a period of not less than one year's probation:

(b) he has passed in full the Departmental examination prescribed by the standing orders of the Department.

* NOTE.—A candidate may take up one subject in either or in both of the optional groups; but he need not take up any subject mentioned in the "Optional" list.

† A probationary Assistant, officiating as Assistant Superintendent, will continue to draw Rs. 100, but, if appointed sub. pro tem., he may draw the full pay of the appointment.

A Probationary Assistant Superintendent whose services are not approved, or who fails to pass the Departmental examination within one year from the date of his appointment as Probationary Assistant Superintendent, will be liable to removal from his appointment.

XI.—A subordinate who has been selected for promotion to the appointment of Assistant Superintendent will be required to undergo the Departmental examination prescribed by the standing orders of the Department within one year from the date of his appointment as Assistant Superintendent, officiating or sub. pro tem. A promoted subordinate who fails to pass the Departmental examination within the prescribed time, or whose services are not approved, will revert to his substantive appointment.

XII.—The place in the gradation list of an Assistant Superintendent, whether appointed by competitive examination or otherwise, will be regulated by the date of his first appointment to officiate continuously as Assistant Superintendent or to be sub pro tem. Assistant Superintendent. In the case of successful examination candidates appointed to be Probationary Assistant Superintendents, at the same time, the one who passed higher in the competitive examination will be the senior.

The Berlin Fire-brigade can, at the commencement of the year 1901, look back upon a period of existence of 50 years. The organisation at Berlin has been the means of starting in Germany a new epoch of development in connection with apparatus or means for the extinction of and protection against fire and thanks is due to such organisation and the experience derived therefrom, whereby it has been possible, by increasing the fire-protecting means, to put a check on the dangers threatening in consequence of the rapid development of technics and industry. And, as in Germany, also in other civilized countries such fire-protecting means have been wonderfully developed, during the last few decades for the welfare of mankind.

It is therefore of general interest and earnestly desired that the progress, improvements and inventions made in connection with fire-protecting and fire-extinguishing apparatus and the like, are still more developed, and that the knowledge of these varied and valuable means is more widely spread abroad. Feeling convinced that it will be of considerable advantage for the development of means or apparatus for the extinction of and protection against fire, the undersigned committee has decided to open

An International Exhibition of fire-preventing and fire-saving arrangements in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the organisation of the Berlin Fire-brigade; the exhibition will be held in Berlin during the months of June and July 1901 at the Place of Military Exercises at Moabit.

Her Majesty, the Empress and Queen Auguste Victoria has graciously condescended to accept the protectorate of the Exhibition. His Serene Highness, Prince of Hohenlohe-Schillingsfürst, Chancellor of the German Empire, has undertaken the honorary presidency.

The object of the exhibition is not only to give manufacturers of every country an opportunity to notify others of the present state of the development of this branch, but also to bring the representatives of the fire-brigades of different nations in closer contact with one another. We cordially invite the municipal authorities, fire-brigade associations, national unions, manufacturers, mill-owners and interested parties of every country to compete, and respectfully request the same to energetically promote the object in view, especially by exhibiting suitable apparatus and the like. Then the exhibition, and study of the articles sent here, will also bring all parties concerned in closer contact with one another and will give a new impulse to technics and also exert a decisive influence upon the fire-proof construction of buildings and other plants on water, land and underground.

Our exhibition will only consist of selected articles; a jury, comprised of parties appointed to represent the different groups, will examine the articles submitted, and decide as to their acceptance. Several German Federal States have already placed at our disposal, or promised, State medals and diplomas; moreover, prizes will be given by the exhibition authorities.

PAR. 10.

Insurance and Guarantee.

The insurance of articles against fire will only be effected by the managers of the exhibition, at the special request of the exhibitor, who must bear the necessary expenses.

Arrangements will be made for the general safe-keeping of the articles, but the managers of the exhibition will not make any compensation in the event of theft, damage, etc. No claims of any kind will be considered in case the exhibition cannot take place through force majeure, or must be closed before the appointed time.

No. 2744.—The following Despatch from the Secretary of State and enclosed Memorandum of the Board of Agriculture of Great Britain relating to the importation of dogs into that country are published for general information in supersession of Home Department Notification No. 878, dated the 5th May 1899:

INDIA OFFICE,

London, 30th August 1900.

Revenue,

No. 151.

To His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor-General of India in Council.

MY LORD,

WITH reference to my Revenue Despatch No. 59, dated 23rd March 1899, transmitting copies of a Memorandum of the Board of Agriculture relating to the importation of dogs into this country, I forward 300 copies of a revised Memorandum. A copy of the covering letter is also enclosed, and I would call attention to the last paragraph, in which the Board suggest that all copies of the previous Memorandum should be destroyed.

I have the honour to be,

MY LORD,

Your Lordship's most obedient, humble Servant,

GEORGE HAMILTON.

BOARD OF AGRICULTURE.

Memorandum as to the importation of dogs into Great Britain from abroad.

1. The disease of rabies in dogs and of hydrophobia in man, which remains prevalent in almost all other parts of the world, has become practically extinct in this country, and the Regulations of the Board are designed to prevent its reintroduction.

2. The importation of dogs intn Great Britain from any foreign country, or British possession other than the Channel Islands, without the sanction of the Board, is prohibited by Orders made under the Diseases of Animals Acts*; and the landing of a dog from abroad (whether originally exported from Great Britain or not) will, unless a license has previously been obtained, render the owner liable to a penalty of £20 and the possible seizure of the dog.

3. Every person who wishes to import a dog must make application in writing for the necessary license, on a form which will be supplied for the purpose, and the form should be accompanied by a letter addressed to The Secretary, Board of Agriculture, 4, Whitehall Place, London, S.W., explaining the circumstances under which the application is made, and stating how long the dog has been in the possession and personal charge of the applicant. It is to be understood, however, that an application is not necessarily followed by the issue of a license to land the dog, and that the Board cannot sanction the landing of dogs which usually live abroad, but which their owners while on a visit to this country wish to bring with them.

4. Every application must be made by the person who will be the owner of the dog during the period of detention in this country, and it should be forwarded in sufficient time to enable the Board to make full inquiries into the circumstances and as to the suitability of the premises in which it is proposed that the dog should be isolated, and to permit of their decision being communicated to the applicant before the dog is embarked. Masters of vessels cannot properly accept a dog for shipment to Great Britain from abroad unless the license is produced at the port of embarkation, and they are liable to prosecution if the dog is landed illegally.

5. In order that the Board may have it on record that the conditions on which alone a license can be issued are fully understood, the applicant must sign the undertaking set out in one or other of the forms.

6. Unless the dogs to be imported has, at the date of the application, been in the personal charge of the applicant during the preceding three months, the Board can only authorize its landing under a license, Form A requiring the detention and isolation of the dog for six months. Such licenses are only issued where arrangements have previously been made for the detention of the dog for that period at an isolation station approved by the Board, at the expense of the owner, and at his risk. At the present time the only isolation station so approved is the Dog Sanatorium, Beddington Lane, Mitcham, Surrey, to the Manager of which establishment communications respecting terms, etc., should be addressed.

7. Dogs landed with licenses, Form A should be forwarded in crates or hampers, and with the utmost possible expedition, to the isolation station.

8. If, however, the applicant is able to declare that the dog has been in his personal charge for three months, he may apply for a license, Form B which requires the detention of the dog for a period of six months on some suitable private premises to be specified by the applicant, and approved by the Board, where the dog will be under the supervision of the officers of the Board and of the Local Authority, for whose inspection it should be produced when required. If, however, the general conditions imposed are properly carried out, the Board are prepared, on the production of a certificate of a duly qualified veterinary surgeon that the dog is not affected with, or suspected of, rabies, to consider applications for the release of the dog after a period of ninety days.

9. The applicant's private place of residence is regarded in most instances as a suitable place of detention for a dog detained under a license, Form B provided that he is the householder, and that no other dogs are kept upon the premises. Hotels, flats, lodgings, barracks, or other similar premises where the dog cannot be conveniently isolated or where the owner of the dog cannot guarantee that the animal can be detained for the full period required by the Board, are not regarded as suitable places of detention. For a similar reason private residences are seldom suitable where more than one dog is to be imported. If the applicant has no fixed residence where the dog can be kept under his own charge, arrangements should be made for the detention of the dog for the necessary period at an isolation station, or on the premises of an experienced veterinary surgeon.

10. On arrival at a port in Great Britain, and before the dog can be landed, the holder of the license is required to produce it for the inspection of the officer of Her Majesty's Customs.

11. The license requires the dog, when landed, to be taken by the nearest available route, and without unnecessary delay, to the premises specified therein, and the arrival of the dog there must at once be notified in writing to the Board.

12. Where, however, dogs admitted under a license, Form B, are landed late in the day, and the place of detention is distant from the port, the Board do not object to the journey of the dog being broken by its detention at some suitable place for one night, provided that it is kept apart from all other dogs, and that the journey is thereafter completed with reasonable dispatch.

13. The license should be retained by the person in charge of the dog who is responsible for compliance with the conditions prescribed in the license. The license must be returned to the Board at the end of the period of detention, or at once if it is not made use of.

14. The dog cannot in any case be moved from the place of detention to other premises in the United Kingdom without a further license from the Board. Where the Board are satisfied that exceptional circumstances have arisen which render the removal of a dog detained under a license, Form B, necessary or expedient, they are prepared to consider an application for a removal license, provided it is not proposed to remove the dog from a rural to an urban district, or from the original permises to a less suitable place of detention. Unless the dog is to be taken from the private residence of the owner to another house in his occupation, the premises of an experienced veterinary surgeon should be specified as the place of detention, and the removal cannot be authorized unless the dog can be detained at the second address for the remainder of the period of detention.

15. Where satisfactory arrangements of the character above indicated cannot be made by the owner, the dog must be detained at the premises first specified, or removed to such place as the Board may direct.

16. During the period of detention under a license, Form B the dog, when temporarily moved for exercise as provided in the license, must be properly muzzled with a wire cage muzzle, and in charge of a competent person, and the former condition is also applicable when the dog is likely at any time to be brought into contact with other dogs.

17. Should a dog die, or be lost, whilst under detention, the fact should be at once reported to the Board, together with full information as to the symptoms preceding death, or the circumstances in which the loss took place. In the event of the dog sickening with any of the symptoms of rabies, it should be at once isolated, and the advice of a veterinary surgeon obtained.

18. A dog detained under a license of the Board cannot be moved to a vessel for exportation without a further license of the Board.

19. Licenses are issued by the Board to land performing dogs, if it can be shown that the dogs have been trained to take part in performances for the entertainment of the public, and that they are to be imported for that purpose only, and that they are under an actual engagement to perform immediately on arrival. These licenses require that during a period of 90 days dogs so admitted shall be isolated from contact with all other dogs, that they shall not be taken into any public place unless properly muzzled in the manner set out in the license, and that during that period the Board shall at all times be kept informed of the premises upon which the dogs are detained. Satisfactory evidence must also be afforded that the animals are habitually kept apart from all other dogs, whether in this country or abroad.

20 For the convenience of persons passing through Great Britain the Board are prepared, in special cases, to issue licenses for the landing of dogs to be exported within a very few days. Applications for such licenses should specify the ports, the names of the vessels, the dates of their arrival and departure, and the address of some suitable place where the dog can be detained during the period that it remains in Great Britain. The license in this case should be endorsed by an officer of the vessel of departure, and returned to the Board by the owner. The dog cannot again be landed in Great Britain without a further license.

21. The experience of the Board has clearly shown that the frequent movement of pet dogs to and from the Continent involves this country in serious danger, inasmuch as a pet dog may become infected with rabies without the knowledge and despite the utmost care on the part of its owner. It is therefore a matter of great importance to owners of dogs in Great Britain that dogs from abroad should only be admitted in instances where it has been satisfactorily established that some useful purpose wili be served by their admission, or where a pet dog would otherwise be separated from its owner for a prolonged period. Pet dogs should not be taken abroad and thus exposed to the risk of infection, except in cases of real necessity.

22. The Board earnestly invite the cordial co-operation of dog owners in carrying out regulations which have been designed with a view to minimise the risk of re-introducing a very terrible disease.

Secretary.

Simla, the 12th July 1900.

MY LORD,

Telegram from Her Majesty's Secretary of State, dated 26th September 1900.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to announce that Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India has sanctioned the following concessions to officers under the rank of Commissioner who have been personally engaged on relief operations during the famine of 1899-1900 subject to the restrictions specified below.

2. (i) To officers who have been so employed for a period of not less than five months—either (a) one month's extra privilege leave, or (b) full pay instead of half pay for the first two months of furlough or other leave for which half pay is ordinarily admissible.

(ii) To officers so employed for a period of not less than ten months—either (a) two months' extra privilege leave, or (b) full pay instead of half pay for the first four months of furlough or other leave as above.

The expression "full pay" in clauses (i) (b) and (ii) (b) means the allowances to which the officer would have been entitled if on privilege leave. When these additional leave allowances are paid at the Home Treasury of the Government of India, they are payable at the privileged rate of 1*s.* 6*d.* per rupee.

3. The grant of the above concessions is subject to the following explanations and limitations:

(i) The concessions are admissible in any province in which there has been famine during the past and current year.

(ii) They are not admissible to any officer who has not been personally engaged in famine relief operations and whose duty has not, in the opinion of the Local Government, been so unusually arduous as to render him deserving of them, or who has been specially appointed to such duty and has been remunerated during the performance of it by special salary or allowances.

(iii) The extra privilege leave admissible under this Resolution may be taken in combination with privilege leave earned under the ordinary rules, provided that the total amount of privilege lea\e so taken at one time shall not exceed three months. Any balance of privilege leave which cannot be taken in consequence of the three months' limit will remain at credit to be taken under the ordinary rules.

(iv) The concessions will ordinarily cease to be admissible after the expiry of two years from the date of this Resolution, but may, with the consent of the Local Government, be carried on beyond that date in cases where the exigencies of the public service have necessitated the refusal of leave when applied for and have thus prevented the grant of the full concessions earned, within the prescribed period.

(v) An officer who has earned but has not availed himself of a leave concession notified in Financial Resolution No. 5047 P., dated 15th November 1897, for duties connected with famine or plague, may not add such concession to the concession to which he may be entitled under these orders, but may claim whichever is the greater.

(vi) Any officer eligible for the concessions admissible under this Resolution may choose between the alternatives (a) and (b) of paragraph 2 at the time he applies for leave.

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution be communicated to the Departments of the Government of India; to the several Local Governments and Administrations; to the Heads of Departments under the Finance Department; to the Comptroller and Auditor General; and to all Accountants-General and Comptrollers.

Ordered, also, that the Resolution be published in the Gazette of India.

PLAGUE.

The 26th Octrber, 1900.

No. 2615.—In the Notification of the Government of India in the Home Department, No. 2936, dated the 20th October 1899, it was ordered, under the powets conferred by section 2, sub-section (1), of the Epidemic Diseases Act (III of 1897), that the pilgrimage to the Hedjaz during the season of 1900 might be permitted, except in the case of persons residing in the Bombay Presidency (including Sind), the Presidency of Madras, the Mysore and Hyderabad States, Coorg, Calcutta, and the Saran District of Bihar, the Nagpur Division of the Central Provinces and the Hoshiarpur District of the Punjab, subject to certain precautions and restrictions which were imposed in view of the strong opinions of all European Governments, including Turkey, regarding the danger of plague being communicated to Europe, and in view of the danger of plague being spread by intending pilgrims from infected to non-infected portions of India.

Plague is unfortunately still widely prevalent in the Bombay Presidency and the Mysore State. The disease continues to exist in the Salem District of the Madras Presidency. Imported cases are of somewhat frequent occurrence in the districts of the Madras Presidency adjoining the Mysore State. Calcutta and a few districts in Bengal continue to be infected. The outbreak in the Jullundur and Hoshiarpur Districts of the Punjab ceased in June, but three suspicious cases of a very mild type have recently been reported from the former district. The remaining Provinces in British India are entirely free from plague. The Hyderabad State has also ceased to be infected, no cases having been reported, except from the Lingsagur District, since the month of May; while in this district itself no case is known to have occurred since the beginning of October.

The alarm experienced by European Governments, including Turkey, regarding the danger of plague being imported to Europe is in no measure abated, and during the past season Indian pilgrims were again subject, on and after arrival at Turkish ports, to much vexatious restriction and consequent hardship. The Government of India do not think it necessary to prohibit the pilgrimage from the uninfected portions of India during the ensuing season, but they consider it essential that careful precautions should be observed similar to those which were enforced during the past season. The port of Karachi is now no longer infected, and with a view to mitigating the inconvenience to pilgrims from parts of the north of India of the long journey to Chittagong, the Government of India have determined to permit embarkation this year at Karachi. Should, however, a serious outbreak occur there before, or during the course of, the ensuing season, it will probably be necessary to cancel this permission and to direct that pilgrims, who had proposed to go from Karachi, should go from some other port.

The Governor-General in Council is pleased to cancel the order contained in the Notification of the Government of India in the Home Department, No. 2936, dated the 20th October 1899.

The Governor-General in Council is further pleased to direct that, until further orders, no person resident permanently or temporarily in the Presidency of Bombay (excluding the whole of Sind), the Madras Presidency, the Mysore State, Coorg, the Jullundur District of the Punjab and Bengal, excepting the Chittagong Division, shall be permitted to embark from any port in India with the object of making a pilgrimage to Mecca.

The Governor-General in Council is further pleased to direct as follows:—

(1) That no person shall be permitted to embark with the object of making a pilgrimage to Mecca, except at the port of Karachi in Sind and Chittagong in the Lower Provinces of Bengal, and unless and until such person has been kept under observation in a place appointed for the purpose until such time as the Medical Officer in charge shall be satisfied that all risk of such person conveying the infection of plague has been completely abated, and unless such person is conveyed from the place of observation to the place of embarkation under the charge of an officer appointed for the purpose.

(2) That no passage tickets for the Hedjaz shall be sold except at the places appointed for the detention of intending pilgrims under observation.

The Government of India think it necessary to repeat the warning given last year that, although they have decided that the pilgrimage to the Hedjaz may be permitted subject to the safeguards enumerated above, they are nevertheless convinced that intending pilgrims will be well advised in deferring their purpose until another season, in view specially of the stringent quarantine rules imposed by the Turkish Government, and of the inconvenience and harassment to which it is likely they will be subjected on arriving in Arabia.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

FOREIGN DEPARTMENT.

INTERNAL.

TO

THE RIGHT HON'BLE LORD GEORGE F. HAMILTON,

Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

Simla, the 2nd August 1900.

MY LORD,

YOUR LORDSHIP is already aware that many of the Rulers of States in India have come forward with offers of troops for employment in China. We have now the honor to enclose a statement of those offers.

2. Almost all the States which have thus volunteered the loan of their forces maintain Imperial Service troops, that is, troops maintained, disciplined and equipped with a special view to taking part in the defence of India; and these troops we might at any time call upon to take their place alongside of the Indian Army, to repel an invasion of Indian soil. The present movement is of an entirely different character. The Chiefs of Indian States are under no obligation to take upon their shoulders any part of the Imperial burden abroad. Nevertheless of their own free will they have expressed the desire to range themselves among the forces of the Empire. It appears to us, therefore, that, whether it be found possible to accept their offers or not, it is desirable to make known that the States of India are one with the British Empire, not only in maintaining contingents for the defence of India itself, but in placing themselves, so far as lies in their power, in a line with the other dependencies of Great Britain by offering their resources in support of the Empire in distant parts of the world.

3. The princely beneficence of the Maharaja of Gwalior in undertaking to provide and maintain a hospital ship for the service of the British and Native soldiers now in China has been made public, and will be universally applauded. The eager loyalty of the many others, who are ready—as the Maharaja Sindhia himself is—to serve in person and to devote the military strength of their States to the support of Great Britain wherever she may be engaged, should, we think, be equally made known.

4. We have ourselves taken into serious consideration the question whether it may not be possible and desirable to go further, and not merely to acknowledge publicly and with gratitude the devoted loyalty which has been displayed by the Rulers of these States, but also to accept and to select a force from the many troops thus placed at our disposal and to send a small brigade to China as representative of the support, both moral and material, which has been so abundantly proffered. We think that there would be no small political advantage in thus showing to the world that India is united and loyal. We also think that absolute refusal might have a disheartening effect upon the Chiefs who have spent much in making their troops efficient, and might check the general enthusiasm which has been evoked in connection with the war in the Transvaal and the disturbances in China.

5. The service of these troops, if they are accepted, should, in our opinion, be regarded as a purely spontaneous gift; and the ordinary cost of their maintenance on a peace footing should, as is desired by those who have volunteered, be borne by the States to which they belong; while extra expenses consequent on their transport abroad and employment in the field should fall upon Her Majesty's Government.

6. We are confident of being able to put in the field at short notice two battalions of infantry, a regiment of cavalry and a company of sappers, all of good physique, of excellent discipline and of efficiency approaching even to that of the troops of our Native army. Some of these troops would be officered by nobles of high standing in the States to which they belong, if not by the Ruler himself, and they would be ready to undertake any duties that might be assigned to them, whether they were called upon to fight in the front line, to guard communications, or to garrison towns and settlements.

7. We have had experience, in the frontier disturbances three years ago, of the employment of some of the Imperial Service troops of the Punjab States. They rendered good service on that occasion, and we have been able to profit by that experience, and to improve upon the system under which a few British officers were attached to them in order to keep touch between these troops, led by their own countrymen, and the rest of the forces, commanded by British officers.

8. Should occasion arise for the despatch of an additional force from the Indian army to China, we hope that Her Majesty's Government may acquiesce in the addition to such force of a compact body such as we have described above, selected from the Imperial Service contingents of the Indian States.

We have the honour to be,

MY LORD,

Your Lordship's most obedient, humble Servants,

MY LORD,

WE have the honour to forward, for the information of Her Majesty's Government, a copy of a telegram* from our Agent in Central India, communicating a message in which the Maharaja of Orchha requests that his congratulations may be conveyed to Her Majesty the Queen, Empress of India, on the occupation of Peking and the relief of the Legations. We have instructed our Agent to cause a suitable acknowledgment to be transmitted to His Highness.

*Enclosure No. 1.

We also enclose a copy of correspondence† with the Government of the Punjab regarding an offer by His Highness the Raja of Nabha of two lakhs of rupees towards the expenses of the war in China, and we have much pleasure in thus bringing to the knowledge of Her Majesty's Government the excellent feeling and loyal spirit which this fine old Sikh Chief displays, not only in acknowledging the justice of action which has caused him disappointment, but in seeking some fresh manner of showing his earnestness in asking that he may be of use to the Empire.

From—J. M. DOUIE, Esquire, Offg. Chief Secretary to the Government of the Punjab,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Department.

With reference to your letter No. 3464-I.B., dated the 6th of August 1900, I am directed to submit, for the orders of the Government of India, a translation of a murasila, dated the 21st of August 1900, from the Raja of Nabha, in which His Highness offers two lakhs of rupees towards the expenses of the war in China.

Translation of a murasila from His Highness the Raja of Nabha, to the Officiating Chief Secretary to the Government of the Punjab, dated the 6th of Bhadon 1957 (21st August 1900).

After compliments,—I have received your letter No. 895, dated the 9th of August 1900, which was addressed to the Motamid of this State on the subject of the war in China. It was my wish and hearty desire that my Imperial Service troops should have been despatched to China with the British troops, but it appears to be the intention of Government that an opportunity should now be given to the Imperial Service troops of the States which did not take part in the campaign of 1897 which is very just and thankworthy, as the Imperial Service troops of this State had the honour of joining the British troops in the Tirah and Mohmand Expeditions. But if their services have not been utilised on the present occasion of the war in China which would have been an honour to the State, still it is my desire and that of my Darbar that the sum of money which exists in the State treasury is kept there with the object of being used when necessary by the Government of India. Therefore, I beg to present rupees two lakhs in cash as an assistance towards the expenses of the above expedition, with the firm hope that it will be accepted and the Darbar apprised of the fact. The above sum of money will be deposited in any Imperial treasury which the Government may be pleased to direct.

No. 4124-I.B., dated Simla, the 18th September 1900.

From—Captain H. DALY, C.I.E., Deputy Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Department,

To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of the Punjab.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1043, dated the 8th September 1900, communicating the offer by the Raja of Nabha of two lakhs of rupees towards the expenses of the war in China.

2. Warmly appreciating the spirit which has prompted this offer the Governor-General in Council is bringing it to the knowledge of Her Majesty's Government, on whom the cost of the operations in China falls. It is not, however, possible for the Government of India to recommend that contributions in money to such ends should be accepted by Her Majesty's Government. Their inability to do so arises, not from the circumstances of the offer, but, as must be obvious, from the nature of the case. I am to request that, with the Lieutenant-Governor's permission, a reply in this sense may be made to the Raja, who may also be informed that the Governor-General in Council has noticed with satisfaction the loyal and generous manner in which His Highness has accepted the disappointment arising from the fact that his Imperial Service troops will not on this occasion have an opportunity of gaining fresh distinction in the field.

MY LORD,

I HAVE considered in Council Your Excellency's Despatch in the Foreign Department, No. 108, dated 2nd August 1900, regarding the offers of troops for service in China, which have been made by many of the Rulers of States in India.

2. I fully share your appreciation of the loyal spirit which has prompted these offers; and the employment of a force consisting of Imperial Service troops, under the conditions proposed in paragraph 5 of your Despatch, has already been sanctioned by my telegram of 3rd August 1900.

I have the honor to be,

MY LORD,

SPECIAL.

No. 1075.—The following revised rules for the grant of shooting passes to British Soldiers in India are published for the information and guidance of all concerned:

PART I.

Rules for Shooting Parties.

1. No warrant officer, non-commissioned officer or private soldier shall carry fire-arms for sporting purposes without a shooting pass. Shooting passes will only be granted to warrant officers and non-commissioned officers and to private soldiers possessing at least one good conduct badge.

2. No pass will be granted to any warrant officer, non-commissioned officer or private soldier unless his Squadron, Battery-Section or Company Officer certifies that he is competent to handle fire-arms.

3. Each pass will be granted to a party of three, one of whom shall be in charge of the party. The party must in all cases be accompanied by a native qualified to act as interpreter, whose name will be entered on the pass. The party of three shall not separate while shooting.

4. The number of the party who is placed in charge shall carry the pass. He shall produce it when reasonably required to do so, and he shall at once return it to the squadron, battery or company orderly sergeant when the party comes back to camp or lines. On returning the pass he shall report any breach of these rules, any affray with natives, or any mishap, which may have occurred during the absence of the party. If any such event is reported, the non-commissioned officer to whom the pass is returned will at once inform the Commanding Officer; and the Commanding Officer will at once send to the District Magistrate the substance of the report, together with a copy of the complaint, if any.

5. If any member of a shooting party commits any act resulting in injury to person or property, or is involved in an affray with natives, the party shall return to camp or lines without delay, after reporting, if possible, to the nearest civil authority.

6. No person not named in the pass, except game coolies, shall accompany a shooting party.

7. There shall be no loading in the neighbourhood of camp or lines; and all fire-arms shall be unloaded before shooting parties return.

8. No shooting with bullets of any kind is permitted except in forest or close jungle, or in tracts of country where such shooting is not attended with danger. Shooting at night is forbidden except in forest.

9. No member of a shooting party shall address or enter into conversation with any native woman.

10. No member of a shooting party shall enter any village, house, temple, mosque or enclosure or shall shoot within 500 yards of such. If supplies are to be obtained from a village, the interpreter may be employed for the purpose.

11. Members of shooting parties are forbidden to trespass upon or shoot over crops.

12. No member of a shooting party shall shoot at any animal or bird, or in any locality, included in the prohibited list shown on the pass.

13. Shooting at peafowl is prohibited unless by special permission endorsed on the pass. No shooting at hinds, does, monkeys or dogs is permitted.

14. These rules apply to troops on the march or in moving camps, as well as to troops in cantonments or standing camps.

PART II.

Rules for fire-arms and ammunition.

15. The fire-arms carried by a shooting party shall be specified on the pass and no fire-arms not so specified shall be used.

16. No rifle or carbine shall be used which carries Government ammunition, or is under ·450 bore, or is sighted over 150 yards. All bullets used with rifles or carbines for sporting purposes shall be hollow.

17. No private soldier, not qualified to be a member of a shooting party, shall be allowed to possess a rifle, carbine or gun of his own.

18. Fire-arms and ammunition used for sporting purposes, whether private property or issued by Government, shall be kept in the squadron, battery or company store chest in charge of the squadron sergeant-majors, quartermaster sergeants or color sergeants. They will be issued by the above-named non-commissioned officers, on production of a pass in which they are specified, and this duty shall not be delegated to any other person. The armourer sergeant (or, in the case of a battery, the Section Officer) will sign the specification of fire-arms on the pass, and no arms shall be issued unless he certifies that they are in good condition and not contrary to rule 16.

19. All fire-arms issued from the store-chest and unused ammunition shall be returned to the sergeant in charge who will sign to their receipt on the shooting pass when the party comes back to camp or lines. All arms kept for sporting purposes shall be entered on the "daily state" of the Corps or Detachment; and shall be shewn as "present," "on pass" or "absent."

20. These rules apply to troops on the march or in moving camps, as well as to troops in cantonments or standing camps.

PART III.

Rules for Officers granting shooting passes.

21. Shooting passes are to be granted by the Officer Commanding the Corps or Detachment to which the men belong or to which they are attached for the time being.

22. Passes are to be granted only on the printed forms supplied for the purpose and the certificate on the face of the pass is to be signed by a Squadron, Battery-Section or Company Officer and countersigned by the Commanding Officer.

23. When men are permitted to shoot in the vicinity of a military station at a distance from their quarters, the following procedure shall be observed :—

(1) A furlough pass will be granted to them to the military station nearest to the country in which they intend to shoot. On the furlough pass will be an endorsement by the Officer Commanding the Corps or Detachment in red ink to the effect that the men are permitted to carry fire-arms and ammunition, and are eligible for a shooting pass. The furlough pass so endorsed shall be an authority to the sergeant in charge to issue arms and ammunition to the party, after the armourer sergeant has signed the specification that the arms are in good condition and not contrary to rule 16.

(2) A shooting pass will at the same time be given to them in the usual form with the omission of (a) the name of the interpreter, (b) the dates indicating the duration of the pass, (c) the list of prohibited localities, animals and birds and (d) the countersignature of the Commanding Officer.

(3) On arrival at the military station to which they are granted furlough they shall report themselves to the military authorities at that station who will attach them to a military unit.

(4) The Officer Commanding the Corps or Detachment to which they are attached will, unless there are valid reasons to the contrary, complete the shooting pass by entering (a) the name of a qualified interpreter, (b) the dates indicating the duration of the pass and (c) the list of prohibited localities, animals and birds for the tracts of country where the members of the party intend to shoot; and will then add (d) his countersignature. He will also give the notice to the civil authorities required by rule 26.

The possession of fire-arms and ammunition by members of the party is only allowed during the currency of the completed shooting pass, otherwise Rules 18 and 19 apply at the station to which the men are granted furlough.

24. Shooting passes, if granted to regimental warrant officers and sergeants, shall not extend to more than 14 days; and, if granted to rank and file, shall not extend to more than 7 days.

25. Officers Commanding Stations, and Officers Commanding troops about to march, will communicate with the Civil District Officer in order to ascertain—

(a) in what localities shooting ought to be forbidden :

(b) what animals or birds are regarded by the inhabitants as sacred, or are protected by rules relating to the establishment of a close season.

26. Prior to the issue of a shooting pass which is to extend over three days, the Commanding Officer by whom it is to be granted shall send notice thereof to the District Officer of any civil district in which the members of the party are to be permitted to shoot. This notice shall be despatched at least three days before the commencement of the currency of the shooting pass. The notice shall state the names and rank of the members of the party, the place or places which they are to visit and the dates indicating the duration of the pass.

27. For a Native State, the Political Officer in charge shall be deemed to be the District Officer for the purposes of Rules 25 and 26. The notice furnished to the Political Officer under the latter rule shall be despatched at least three days beforehand ; but such longer notice shall be given as is possible. Soldiers marching through a Native State are in no case to be permitted to shoot unless within 10 miles of camp.

PART IV.

Rules for dealing with offences.

28. When any serious breach of these rules occurs the Officer Commanding the Corps or Detachment will at once report the date and all the facts of the incident, so far as known, by telegram direct to the Adjutant-General in India; repeating the message to the General Officer Commanding the District, to the Deputy Adjutant-General of the Command and to the Military Department. Detailed reports will be submitted subsequently by letter through the usual channel for the information of the Commander-in-Chief and the Government of India.

29. In every such case the Officer Commanding the Corps or Detachment will immediately commence a thorough and searching investigation, in view to securing the best possible narrative while the event is still fresh; and he will communicate with the District Magistrate as freely as required. When the Civil authorities also take up the case, every assistance possible will be rendered to them in their investigation. The Medical Officer who first attends to any person (whether soldier or civilian) wounded in any such case, will, without delay, bring to the notice of both the civil and military authorities the nature and extent of the injuries received and their probable ultimate result.

30. Any warrant officer, non-commissioned officer or private soldier shooting without a pass shall be tried by court-martial, and shall on conviction be deprived of the privilege of shooting during the remainder of his Indian service. Also any member of a shooting party, who commits any breach of these rules resulting in material injury to person or property, shall be tried by court-martial. Cases of all other breaches of the rules shall be reported to the General Officer Commanding the District for orders.

31. When a court-martial is to be held under Rule 30 the case shall be sent to the Deputy Judge Advocate-General, or Assistant Judge Advocate-General, who shall frame the charges and prepare the brief for the prosecution and the proceedings of the court-martial shall be sent to the same officer for report before confirmation. If a civil enquiry has been held on any case, proceedings of enquiry should accompany application for trial in view of all possible evidence being made available.

32. When a court-martial is held under these rules, the result will be reported for the information of the Commander-in-Chief and the Government of India.

33. If any breach of these rules, or any act committed by a member of a shooting party, results in an affray with natives, or in material injury to person or property, and the offender or offenders cannot be identified, all shooting passes will be prohibited in the Corps or Detachment, or in the district, for a period not exceeding two years, at the discretion of the Lieutenant-General Commanding. Every such prohibition shall be published in Command Orders and reported for the information of the Commander-in-Chief and the Government of India.

PART V.

Special Rules for Warrant and Non-Commissioned Officers of Departments.

34. Shooting passes will be granted to warrant and non-commissioned officers of departments by the local Departmental Senior Commissioned Officer, in accordance with these rules so far as they may be applicable: Provided that any such warrant or non-commissioned officer may be granted a pass to shoot alone if the officer granting it is satisfied that his knowledge of the language is sufficient to enable him to converse with the inhabitants. Standing passes for a maximum period of six months, but subject to the rules relating to prohibited localities, animals and birds and to the other restrictions referred to above, may be granted to subordinates of the Military Works Department who are not employed in cantonments. In every case the officer granting the pass is responsible for seeing that the list of prohibited localities, animals and birds is duly entered on the pass.

PART VI.

Publication of these Rules.

35. A copy of these rules and of the list of prohibited localities, animals and birds shall be hung up in a conspicuous place in every barrack room.

36. Twice a year (in April and October on such day as the Officer Commanding directs) the rules included in Parts I and II and Rules 30 and 33 shall be read on parade at the head of all British squadrons, batteries and companies (including convalescent depôts and standing camps).

37. When troops disembark in India, no shooting passes shall be granted until they arrive at their destination. On their arrival, and before any passes are granted, the rules in Parts I and II and Rules 30 and 33 shall be read on parade. An order calling attention to this rule shall be issued to the Commanding Officer of each Corps or Detachment before the troops disembark.

38. A copy of the rules in Part II shall be hung up in every squadron, battery or company store.

NOTE.

The following orders and rules of law apply to the civil inhabitants of localities in which soldiers are permitted to shoot :—

The civil authorities will explain the substance of the rules and orders in simple language in all villages and tracts where soldiers are in the habit of shooting, so that the inhabitants will have no excuse for interfering unwarrantably with members of a shooting party.

2. Landlords, headmen and village police will be warned that they are expected to give their assistance in avoiding disputes between villagers and soldiers out shooting.

3. The rules for soldiers provide for punishment of a corps or detachment, or district, in the event of the offenders not being discovered. A similar responsibility may be enforced upon villages where affrays with British soldiers have occurred, if the villagers generally, or a considerable number of them, have made an unwarranted attack upon a shooting party, but the actual offenders have not been brought to justice. The villagers will be warned that in such cases they are liable by law to have extra police quartered upon them at their own expense.

4. The villagers will also be warned that they are not in any circumstances to take the law into their own hands, but are to lodge any complaint they have to make in a legal manner.

5. In cases which are not cognizable by the police, or where the prosecution is not undertaken by the civil authorities, the Civil District Officer will inform the Commanding Officer to that effect, for such action as the latter may consider fit to take.

He shall produce it when reasonably required to do so, and he shall at once return it to the squadron, battery or company orderly sergeant when the party comes back to camp or lines. On returning the pass he shall report any breach of these rules, any affray with natives or any mishap, which may have occurred during the absence of the party. * * * *

5. If any member of a shooting party commits any act resulting in injury to person or property, or is involved in an affray with natives, the party shall return to camp or lines, without delay, after reporting, if possible, to the nearest civil authority.

6. No person not named in the pass, except game coolies, shall accompany a shooting party.

7. There shall be no loading in the neighbourhood of camp or lines; and all fire-arms shall be unloaded before shooting parties return.

8. No shooting with bullets of any kind is permitted except in forest or close jungle, or in tracts of country where such shooting is not attended with danger. Shooting at night is forbidden, except in forest.

9. No member of a shooting party shall address or enter into conversation with any native woman.

16. No rifle or carbine shall be used which carries Government ammunition, or is under ·450 bore, or is sighted over 150 yards. All bullets used with rifles or carbines for sporting purposes shall be hollow.

17. No private soldier, not qualified to be a member of a shooting party, shall be allowed to possess a rifle, carbine or gun of his own.

18. Fire-arms and ammunition used for sporting purposes, whether private property or issued by Government, shall be kept in the squadron, battery or company store-chest in charge of the squadron sergeant-majors, quarter-master sergeants or color-sergeants. They will be issued by the above-named non-commissioned officers, on production of a pass in which they are specified, and this duty shall not be delegated to any other person. The armourer sergeant (or, in the case of a battery, the Section Officer) will sign the specification of fire-arms on the pass, and no arms shall be issued unless he certifies that they are in good condition and not contrary to rule 16.

19 All fire-arms issued from the store-chest and unused ammunition shall be returned to the sergeant in charge who will sign to their receipt on the shooting pass when the party comes back to camp or lines. All arms kept for sporting purposes shall be entered on the "daily state" of the Corps or Detachment; and shall be shown as "present," "on pass," or "absent."

No. 440.—The following is published for general information :

No. 1203 C. W. I., dated Simla, the 26th October 1900.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Public Works Department.

Review of Irrigation in India in 1898-99.

Read—

Note by A. R. Becher, Esquire, Accountant-General, Public Works Department, upon the Accounts of Revenue and Expenditure of Irrigation Works in India for 1898-89.

Provincial Revenue Reports of Irrigation Works for 1898-89.

OBSERVATIONS.—The Irrigation Works in India are divided into two main classes, Major Works and Minor Works. Major Works are subdivided into—

(a) Productive Works, the capital of which is provided from borrowed money.

(b) Protective Works, designed as a protection against famine, the capital of which is provided from the Famine Grant.

Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept for all Major Works.

Minor Works are constructed from funds provided out of the General Revenues of India and are subdivided into—

(a) Works for which both Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept.

(b) Works for which only Revenue Accounts are kept.

PRODUCTIVE WORKS.

2. Productive Works are those which are expected to yield sufficient revenue to pay their working expenses and the interest on the outlay incurred in their construction, reckoned at 4 per cent. No project is now sanctioned as a Productive Work unless it can be shown beyond reasonable doubt that the irrigation when fully developed will at least fulfil those conditions. But in former years before rules to this effect were definitely laid down several large irrigation works were constructed from borrowed money which would not now be admitted to the Productive class.

There are 11 of these works, viz, the Grissa, Sone, and Midnapur Irrigation Canals, and the Hijili Tidal (Navigation) Canal, in Bengal, and seven irrigation works in the Deccan and Gujarat. They are still retained on the list of Productive Works, but they are never likely to be remunerative, and current expenditure against their capital accounts is now charged against the general revenues of India. In addition to these 11 works there are two projects in Madras, the Karnul Canal and the Barur Tank, which have proved financial failures. In the table below the financial results attained on these thirteen works, which are Productive only in name, are exhibited separately from those which are actually, or are expected shortly to be, remunerative. Of the latter there are twenty-one projects in operation and seven under construction. The financial resuls of Productive Works in operation during and up to the end of 1898-99 may therefore be stated as follows :

Productive Works.	Number of works.	Capital outlay to end of 1898-99.	Net revenue in 1898 99.	Return on Capital Outlay.	Accumulated net revenue up to end of 1898-99	Accumulated interest charges on Capital Outlay to end of 1898-99.	Surplus Revenue up to end of 1898-99.
		Rs.	Rs.	Per cent.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Works sanctioned as productive but not productive according to defination now in force.	13	9,73,14,110	6,91,730	0·71	31,37,98[illegible]	8,36,80,850	—8,05,42,870
Works which are actually productive or are expected to be so.	21	21,83,88,660	2,10,10,220	9·62	33,59,75,900	18,55,44,160	15,04,31,740

The total loss on the 13 works which, as has been stated above, are never likely to be remunerative, has amounted to 8 crores of rupees, a loss that will necessarily increase. But though these works have proved a failure as financial investments, they have been indirectly of great benefit to the tracts of country which they irrigate, by securing large areas of cultivation against the vicissitudes of the seasons. The area irrigated by them during the year under review amounted to nearly 800,000 acres.

The 21 works which are considered to fulfil the conditions of a Productive Work, paid collectively 9 62 per cent. on their capital outlay during the year, while the surplus revenue, after paying interest charges, which they had contributed to the general revenues of the country up to the end of 1898-99, exceeded 15 crores of rupees. The least remunerative is the Periyar project, which paid only 1·7 per cent. on its capital cost. Irrigation from this work did not commence until 1896-97, and is not yet fully developed.

3. Taken collectively by Provinces the Productive Works in operation gave the following results during the year :

Province.		Number of works.	Area irrigated.	Value of crops irrigated. Total.	Value of crops irrigated. Per acre.	Assessed revenue per acre irrigated.	Capital outlay to end of 1898-99.	Net revenue in 1898-99.	Percentage of net revenue on capital outlay.

The total area irrigated fell short of the areas for the years 1896-97 and 1897-98 which, owing to the intense demand due to famine and drought, were the highest on record, by 340,459 and 375,655 acres only. The Punjab Canals irrigated a larger area and paid a higher percentage on capital outlay than canals of this class in any other province. The Lower Sohag and Para Canal cleared its debt of interest during the year and paid a return (the highest on record) of 11·54 per cent. on its capital outlay. The results recorded of the working of the Chenab Canal, which paid a return of 8·14 per cent. on its capital outlay, were again very striking. Although its system of distributaries is still incomplete it irrigated no less than 957,705 acres, an area 24 per cent. in excess of the area irrigated in the previous year and exceeding by 174,975 acres the area in British territory irrigated by the Sirhind Canal, the largest of the old Punjab Canals. At the end of 1897-98 the interest debt stood at Rs. 7,47,556. This was completely cleared off during the year, at the end of which the revenue account of the canal showed a surplus of Rs. 3,09,538. The Government of India take this opportunity of congratulating the Punjab Irrigation Engineers upon the rapid development and successful working of this, their last completed, canal.

In the North-Western Provinces there was a slight falling off in the returns paid by all the four canals in operation as compared with the returns paid in 1897-98, in which year, however, the irrigation was abnormal on account of the drought.

In Madras the Productive Works irrigated a larger area and paid collectively a slightly higher return on capital outlay than in 1897-98. The financial results in this Presidency are seriously affected by the dead weight of the Karnal-Cuddapah Canal, the capital cost of which is Rs. 2,17.24,490, while the area irrigated during the year did not exceed 49,000 acres and the net revenue amounted to Rs. 44,390 only. Excluding this canal the net revenue derived from the Productive Works in Madras, including the Barur Tank and Periyar Project, was equivalent to a return of 13 per cent. on the capital outlay—a result which has not yet been attained or approached in any other Province.

In Sind the area of irrigation was less by 65,171 acres than the area, 753,822 acres, irrigated in 1897-98, while the return on capital outlay fell only from 9·54 to 9·42 per cent. These results are satisfactory. The Sind Canals are entirely dependent upon the height and duration of the floods in the Indus during the irrigation season. In 1897-98 the floods were high and long sustained: in 1898-99 they were below the average in height and not above the average in duration and on the whole were not very favourable. In connection with the Sind Canals the Government of India consider that the suggestions made by Mr. James in his memorandum deserve the careful attention of the Sind Engineers, and note with satisfaction the terms of high commendation in which the services of these officers have been referred to by the Commissioner and the Government of Bombay.

In the Bombay Deccan and Gujarat, though the area irrigated was less than in the previous year, there was an increase in the net revenue, and the return on capital outlay was 2·08 per cent. against 1·28 per cent. in 1897-98—a result which was due to a reduction in the working expenses.

In Bengal the area irrigated was 710,544 acres as compered with 701,253 acres in 1897-98 and 630,489 acres, the average of the five previous years. The Government of India agree with the Government of Bengal in regarding these figures as a satisfactory indication that the value of irrigation as an insurance against disaster in years of failing rainfall is becoming more fully realized by cultivators. The statement made in the Resolution of the Local Government that in the famine year of 1896-97 the rice crop alone, which the Sone Canals saved from destruction, was valued at a sum more than half the entire capital cost of those canals, is a sufficient indication of the great protective value of this work. The Sone Canals covered their working expenses, the net revenue amounting to Rs. 4,63,167 equivalent to a return of 1·73 per cent. on the capital outlay. On the Orissa Canals the receipts fell short of the working expenses by Rs. 29,721 and on the Midnapore Canal by Rs. 45,248.

The Government of India note with great satisfaction the high standard which has now been attained in the work of collection on the Sone and Orissa Canals on both of which the outstanding demands at the end of the year were nil, while there was a notable reduction in the number of certificates issued. These results reflect great credit on all the officers concerned.

The gross revenue derived from the Productive Irrigation Works in operation in India in 1898-99 amounted to 317·60 lakhs of rupees or Rs. 3·32 per acre irrigated.

There are also in course of construction seven new projects which have been sanctioned as Productive Works. They are—

(i) The Mandalay Canal in Upper Burma, a perennial canal designed to irrigate 72,000 acres in the "dry zone" of Burma. The work was started in 1896-97 and is being vigorously pushed on.

(ii) The Fatehpur Branch of the Lower Ganges Canal in the North-Western Provinces. This is an extension, 106 miles in length, of the Ganges Canal from Cawnpore into the Allahabad District. A portion of the work has already been opened and irrigation from it begun. The whole project will soon be completed and will be capable of irrigating 116,000 acres.

(iii) The Jhelum Canal in the Punjab. This important project will bring a large desert tract under cultivation and is estimated to irrigate about 600,000 acres. Work was started during the year and is now in active progress.

(iv) The Jamrao Canal in Sind. This large canal is designed to supply water to 260,000 acres in a comparatively rainless tract in Sind. Work was started in 1895-96. The head works are completed and the canal was opened in November 1899.

(v) The Dad Canal, (vi) The Naulakhi Canal, (vii) The Nasrat Canal.

These are projects for improving and extending existing canals in Sind, so as to bring an additional area of 277,563 acres under irrigation. Work on the Dad Canal was begun in 1896-97 and is in full progress. On the Naulakhi and Nasrat Canals preliminary works only have as yet been commenced.

PROTECTIVE WORKS.

4. There are only five works of the protective class in operation in India. They gave the results shown below during the year under review :—

Province.	Area irrigated.	Capital outlay to end of 1898-99.	Net revenue in 1898 99.	Percentage of net revenue on capital outlay.
	Acres.	Rs.	Rs.
Swát River Canal (Punjab)	139 759	40,29,300	3,46,730	8·60

Total ...	302,745	2,07,87,660	4,77,230	2·30

The most prominent of the results tabulated in the statement above are those of the Swat River Canal in the Punjab. This work though sanctioned as a Protective work might well have been included in the Productive class. It paid a return of no less than 8·6 per cent. during the year on its capital outlay, the net revenue exceeding the interest charges of the year by 124 per cent., while the outstanding debt of interest has been reduced from Rs. 5,58,153 to Rs. 3,66,207, a comparatively small balance that will soon be paid off.

5. The major works which paid over 4 per cent. on the capital outlay are as follows:—

	PERCENTAGES PAID IN			Capital outlay to end of 1898 99.	Area irrigated during 1898-99.

Sixteen of the large irrigation systems have paid off the accumulated interest on the capital invested in them and several more are shortly expected to do so. The total surplus which the 16 works have contributed amounts to nearly 16¼ crores of rupees, a sum which exceeds the capital invested in them by 2½ crores.

The following statement gives the cost of maintenance and working considered with reference to the area irrigated and to the gross revenue realized :—

Province.	Working expenses per acre irrigated.	Percentage of working expenses on gross revenue.
	Rs.
Bombay—Sind	0·5	27·9
Madras	0·9	19·9
Punjab	1·0	28·6
North-Western Provinces	1·4	34·1
Bengal	1·9	77·6
Bombay—Deccan and Gujarat	3·5	42·7

The Sind Canals cost least to work per acre irrigated, while the Madras works were worked for the smallest share of the gross revenue. The high ratio of working expenses to gross revenue in Bengal is due in part to the absence of owner's rates and to the fact that the land being permanently settled no enhancement of land revenue on account of irrigation can be made. The high rate per acre in the Deccan and Gujarat is identical with that of the previous year, and with the average of former years, and is due to special causes.

*There was no irrigation from the Saran Canals, the net revenue of Rs. 3,730 comprising principally unrealized water-rates of the previous year collected during 1898-99.

†These figures represent the area the cultivation of which depends upon the protection afforded by the embankments.

The most important of the irrigation works of this class are the Inundation Canals in Sind and the Punjab. In Sind the area irrigated amounted to 981,049 acres as compared with 840,123 acres in the previous year. The return on capital outlay, however, decreased from 26¼ to 18¾ per cent., this decrease being due to an unusually large outlay on the Fuleli Canals. In the Punjab, on the other hand, the return on capital outlay of 24½ per cent. slightly exceeded that of 1897-98 though the area irrigated, 664,213 acres, was less than the area of that year by 152,193 acres.

In Burma these works consist of embankments which, by the protection they afford against floods, enable large tracts to be brought under cultivation. The area protected, which varies very little from year to year, amounted in 1898-99 to 453,317 acres and the return on capital outlay to 19·3 per cent. The total area irrigated by this class of minor works was 2,831,990 acres as compared with 2,915,560 acres in 1897-98 and value of the crops raised is estimated at 6·51 crores of rupees.

The navigation works consist of the Buckingham Canal and three other smaller canals in Madras, and the Calcutta and Eastern Canals and the Orissa Coast Canal in Bengal.

The traffic on the Buckingham Canal was less than usual and the maintenance charges, which were rather above the normal, exceeded the receipts by Rs. 8,736.

On the Circular and Eastern Canals in Bengal the total receipts amounted to Rs. 4,09,281 as compared with Rs. 4,26,203 in the previous year, the falling off being attributed to general dulness in trade and to the plague scare. The working expenses were higher than usual and the return on capital outlay was only 2 per cent. as compared with 3·1 per cent., the average of the five previous years.

On the Orissa Coast Canal the working expenses exceeded the receipts by Rs. 9,194. The opening of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway is said to have affected the revenue of this canal and to be likely to continue to do so.

MINOR WORKS FOR WHICH ONLY REVENUE ACCOUNTS ARE KEPT.

7. The results obtained from these works during the year were as follows :—

Area irrigated	1,772,174 acres.
	Rs.
Gross receipts	48,70,460
Expenditure	23,46,210
Net revenue	25,24,250

The expenditure includes not only working expenses, but also the cost of extensions and improvements, which, in the case of works for which capital accounts are kept, would be charged against capital. The net revenue of 25¼ lakhs may, therefore, be said to represent the actual gain to the revenues of the country derived from these works.

FINANCIAL RESULTS OF IRRIGATION WORKS IN INDIA.

8. The statement in paragraph 2 of this review shows the surplus revenue derived from Productive Works after deducting interest at 4 per cent. on the total direct capital outlay. But though, for purposes of account, interest on the full capital outlay is charged against each work, it is not actually payable upon any portion of the outlay not met from borrowed money.

The results of Irrigation Works in India as they affect the general taxpayer may therefore be stated as follows :—

	During 1898-99.	To end of 1898-99.
MAJOR WORKS.	Rs.	Rs.

*These figures represent the gross revenue due to the expenditure of Government capital less collection charges.

The results shown above do not include those due to Minor Works for which neither Capital nor Revenue Accounts are kept. A large amount of land revenue depends upon the efficient maintenance of these works, but it is not possible to determine how much of it is directly due to the expenditure incurred upon them by Government. In Madras, however, where this class of works is most largely represented, the expenditure on them in 1898-99 is stated to have been Rs. 20,13,671, while the gross revenue dependent on their maintenance is estimated at Rs. 89,98,980.

9. The total area irrigated by all classes of irrigation works in India in 1898-99 was 18½ million acres and the value of the crops raised by means of this irrigation is estimated at 39⅐ crores of rupees.

THE MERCHANT SHIPPING (LIABILITY OF SHIPOWNERS AND OTHERS) ACT, 1900.

[63 & 64 VICTORIA, CHAPTER 32.]

An act to amend the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, with respect to the Liability of Shipowners and others.

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in the present Parliament assembled and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

Further limitation of liability of ship-owner.

1. The limitation of the liability of the owners of any ship set by section five hundred and three of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, (57 & 58 Vict, c. 60.) in respect of loss of or damage to vessels, goods, merchandise, or other things, shall extend and apply to all cases where (without their actual fault or privity) any loss or damage is caused to property or rights of any kind, whether on land or on water, or whether fixed or moveable, by reason of the improper navigation or management of the ship Limitation of liability of harbour conservancy authority.

2.—(1) The owners of any dock or canal, or a harbour authority or a conservancy authority, as defined by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, shall not, where without their actual fault or privity any loss or damage is caused to any vessel or vessels, or to any goods, merchandise, or other things whatsoever on board any vessel or vessels, be liable to damages beyond an aggregate amount not exceeding eight pounds for each ton of the tonnage of the largest registered British ship which, at the time of such loss or damage occurring, is, or within the period of five years previous thereto has been, within the area over which such dock or canal owner, harbour authority or conservancy authority, performs any duty or exercises any power. A ship shall not be deemed to have been within the area over which a harbour authority or a conservancy authority performs any duty, or exercises any powers, by reason only that it has been built or fitted out within such area, or that it has taken shelter within or passed through such area on a voyage between two places both situate outside that area, or that it has loaded or unloaded mails or passengers within that area.

(2) For the purpose of this section the tonnage of ships shall be ascertained as provided by section five hundred and three, sub-section two, of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, and the register of any ship shall be sufficient evidence that the gross tonnage and the deductions therefrom and the registered tonnage are as therein stated.

(3) Section five hundred and four of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, shall apply to this section as if the words "owner of a British or foreign ship" included a harbour authority and a conservancy authority, and the owner of a canal or of a dock.

(6) Nothing in this section shall impose any liability in respect of any such loss or damage on any such owners or authority in any case where no such liability would have existed if this Act had not passed.

Limitation of liability where several claims arise on one occasion.

3. The limitation of liability under this Act shall relate to the whole of any losses and damages which may arise upon any one distinct occasion, although such losses and damages may be sustained by more than one person, and shall apply whether the liability arises at common law or under any general or private Act of Parliament, and notwithstanding anything contained in such Act.

II.—In exercise of the powers confered by section 6 of the said Act, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to prohibit the manufacture, possession or importation of such acetylene as is declared by paragraph I of this Notification to be an explosive:

Provided that nothing in this Notification shall apply to acetylene in admixture with air when such admixture takes place only in a burner or contrivance in which the mixture is intended to be burnt:

Provided, also, that nothing in this Notification shall be held to apply to an admixture of acetylene and air which may unavoidably occur in the first use or re-charging of an apparatus properly designed and constructed with a view to the production of pure acetylene.

CENSUS.

The 7th December 1900.

No. 292.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 15 of the Indian Census Act, 1900 (X of 1900), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following rules for taking the census (1) of cantonments, and of troops on the march and elsewhere, and (2) of railway servants and others residing on railway premises and travellers by rail:—

RULES FOR TAKING THE CENSUS OF CANTONMENTS AND OF TROOPS ON THE MARCH AND ELSEWHERE.

A.—Military limits.

1. Within regimental lines or other purely military limits the census will be taken by the military authorities.

2. The determination of these limits should be undertaken, as soon as possible after the receipt of these instructions, by the military and civil authorities in consultation with each other, and should be shown on a map, so that both may know clearly the areas for the enumeration of which they are respectively responsible.

3. To prevent mistakes or double enumeration, it is advisable for the military authorities to have their limits cleared, between sunset on the 1st of March 1901 and sunrise on the 2nd idem, of all persons who are not residing temporarily or permanently within those limits as officers of any grade, fighting-men, non-combatants attached to the regiments, the servants of the above, regimental followers, or members of the families of any of these.

4. The census to be taken by the military authorities under the above orders will therefore include all persons, of whatever age, sex, race, or profession, who on the night of the 1st March are temporarily or permanently residing within military limits. In other words, it will include all persons who, though ordinarily residing elsewhere, may on that night be stopping temporarily within those limits; and also those who, while actually living at the time and taking their meals within the same, may be absent for a few hours on night duty, etc.

5. On the receipt of these orders, a list should be prepared showing every house or other building in the area in question which is inhabited, or is likely to be inhabited, on the 1st March. A convenient form for this list is the following:—

HOUSE LIST.

District Cantonment or Station Regiment

Serial No. of house.	Description of house i. e., barracks, guard-house, dwelling-house, married quarters, follower's quarters, etc.	Name of chief occupant or officer in charge.	Usual number of occupants.	Language spoken.	Number of household schedules required.
1	2	3	4	5	6

6. If any large building has been divided into separate dwellings or tenements, such as married quarters occupied by distinct families or groups of persons, each of these dwellings should be given a separate number in column 1 of the list. Large buildings not so divided, such as the quarters of unmarried privates, should be given only one number.

7. An abstract of the list should be prepared in the following form and forwarded to the District or Political Officer, as the case may be. It serves as an indent for schedules, and must be carefully prepared.

ABSTRACT OF HOUSE LIST.

District Cantonment or Station Regiment

Total number of houses.	NUMBER OF OCCUPANTS SPEAKING				Number of household schedules required at one for four persons.	REMARKS.
	English.	Vernacular A.	Vernacular. B.	Vernacular. C.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7

8. Some time before the 15th November the number entered against each house in the above list should be painted conspicuously upon the building, so that it may be easily noted on the night of the census.

9. After the numbers have been painted, the houses should be arranged in compact blocks, and these blocks grouped into circles. No block should contain more than 150 persons and no circle more than 2,500.

10. For each block an enumerator should be appointed and for each circle a supervisor. Non-commissioned officers will usually be selected for these posts. Native followers and servants attached to British regiments or employed by the officers should be enumerated by the regimental munshi, by a Commissariat native official, or by some one selected with reference to his knowledge of their language and customs.

11. A circle list should then be drawn up in the following form and forwarded to the District or Political Officer, as the case may be :—

CIRCLE LIST.

District Cantonment or Station Regiment

Circle No.	Name of Supervisor.	Number of block.	Name of Enumerator.	Number of houses in each block.	Number of persons in each block.	REMARKS.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7

12. As soon as the forms are received, the block list forming part of the book of schedules and showing the number and description of houses in each block should be written up from the house lists. A commissioned officer should then teach the supervisors and enumerators their work by making them fill up a few entries by way of experiment and correcting their mistakes. Spare forms will be supplied for this purpose at the rate of two leaves (four pages) for each enumerator.

13. At the beginning of February, each enumerator should go round his block and enter in the book of schedules full particulars every man, woman, or child whom he finds residing therein. This record should be carefully examined and initialled by the officer responsible for the census, and all errors rectified. The houses should be taken in the order in which they are entered in the house list, and exact observance of the instructions must be rigidly enforced. Black ink only must be provided for this preliminary enumeration. Europeans and Eurasians should not be enumerated on this occasion, but household schedules should be distributed to them and the signature of the head of the family taken in the last column of the block list.

14. After gunfire on the night of the 1st March 1901, the enumerator should again go over his block, check and bring up to date the entries previously made, and thus complete the census. All such additions or erasures must be made in red ink.

15. On the morning of the 2nd March the enumerators should collect all the household schedules that have been issued and sew them into their books. They will then assemble at some place fixed by the supervisor and prepare under his instructions the abstracts inside the covers. After testing the figures, the supervisor will compile them into a circle summary, and the various summaries will then be combined into a single statement by the officer in charge of the census and sent to the District or Political Officer, as the case may be. The books and schedules for each regiment or detachment should be packed and registered separately and despatched to the same officer.

16. As it is necessary that the scheme laid down for the census of the whole country should be strictly followed, arrangements will be made by Local Governments and Administrations to place a European district official in direct communication with the military authorities in each cantonment, so that he may give advice to the latter, and otherwise ensure uniformity and punctuality in the arrangements.

B.—Troops on the march and on duty outside Cantonments.

17. The census of regiments on the march and of troops on duty will be taken by the officer in command. The census will include all persons, of whatever sex, age, or profession, who are marching with the troops. It will probably be known beforehand what troops will be on the march on the night of the 1st March, so that the officer in command should be provided with enumeration books and schedules at the cantonment from which the troops start. He should also arrange to make one of the weekly halts on the 1st March 1901. There will be no preliminary enumeration in this case, unless one has been completed before the troops left their last cantonment.

18. If the regiment or detachment be travelling by rail on the night of the census the enumeration should be effected at the first place at which the men alight. Such troops will not be enumerated by the railway authorities, who will, however, enumerate the families, servants and followers travelling with them.

19. The books and schedules for detachments on the march should be sent to the head-quarters of their regiments if it be within the province where they are enumerated. For regiments on the march, the books, etc., should be despatched to the military authorities of the cantonment at which they were last stationed, and will be then dealt with as prescribed in paragraph 15 above.

20. Troops or military outposts beyond the administrative frontier will be recorded in the final tables as belonging to the cantonment or station within the administrative frontier from which or in connexion with which they are detailed or which is nearest to the post they occupy. Their schedules will be dealt with accordingly.

C.—Cantonment Bazars and Civil limits.

21. The census of so much of each cantonment as lies beyond regimental or other purely military limits will be taken by the Cantonment Magistrate acting under the direct orders of the civil authorities of the District or State. Exceptional cases will probably be found, such as that of Mhow, in which the whole arrangements will have to be controlled by the Officer Commanding, who will thus be responsible for their efficiency and punctuality. The rules to be followed are those laid down in the Imperial and Provincial Census Code.

D.—General.

22. The Provincial Superintendents will issue the necessary subsidiary instructions, and in particular will see that the general schedules and instructions are supplied in English in a form suitable for the enumeration of British troops. This can be most readily done by reproducing the instructions on the back of the household schedule with such modifications as may be necessary.

RAILWAY CENSUS.

1. Open line.—In the case of an open line of railway the term—

(1) Railway premises includes a railway station within distant signals, a workshop, a colliery, a steamer-ghât and all other premises within the railway boundaries on which permanent or temporary employés of the railway reside, except gangmen's and gatemen's huts and similar isolated buildings, outside the distant signals of stations.

(2) Charge means the section of line, falling with a given District or State, under a Charge Superintendent appointed by the railway authorities for this purpose.

(3) Circle means a station or railway premises under a supervisor, who will ordinarily be the station master or other official in charge of the premises. Large circles will be divided into blocks.

(4) Block means a group of not more than 50 houses under the charge of an enumerator and forming part of a circle.

2. Line under construction.—In the case of a line under construction, the census operations will be under the charge of the Engineer-in-Chief, who will be guided by the above definitions so far as they are applicable, and will act in consultation with the District Officer.

3. Persons to be enumerated.—The classes of the population to be enumerated by the railway authorities are—

A.—Persons residing within railway premises, whether on open lines or lines under construction.

CLASS A.—Residents.

4. Residents defined.—The term "residents" includes all persons sleeping on "railway premises" on the night of the 1st March 1901.

It does not include—

(a) Signalmen, gangmen or gatemen living in small isolated houses and huts beyond distant signals, whether within or without the railway fences. These will be included in one of the blocks of the nearest village or town, and will be enumerated by the civil officers along with the ordinary population of that block.

(b) Railway servants or others who work on railway premises either by day or night, but who habitually return to their houses outside "railway premises" when off work.

But it does include—

(c) Large collections of railway labourers sleeping near the railway works on which they are employed, but outside station limits or "railway premises" as defined by the distant signals. Such should be enumerated by the railway officials who employ them.

5. Census Divisions.—The first step to be taken is to parcel out all railway premises into charges for superintendents, circles for supervisors, and blocks for enumerators The partition should be territorial and not departmental, and in each charge a single officer of the railway must be made responsible for all the census arrangements therein. Ordinarily a station or premises will form a circle, which will be divided into blocks, if large enough to render this necessary. Very large premises, such as collieries or extensive workshops, may be treated as a distinct charge which may be divided into circles of about 500 houses each. The form of register annexed (Appendix No. 1) should be used in forming census divisions. The instructions annexed to it show how each column should be filled up. An extract comprising all the entries for each Province or State should be sent to the Provincial Superintendent of Census, or to the British Political Officer, as the case may be, and a similar extract of the entries for a charge should go to the District Officer in British territory and to the Political Officer in Native States. The preparation of the register should be commenced at once, and completed by the end of August 1900. Where railway permises are much mixed up with the houses of the civil population, a map should be prepared, and the respective jurisdictions settled in consultation with the civil officials.

6. House numbering.—A list for each station or railway settlement should be prepared, in the form of the block list annexed to the general schedule, showing the number and description of buildings included in each block; and all buildings must be numbered with paint or some other material for the guidance of the enumerator. The numbers should run in the order in which he will visit each building on the night of the 1st March. In writing up this list a note should be made in the last column against the houses where household or private schedules have to be left.

7. Appointment of Census Officers.—Superintendents, supervisors and enumerators should be appointed in writing by the chief railway authorities, and, as far as possible, should be their employés. In circles where there is a considerable European or Eurasian colony they should be Europeans or should know English well. At small stations the same person may enumerate both residents and travellers, so as to save training two different men. Collectors and Deputy Commissioners will be instructed (a) to superintend the training of the supervisors and enumerators; (b) to assist in procuring enumerators where the railway employés are not natives of the province and are not acquainted with the names of the castes, sects and occupations of the people.

8. Schedules.—The enumeration will be effected through schedules of which three kinds will be issued—(a) household schedules, in English for Europeans and Eurasians, to be filled in by the head of each family, and returned to the enumerator on the morning of the 2nd March: (b) private schedules in vernacular for native employés of the superior grades to be dealt with in the same way; and (c) general schedules, in which the enumerator fills in the entries for each person at the dictation of the head of the family. The Supervisor of the circle is responsible for seeing that all three kinds are correctly filled up. Each schedule contains room for ten persons per page. In the case of Europeans and Eurasians the return for native servants and their families on the premises is to be made by the enumerator of the block on the general schedule with the other native residents of the block schedule.

Along with the schedules there will be issued a cover containing detailed instructions for enumeration, a specimen schedule, and an abstract to be filled up by the enumerator after the census. After the block list has been written up, the number of general schedules required to enumerate the block should, with the block list, be stitched inside the cover, in such a manner that the stitching can be undone later on when the household and private schedules have to be bound up with the general schedules. A register in Form No. 3 must be kept of all forms issued to supervisors and enumerators.

9. Preliminary enumeration by general schedules.—Early in February every enumerator should fill in the general schedule for each house in the manner prescribed in the instructions printed on the cover. This task should be completed by the 20th February, and during its progress the supervisor should test all the entries by house-to-house visits.

10. Final enumeration.—On the night of the 1st March beginning from about 8 or 9 o'clock, the enumerator must again visit every house in its block and see that the entries are brought up to date, in accordance wite his instructions regarding visitors, births, and deaths not previously recorded. It may be noted that, according to those instructions, employés who are on duty on the night of the 1st March, but are not travelling with any train, should be recorded as present in the houses where they are entered in the general schedule, or where a household schedule or private schedule has been left.

11. Procedure with household and private schedules.—The household schedules and private schedules should be left with the head of each family about the 24th of February and his signature taken in the last column of the block list. On the morning of the 2nd March they must be collected, examined on the spot by the enumerator, and corrected, where necessary, on his suggestion. They must then be bound up in the book of schedules.

12. Provisional Totals.—On the morning of the 2nd March the supervisor will have the enumerator's abstract compiled for each block according to the instructions inside the cover. He should then compile the totals from the enumerator's abstract into a return for the circle (Appendix No. 4), make a list of the books by blocks, checking his list with the original block lists and the Register No. 3 of forms issued, pack the books in serial order accordingly, and despatch the whole without delay to the superintendent of the charge in which he is employed, who will at once send the parcels for his charge, if in British territory, to the Collector or Deputy Commissioner of the district, or to the abstracting centre designated by the Provincial Census Superintendent, and if in Native territory to such office as may have been previously arranged, certifying at the same time to the chief officer of the railway that he has done so.

13. Station enumeration.—A special official called the station enumerator should be told off at each station to enumerate all persons taking tickets at that station, or alighting from a train during the night of the 1st March 1901. Persons about to travel usually arrive at a station some time before their train is due, and should, so far as possible, be enumerated by the station enumerator before they enter the train, each being provided with an enumeration-pass to prevent his being enumerated again.

In the case of persons alighting from the train the station-enumerator should first ask if they have been enumerated already, and, if they produce enumeration passes or assert that they have been so counted, the enumerator should accept the answer, and let them go by. If they say they have not, the enumerator should fill up the schedule entries for each person in full and give him an enumeration-pass, telling him to show it if any enumerator offers to count him again.

14. Train enumeration : Civil population.—In the case of 1st and 2nd class passengers, whether European or Native, and of Europeans and Eurasians travelling intermediate or 3rd class, or on duty with the train, household schedules in English or private schedules in vernacular, as the case may be, should be distributed by the guard in charge of the train on the evening of the 1st March. The rest of the persons in the train will be enumerated by general schedules. All passengers found in the train at 6 A. M. on the 2nd March, who cannot produce enumeration-passes, or who otherwise do not appear to have been enumerated anywhere else, and all employés on duty with the train, must be counted at the first large station at which the train stops at or about that hour. A place should be chosen where the train is timed to stop for a sufficient period, which may, if necessary, be slightly prolonged. Enumeration-passes need not be given on this occasion. The household and private schedules given the evening before to 1st and 2nd class passengers and others who have not alighted during the night should be collected and examined by an intelligent official, who should also fill up the form or cause it to be filled up for those who have omitted to do so for themselves. He should finally see that the schedules thus collected are securely stitched into a cover together with the general schedules for the other passengers, thus forming a compact book of schedules for the train.

Where the local staff is insufficient for the speedy enumeration of passengers at this halt, a few clerks should be sent temporarily from another station. A plan of enumeration found effective on former occasions was for two enumerators to enter a compartment as the train drew up, accompanied, if at night, by porters with lamps. Starting from opposite ends of the compartment, each enumerated all the persons on one side of the compartment. They then moved on to the next compartment, which had been locked till their arrival, and prepared the process, the compartment they had left being then unlocked, and the passengers allowed to alight.

Travelling enumerators may also be appointed to enumerate some of the passengers in each carriage at every halt until all are returned, when the next carriage will be taken up.

15. Train enumeration: Troops.—Troops travelling by rail on the night in question will be enumerated by their officers, and the return separately sent in. But the native servants travelling with them should be enumerated with the rest of the persons in the train.

16. Provisional Totals.—For the purpose of the provisional totals the station enumeration and train enumeration should be treated as constituting separate blocks within the circle (station) at which the enumeration takes place. That is to say, the schedules containing the result of each enumeration should be bound up in a cover, abstracted, and included in the circle return, under the heading station enumeration or train enumeration, as the case may be, after the numbered blocks. See specimen entries in Form No. 4.

General.

17. Administration.—On all general arrangements connected with the census, the Agent or Manager should consult with the Superintendent of Census for the Province or Agency concerned, and in Rajputana, Central India, Quetta, Hyderabad, and Mysore, with the First Assistant to the Agent to the Governor-General and the Resident respectively. All points which cannot be settled by these officials should be referred to the Census Commissioner for India. On minor local details the chief officer of the railway should consult the Collector, Deputy Commissioner, or Political Officer concerned. In order that the arrangements may be carried out successfully, it is important that a register of the railway charges, circles and blocks in each district or State should be sent as soon as they are settled, and in any case by the end of August 1900, to the Provincial Census Superintendent, and also that the instructions given in paragraph 5 as to the territorial arrangement of census divisions should be strictly followed.

18. Indents.—The indents for forms should be sent, in Form No. 2 annexed, by the chief officer of the railway to the Superintendent of Census Operations for the Province, or in Feudatory territory to the chief Political authority, unless it be otherwise arranged with the railway management. It should be stated in the column of remarks in what language the private and general schedules are to be supplied at each station or premises.

On the basis on this indent, which can be tested by comparison with the particulars shown in the census register, the Provincial Superintendent or Political authority will supply for the census of residents (columns 4 to 8 of Form No. 2)—

(a) household or private schedules at the rate of two for each family;

(b) general schedules at the rate of one page for each house;

(c) block lists at the rate of two per block;

(d) covers one per block, plus 10 per cent. for spoilage.

For the census of travellers (columns 9 to 13 of Form No. 2) the requirements of each station should be based on the average number of passengers passing through the station on the 1st March for the last three years, with special extra provision for the station where the train enumeration under paragraph 14 is to take place.

The full supply of schedules and books, classes A and B, together with a supply of enumeration-passes for passengers, should be indented for in September at the latest, and should be prepared for household distribution and use by enumerators respectively by the middle of January 1901.

19. Expenses.—The schedules, passes and books will be supplied by Government. The agency employed will be chiefly officially attached to the railway. Unavoidable extra expenditure, such as payment for overtime on the night of the 1st March, remuneration of outsiders where no officials are available as enumerators, charges for oil, and petty stationery, may be entered in a bill under the above heads, and sent through the Provincial Census Superintendent to the Census Commissioner for submission to the Government of India for sanction.

Instructions for filling up Form I.

Column 1.—Enter a serial number for all stations and premises, each of which (unless extensive enough to be made a charge) will be treated as a circle for railway purposes.

Column 2.—Enter name of station, adding the letter S, or name and description of premises, such as workshops, coal mine, etc.

Column 3.—In the case of barracks, coolie line, etc., each dwelling place having a separate independent entrance from the common way should be treated as a separate house.

Columns 4 and 5.—The entries will be of use in estimating the number of schedules required.

Column 6.—Ordinarily the station or premises will form the circle, and the station master or the officer in chief executive charge of the premises will be the supervisor. If any station or premises should be large enough to form a charge comprising several circles, the circles should be entered with the name of the supervisor appointed to each in this column, thus: No. I Circle.—John Jones, Station Master.

At very small stations the same officer can probably do the work of supervisor and enumerator.

Column 7.—One enumerator should be provided for each block and one or more, according to the size of the station, to serve as station enumerators on the night of the 1st March 1901. Natives of India should be enumerated by natives, who will be best able to deal with the entries relating to religion, caste, occupation and language. It is advisable to provide a reserve of enumerators to fill vacancies caused by illness.

Column 8.—In forming blocks the point to be considered is the number of houses for which the enumerator can reasonably be expected to complete the final enumeration between about 7 P. M. and midnight on the 1st March 1901. If the houses lie tolerably close together, an enumerator can deal with about 50; if they are scattered, the number in the block must be reduced.

Column 9—See definition of "charge" which practically corresponds with the sections prescribed for accident returns. As the statistics have to be compiled by districts or States, it is important that charges should be allotted in strict accordance with the definition. The name of the civil district or State which constitutes the charge should be carefully entered in this column.

Column 10.—The officer selected as Charge Superintendent must be in a position to exercise effective control over the supervisors, to see that their work is properly done, and to test some portion of it personally.

Persons confined beyond limits of appellate jurisdiction of High Court.

40. Where a person is confined in a prison beyond the local limits of the appellate jurisdiction of a High Court, any Judge of such Court may, if he thinks that such person should be removed under this Part for the purpose of answering a charge of an offence or of giving evidence in any criminal matter in such Court or in any Court subordinate thereto, apply in writing to the Local Government of the territories within which the prison is situate, and the Local Government may, if it thinks fit, direct that the person be so removed, subject to such rules regulating the escort of prisoners as the Governor General in Council may prescribe.

Prisoner to be brought up.

41. Upon delivery of any order under this Part to the officer in charge of the prison in which the person named therein is confined, that officer shall cause him to be taken to the Court in which his attendance is required, so as to be present in the Court at the time in such order mentioned, and shall cause him to be detained in custody in or near the Court until he has been examined or until the Judge or presiding officer of the Court authorizes him to be taken back to the prison in which he was confined.

Power to Government to exempt certain prisoners from operation of this Part.

the officer in charge of the prison shall abstain from carrying out the order, and shall send to the Court from which the order has been issued, a statement of the reason for so abstaining:

Provided that such officer as aforesaid shall not so abstain where—

(i) the order has been made under section 37; and

(ii) the person named in the order is confined under committal for trial, or under a remand pending trial or pending a preliminary investigation, and does not appear to be, from sickness or other infirmity, unfit to be removed; and

(b) where it appears to any such Court as aforesaid that the evidence of a person confined in any prison so situate and more than ten miles distant from the place at which such Court is held, is material in any such matter; or

(c) where the District Judge declines, under section 36, to countersign an order for removal;

Provided that, if since the making of any such settlement a Civil Court or other competent authority has before the commencement of this Act decided that any person was wrongly included in or omitted from the record thereof or that any right recorded in the record is erroneously stated, this definition shall be construed with due regard to such decision:

Provided also that the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, by notification in the local official Gazette, extend or restrict this definition so as to include or exclude any persons or classes of persons in any part of the territories to which this Act extends:

(c) in the form of a written usufructuary mortgage by which the mortgagor recognises the mortgagee as a landlord and himself remains in cultivating occupancy of the land as a tenant subject to the payment of rent at such rate as may be agreed upon not exceeding sixteen annas per rupee of the amount of the land-revenue in addition to the amount of the land-revenue of the tenancy and the rates and cesses chargeable thereon and for such term as may be agreed on, the mortgagor having no right to alienate his right of cultivating occupancy and the mortgagee having no right to eject the mortgagor unless on the grounds mentioned in section 39 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887; or XVI

Power to revise mortgage made in form not permitted.

(2) If a member of an agricultural tribe has before the commencement of this Act made a mortgage of his land in which there is a condition intended to operate by way of conditional sale, the Deputy Commissioner shall be empowered at any time during the currency of the mortgage to put the mortgagee to his election whether he will agree to the said condition being struck out, or to accept in lieu of the said mortgage a mortgage which may at the mortgagee's option be either in form (a) or in form (b) as permitted by section 6 and which shall be made for such period not exceeding the period permitted by the said section and for such sum of money as the Deputy Commissioner considers to be reasonable.

(3) If proceedings for the enforcement of a condition intended to operate by way of conditional sale are instituted or are pending at the commencement of this Act in any Civil Court or if a suit is instituted in any Civil Court on a mortgage to which sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) applies, the Court shall refer the case to the Deputy Commissioner with a view to the exercise of the power conferred by the sub-section applying thereto.

Restriction on power to make further temporary alienation.

(2) Any such further temporary alienation, if made for a longer term than is permitted by this section, shall be deemed to be a temporary alienation for the term permitted by this section.

13. If a mortgagee, lessee or farmer holding possession under a mortgage made under section 6 or under a lease or farm made under section 11 or under a mortgage, lease or farm made under section 12 remains in possession after the expiry of the term for which he is entitled to hold under his mortgage, lease or farm, the Deputy Commissioner may, of his own motion or on the application of the person entitled to possession, eject such mortgagee, lessee or farmer and place the person so entitled in possession.

"and fix the term of office of members of the committee;"

and after sub-section (2) of the same section, the following sub-section shall be added, namely—

"(3) The Local Government may delegate to the Commissioner of any division the power, to be exercised within such division, to appoint the members of a committee under clause (d) of sub-section (1)."

[First publication.]

THE following Act of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in Council received the assent of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor on the 13th October 1900, and that of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General on the 8th December 1900, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

PUNJAB ACT No. IV OF 1900.

(First published in the Punjab Government Gazette on the 27th December 1900.)

An Act to amend section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in respect of the descent of Jágírs.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in respect of the descent of Jágírs;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, local extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Punjab Descent of Jágírs Act, 1900;

(2) It extends to the Punjab; and

(3) It shall come into force at once.

New section substituted for section 8 of Act IV of 1872.

2. The following section shall be substituted for section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, namely—

Rule of descent in family of assignee of land revenue.

8. (1) Where the Government has heretofore declared or at any time hereafter declares that any rule of descent in respect of succession to any assignment of land revenue shall prevail in the family of assignees, such rule of descent shall be deemed to prevail, and to have prevailed from the time when the declaration was made, anything in any law or contract to the contrary notwithstanding:

Provided that no such declaration shall hereafter be made unless and until—

(a) the Government is satisfied that the rule of descent to be so declared actually prevails in the family and has been, continuously and without breach, observed in all successions (if any) to the assignment since it was made, or

(b) the assignee or his successor in interest for the time being has, by written instrument duly executed by him, either before or after the passing of this Act, signified, on behalf of himself and his family, acceptance of the rule of descent to be so declared and either no succession has taken place since such acceptance, or else in all successions which have taken place since such acceptance the assignment has in fact not devolved otherwise than it would have devolved had the said rule of descent been in force.

(2) Any declaration made under sub-section (1) may be amended, varied or rescinded by the Government, but always subject to the proviso thereto.

(3) Where the rule of descent declared under this section to prevail involves the devolution of the assignment of land revenue to a single person as impartible property, the assignment shall not be liable to seizure, attachment or sequestration by process of any Court at the instance of a creditor for any demand against the assignee or his successor for the time being in interest, or in satisfaction of any decree or order.

Power to annex certain conditions to assignments when the rule of descent is declared.

8 A. When the Government makes any declaration under section 8 it may by notification in the local Government Gazette direct that the rule of descent thereby declared to prevail shall be subject to the following conditions or either of them, namely:—

(a) That each successor to the assignment shall be approved and accepted as such by Government.

(b) That any successor to the assignment shall, if the Government so require, make such provision out of the assignment as the Government may consider suitable for the maintenance of the widow or widows (if any) and other members of the family (if any) of the last or any previous holder of the assignment:

Provided that—

(1) the Government shall not refuse to approve and accept as a successor to the assignment any person who by the rule of descent declared under section 8 to prevail is next in order of succession unless that person is in the opinion of Government unfit to succeed to the assignment; and

(2) if the Government should exercise its authority under clause (a) of this section and refuse to accept as the successor the person indicated by the rule of descent as next in order of succession, then the next person entitled to succeed after the person so rejected, who is approved and accepted by Government, shall succeed.

8 B. When the Government has issued a notification under the authority of section 8 or of section 8 A of this Act, it shall have full power and authority to do all acts and things necessary to enforce the rule of descent declared by such notification to prevail and all or any of the conditions attached thereto.

Power to enforce rules and conditions under sections 8 and 8 A.

8 C. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary which may appear in the conditions on which any assignment has been made, the Government is hereby empowered to declare that the rules, conditions and powers enacted by sections 8, 8 A and 8 B of this Act may be made applicable after notification in the local Government Gazette to such assignments.

Authority for Government to declare former assignments subject to the rules, conditions and powers enacted by sections 8, 8 A and 8 B.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd December, 1899:—

NO. 25 OF 1899.

A Bill to amend the Indian Articles of War.

1869. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Articles of War; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Articles of War Amendment Act, 1900; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Substitution of new sub-articles for sub-article (2) of article 4, Act V, 1869.

2. For sub-article (2) of article 4 of the said Indian Articles of War, the following sub-articles shall be substituted, namely:— V of 1869.

"(2) Unattested recruits who, in the opinion of their Commanding Officer, are not likely to make good soldiers, and persons attested under these Articles who are serving in a cavalry corps and who have, in the opinion of their Commanding Officer, failed to become good riders, shall be liable to discharge from the service by order of the Commanding Officer of the corps or department to which they may belong:

"Provided that, in the case of persons attested under these Articles, this liability shall cease on the completion of their third year of service.

"(3) Every person so dismissed or discharged shall forfeit all claim to pension."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The practice of discharging from the service unattested recruits who were considered by their Commanding Officer to be unlikely to make good soldiers, and, in the cavalry branch, of discharging men at any time within the first three years of their service if they had failed to become, or were unlikely to become, good riders, was in vogue in the native army from its earliest days. In course of time, however, doubts arose as to the legality of the practice and, in deference to those doubts, it was discontinued. It has now been found, by experience, that it is necessary that Commanding Officers should be invested with the power in question, and the proposed amendment is introduced to place the legality of such proceedings beyond doubt.

Clause 1.—We have amplified sub-clause (2) so as to make the proposed Act extend to all parts of British India, and we have declared (sub-clause (3)) that it shall come into force at once. Having regard to the provisions of the new clauses 32 and 33, as to which see our remarks infra, we think that there need be no postponement of the commencement of the Act generally.

2. Clause 3 : definition of "mine."—In order to make it clear that quarries of moderate depth are not intended to be regulated by the provisions of the proposed Act, we have added words to this definition specially excepting them from its scope.

3. Clause 4.—In accordance with suggestions made in the papers, we have styled the Inspector of Mines, who is to have jurisdiction throughout the whole of British India, the Chief Inspector of Mines. This entails a number of consequential alterations in subsequent clauses where "the Inspector" is referred to.

We think it should be expressly declared that no Inspector shall be a partner or have any interest, direct or indirect, in any mine or mining rights in India. We have therefore added a new sub-clause (5) to this clause based on the last words of clause 6 of the draft Bill proposed by the Mines Committee.

4. Clause 5.—It appears to us that the powers conferred on the Inspector by clauses 10, 15, sub-clause (1), and 22 of the Bill, which require a practical knowledge of mining, should under no circumstances be exercised by the District Magistrate under this clause. We have therefore added a proviso specially excepting these powers.

5. Clause 6.—In accordance with a suggestion made by the Government of Bombay, we have added words to sub-clause (d) of this clause empowering the Inspector to prohibit employment in or admission to a mine on account of physical defects which make the presence of such person dangerous to himself or others.

In our opinion, there should be an appeal from any order of an Inspector under this clause to such authority as the Local Government may direct, and we have accordingly added a proviso to this effect.

6. Clause 7.—We have omitted the last eight words of sub-clause (1) of this clause, which declares that all information acquired by Inspectors of Mines in the course of their inspections shall be deemed to be official secrets because they appear to us to be unnecessary as well as misleading. We think that no prosecution should be allowed under this clause save at the instance of the Local Government or the party aggrieved, and have added a new sub-clause (3) to this effect in place of the original sub-clause, which will be superfluous if sub-clause (1) is amended, as we have suggested above.

7. Clauses 9—12.—These clauses, which deal with the employment in, and admission of children to, mines and enable rules to be made for prohibiting, restricting or regulating the employment of women and children below ground, and for regulating various matters in connection with employment of all persons in mines, have been very strongly objected to by the Indian Mining Association. In view of these objections, which appear to us to be to some extent well founded, we have proposed various important alterations in these clauses.

8. Clause 9.—For sub-clause (2) of this clause, which absolutely prohibited the admission of any child to a mine if over four and under ten years of age, we have substituted three new sub-clauses, under which the Local Government is invested with power only under certain very special circumstances, to prohibit the admission in any mine of children over four and under twelve years of age. The special circumstances prescribed appear to us to be such that no reasonable objection could be taken to the exclusion of children from a mine where they are shown to exist, and, in order to prevent the possibility of the power conferred by the clause being arbitrarily used, we have further provided (sub-clause (3)) that, except when there is immediate danger to the life or safety of the children concerned, no order of prohibition shall be issued until the mine-owner has had one month's notice of the intention to issue the order and an opportunity of stating his objections, if any, thereto. Moreover, in order to give time to the mine-owner to adapt his arrangements to the prohibition, we have declared that the order shall not take effect until the expiry of two months from its date.

On the other hand, while proposing these concessions in favour of the mine-owner, we have (sub-clause 1) raised the minimum age below which a child may not be employed in a mine from ten to twelve, this being the minimum age most generally recognised when children are not employed, and the age suggested by the Mining Committee.

9. Clause 10.—We have added two new sub-clauses to this clause, giving power to a mine-owner, who objects to any order prohibiting the employment of women or children in his mine on the ground that such employment is dangerous or harmful, to send in his objection within twenty days of his receipt of the order to the officer or authority appointed under clause 15 and providing for the reference of the matter by such officer or authority to a committee appointed under clause 16 to be dealt with as provided in the case of other matters referred to a committee under that clause. We have also provided for the postponement of the operation of the order, save in cases when the Chief Inspector or Inspector thinks there is immediate danger to the life or safety of the women or children, till the mine-owner has had an opportunity of objecting, and if he does object, until the orders of the Local Government are passed in the matter under clause 16.

10. Clause 11.—It will be seen that we have suggested alterations in sub-clauses (b), (d) and (e) of sub-clause (1) of this clause. With regard to the latter two sub-clauses, we consider that their terms were too widely expressed in the Bill as introduced and gave just cause of complaint to mine-owners as enabling rules to be made which might seriously disturb existing relations between them and their employés. We have therefore restricted their scope very considerably, limiting sub-clause (d) to the regulation of the size and capacity of the measures employed and the method of applying such measures when the wages of persons employed in a mine depend on the quantity of work done, and sub-clause (e) to the restriction of the time for which wages earned may be withheld and the regulation of the conditions under which deductions may be made. As now restricted, they do not appear to us to be open to any reasonable objection, while they give powers to provide for matters which it may become highly desirable to regulate. In addition to these alterations in the first sub-clause, we have proposed additions to this clause with the object of guarding against the injudicious use of the powers conferred by it. By the new sub-clause (2) we have restricted the application of the whole clause, or of any part of it, to such mines or classes of mines as the Governor General in Council may, on the application of the Local Government and after making such inquiry as he may deem necessary, think fit to apply it to. Then by the new sub-clause (3) we have declared that rules proposed under the clause shall not be made until after previous publication in draft for general information; and, further, by the new sub-clause (4) we have prescribed a minimum time of three months for the submission of criticisms on the draft rules, the final consideration of such rules in the light of the criticisms thereon received being prohibited until the expiry of that time.

11. Clause 12.—In accordance with a suggestion made by the Indian Mining Association, we have provided for the grant of medical certificate of age on the request of mine-owners. We have also similarly provided for the case of Inspectors who, we think, should be able to require the Civil Surgeon to give such a certificate without the payment of any fee. In order to make the meaning of sub-clause (2) more clear, we have altered its language somewhat by making it declare that certificates granted under the clause shall be "received as primâ facie evidence" of the age of the persons referred to therein. The alterations suggested in sub-clause (3) of this clause are made with the object of making the clause more accurate in form.

12. Clause 13.—We have altered the wording of this clause so as to make it clear that the owner or agent of a mine may himself be the manager, and have added a second sub-clause declaring that the manager shall have superintendence of all parts of the mine.

13. Clause 14.—We have omitted the words "knowledge or" in the last line of sub-clause (2), and thus limited the responsibility of the manager to contraventions of the rules which have occurred with his consent.

14. Clause 15.—We have provided for the reporting of notices issued by the Inspector of Mines under this clause to the District Magistrate, as well as to the officer or authority appointed by the Governor General in Council or Local Government, in order that he may be able to take action at once under section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code if he considers this desirable. We have also omitted the provision that the notice shall require any matter, thing or practice which is dangerous or defective to be remedied "within a specified time," as no such provision occurs in the English Statute on which this clause is modelled, while such a provision seems to be inconsistent with the proviso which gives the mine-owner twenty days in every case within which to send in his objections to doing what is required of him.

15. Clause 16.—A number of important amendments have been proposed by us in this clause. In the first place, in sub-clause (1) (a) we have added words, taken from section 47, clause (18), of the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, prescribing that the members of the Committee, other than the President, shall be "practical mining engineers or persons accustomed to the working of mines." Then in sub-clause (2) we have required the mine-owner to exercise his right of nomination within a prescribed time. Further, we have added a new sub-clause (3), taken from section 47, clause (3), of the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, debarring any person from serving on a Committee, who is in any way interested in the mine to which the inquiry relates. We have also added another new sub-clause (6) empowering the Committee to exercise such of the powers of an Inspector of Mines as they may think necessary or expedient for the purposes of their inquiry. Lastly, we have in sub-clause (7) conferred power on the Local Government to give directions as to the remuneration to be paid to the members of a Committee and as to the expenses of an inquiry, including such remuneration, providing in a new sub-clause (8) for the mode of the recovery of such expenses when payable by a mine-owner.

16 Clause 17.—We have proposed various amendments in this clause also. We have first differentiated between mines already open and those which may be opened hereafter, requiring notice to be given in the former case within three months of the commencement of the Act, and in the latter, within three months of the commencement of mining operations. Then, in cases in which no Inspector of Mines has been appointed for the local area, we have provided that the notice should be given to the Chief Inspector. Lastly, we have greatly relaxed the stringency of the clause by making it sufficient to give information as to the kind of minerals to be worked and the nature of the moving power to be used, instead of the more precise information required under the Bill as introduced.

17. Clause 18.—This clause should, we think, be extended so as to cover all accidental explosions, but we would not require notice of accidents in which serious bodily injury has not occurred, and we have modified the clause on these lines.

18. Clause 19.—We have altered the first sub-clause of this clause so as to enable inquiry to be held under our law as under section 45 of the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, in the case of all explosions or accidents. The new sub-clause (3), which we have added, permits the persons holding an inquiry under the clause, like the Committee holding an inquiry under clause 16, to exercise such of the powers of an Inspector as they may think necessary or expedient for the purposes of the inquiry.

19. Clause 21.—We have made provision for appeals from the orders of the Chief Inspector and Inspectors of Mines and for the regulation of the constitution of Committees to be appointed under clause 16 by additions to sub-clauses (a) and (j) of sub-clause (2) of this clause.

We have carefully considered the question, raised in the last paragraph of the Statement of Objects and Reasons appended to the Bill as introduced, as to how far provision should be made in the proposed law for the protection of public property and works from injury in respect of any mine, and we have come to the conclusion that, if special provision is made for the keeping of proper plans by mine-owners, for inspection by Government officers and for the giving of due notice of mining operations undertaken within a certain distance of any public works, the general law of lateral support should be sufficient for the protection of Government. The Bill as introduced provides for plans and inspections, but it contains no provisions requiring notice of mining operations likely to endanger public works. In order to provide for this point, we have expanded the provisions of sub-clause (r) of sub-clause (2) of that clause into three new sub-clauses (r), (s) and (t), providing respectively for the safety of the public and their protection from injury in respect of any mine, whether worked or not, the protection of public property and work from injury in respect of any mine which is not being worked, and the giving of notices by mine-owners before undertaking mining operations in the vicinity of any railway or specified public works, suggesting fifty yards as the distance within which such notice will be required. These provisions go as far as, in our opinion, the scope of the present Bill would seem to justify. If experience should show that further provision is required, we think that this should form the subject of special legislation.

Having regard to the great importance to those concerned of the rules which this clause gives power to make, we think that a draft of such rules should in all cases be published for general information for at least three months before the draft is taken into consideration, and that this should be laid down specifically in the proposed law. We have therefore added a new sub-clause (4) to this clause with this object.

20. Clause 22.—This clause, which deals with the procedure to be followed in the making of the special rules for the control and guidance of persons employed in mines, which the owners of such mines are to make, has been to a great extent recast by us, our object being to enable the mine-owner and the Inspector to come, as far as possible, to an agreement as to the terms of any proposed rules before the rules are referred to the officer or authority appointed by the Local Government for their settlement. Instead of empowering the Inspector, as in the Bill as introduced, to require the mine-owner to frame draft rules, under pain of incurring the fine prescribed by clause 23, sub-clause (3) (e), we have provided that, in the event of the mine-owner failing for two months to prepare sufficient rules after having been called upon by the Inspector or Chief Inspector so to do, the Inspector or Chief Inspector shall himself prepare what, in his opinion, are sufficient rules, and send them to the mine-owner, and that an interval of two months shall, in the event of any difference of opinion about the rules or any of them, elapse before the rules are referred by the Inspector or Chief Inspector to the officer or authority appointed by the Local Government for their settlement, so as to allow for full discussion between parties who may be at a considerable distance from one another.

21. Clause 23.—The alterations we have proposed in this clause are merely of a drafting nature, the omission of clause (e) of sub-clause (3) being consequential on the alterations proposed by us in clause 22.

22. Clause 24.—This clause, which requires every prosecution of an owner, agent or manager for an offence against the proposed law to be instituted by an Inspector or Chief Inspector, is new. It is taken on the suggestion of the Government of Bengal from clause 19 of the draft Bill prepared by the Mines Committee.

23. Clause 26 (formerly clause 25).—We have restricted this clause, which required all offences against the Act to be tried by first class Magistrates or Sub-divisional Magistrates, to offences committed by owners, agents, managers or assistant managers and to offences punishable with imprisonment. Other offences may, we think, be properly tried by Magistrates of any class.

24. Clause 27 (formerly clause 26).—We think that this clause, in the Bill as introduced, went too far in directing that "all further" criminal proceedings should be stayed and the accused discharged. We have therefore suggested the omission of the words "all further" before, and of the words "discharge the accused" after, the words "criminal proceedings."

25. Clause 29 (formerly clause 28).—We have introduced words in this clause enabling the Government to make conditional as well as absolute exemptions, which may, we think, be useful under certain circumstances.

26. Clause 30.—This clause is new. It gives a general power to the Government of India and the Local Government to reverse or modify any order passed under the proposed law by any authority subject to their control. The Government will thus be able to interfere in cases in which no further appeal lies, but in which it is of opinion that interference is desirable on equitable grounds.

27. Clause 32, a temporary provision, is new. Having regard to the hardship which might be caused to mine-owners if the provisions of clause 9, sub-clause (1), were applied to them at once on the passing of the Act, and to the importance of securing that no action taken by Inspectors under clauses 10 and 15 should conflict with the general principles upon which rules and exemptions will be framed by Government—a process which will necessarily take some time—we think that the operation of these provisions should be postponed for six months after the rest of the proposed Act comes into force, as we have provided in this clause.

28. Clause 33, another temporary provision, is also new. It has been inserted in fulfilment of the pledge given by the Government of India in their Resolution No. $\frac{10}{7-10}$, dated 9th October, 1896, that no punishment should be inflicted under the proposed new law for a year after it comes into force. After carefully examining clause 23, the penal clause, of the Bill, we consider that this pledge will be substantially redeemed if prosecutions for offences punishable under the portions of that clause which we have indicated in our new clause are barred for a year. It could never have been intended, we think, that the other offences punishable under clause 23 should not be punishable at once.

* Subject to Minute appended.

For the reason that this Bill is drafted on the model of the English Coal Regulation Acts, which do not deal with metalliferous mines, I think that the provisions of clause 21 (2) (c), (d), (e) and (f), giving the Government power to prescribe the qualifications of managers, and all persons acting under them, to regulate the manner of ascertaining by examination or otherwise, the qualifications of managers and persons acting under them, and to provide for the grant, renewal, and cancellation of certificates of competency, should not be held to apply to mines of the latter class, but that following the law in England, and in other countries, such mines should, for the present at any rate, be left in India on the same footing as compared with coal mines which they occupy in England, where the interest of both classes are strongly represented in the Legislature.

Further, for the reason that the gold and coal mining industries are, the former chiefly, and the latter largely, carried on in Native States, which are expected to adopt, and may be expected to adopt, as far as may be, the mining laws and rules obtaining in British India, I think it undesirable that such subjects as the prohibition of the employment of women and children and the limitation of the hours of labour, should be left by the Legislature as proposed by clause 11 (1) (a) and (b) to be dealt with by the executive Government by rule and notification, whether or not such subjects should be dealt with in such manner in British India, and I think that the far-reaching effect the proposed legislation will have on these important industries prosecuted in Native States by companies with an English domicile calls for hardly less consideration than its probable results in respect of such industries in British India.

Subject to the above remarks, I agree in the report, which I have accordingly signed. I also agree in the Minute of Mr. Bose.

J. D. REES.

I sign the report subject to the following remarks:—

Clause 9, sub-clause (1), puts an absolute bar not only to the employment of children under 12 years, but also prohibits their being allowed to work below ground. Now it would appear that, besides being employed on wages payable to them direct for work done, children are not unoften employed by their parents to help them in fulfilling their contrcats with mine-owners, the work assigned to the children by the parents being such as is suited to their age. It has not been shown that this kind of employment under the existing state of things in the coal mines in Bengal, a most important class of mines to be affected by the Bill, has any injurious effect on the health and growth of the children whose services are thus utilized by their parents. Under the circumstances, absolutely to prohibit children under 12 years from taking any part in works below ground would be opposed to existing practice, and would, without conferring any benefit on the children themselves, cripple the wage-earning capacity of the parents. At the same time, there are mines where children cannot work underground without suffering in health, or running the risk of bodily injury. In such cases, legislative interference would be necessary for the protection of the children. Thus, though power to prevent children from being allowed to work underground in mines should exist to meet cases like the above, an absolute prohibition of the nature contemplated by sub-clause (1) of clause 9 goes beyond the requirements of the case. Even independently of this sub-clause, a child, who is defined as a person under the age of 14 years, can be prevented from working in a particular mine by an order under clause 10, or in particular classes of mines by rules made under clause 11 (1) (a). This method would be as effectual in meeting cases where State interference would be needed as an inelastic provision like that contained in sub-clause (1) of clause 9, while it would not touch cases where interference with the right of private contract would not only not serve any useful purpose, but might be positively harmful in so far as it might reduce the collective earnings of a family of coal-mine labourers.

B. K. BOSE.

In common with every one connected with the Coal industry in Bengal, I am entirely opposed to the inclusion in the Bill of sections 9 to 12. Neither the employers nor the employed want any interference with labour, of any sort or description. The workers in the Bengal Coal mines should be allowed to go in and out of the mines irrespective of sexes and irrespective of ages and to work or not as they like, as has been their custom from time immemorial. No evidence of abuses or hardships requiring redressing or as to the necessity for any interference by Government with labour has been placed before the Select Committee, and I am very strongly of opinion that any attempt on the part of Government to interfere with existing labour conditions will be a hardship not only to the mine-owners, but also to the labourers themselves.

I am also of opinion that the general rules should, as far as possible, be incorporated in the Bill, as is the case in the English Acts.

ALLAN ARTHUR.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th March, 1900:—

NO. 2 OF 1900.

A Bill to amend and provide for the further continuance of the Currency Conversion (Army Annual) Act, 1899.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Currency Conversion (Army Annual) Act, 1899, and to provide for its further continuance; It is hereby enacted as follows:— XIX of 1899.

Substitution of a new section for section 2, Act XIX of 1899.

1. For section 2 of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely:—

Rate of exchange fixed for calculating the equivalent in British Indian currency of sums of British currency mentioned in the Army Act.

"2. For the purposes of the Army Act or of any similar Act for the time being in force fifteen rupees of British Indian currency shall be deemed to be the equivalent of one pound of British currency and any sum of British currency mentioned in the said Act or in any similar Act as aforesaid shall be deemed to be the equivalent of a sum of British Indian currency calculated at that rate of exchange." 44 & 45 V., c. 58.

Repeals.

2. The following provisions of the said Act are hereby repealed, namely:—

In section 1, sub-section (1) the word 'Annual,' and section 3.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to continue the operation of the Currency Conversion (Army Annual) Act, 1899 (XIX of 1899), which expires on the 31st March, 1900. As the exchange between sums in British Indian and British currency has now been definitely fixed by the Indian Coinage and Paper Currency Act, 1899 (XXII of 1899), at the rate of Rs. 15 for one sovereign, it seems unnecessary to continue Act XIX of 1899 merely as a temporary measure. The Bill therefore proposes to make such amendments in that Act as will convert it from a temporary into a permanent enactment.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd June, 1900:

NO. 3 OF 1900.

A Bill to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1882, as amended by the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1898.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1882, as amended by the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1898; It is hereby enacted as follows: [1882. 98.]

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1900.

(2) It shall come into force at once.

(3) It shall remain in force for two years from the commencement thereof.

Substitution of a new section for section 13A, Act XX of 1882.

2. For section 13A of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1882, the following section shall be substituted, namely: [1882.]

Gold coin or bullion held as a reserve by Secretary of State

"13A. (1) If the Secretary of State for India shall consent to hold in gold coin or gold bullion the equivalent in value to notes issued in India as a reserve to secure the payment of such notes, the Governor General in Council may from time to time direct that currency notes shall be issued to an amount equal to the value of gold so held by the Secretary of State for India at the rate fixed by section 12 of the Indian Coinage Act, 1870. XXIII of 1870.

Gold, if transmitted to India, to form part of reserve.

"(2) If the Secretary of State for India shall transmit the gold held by him under sub-section (1) or any part thereof in the form of gold coin or gold bullion to the Government of India, the coin or bullion so transmitted shall, when received by the Government of India, form part of the currency reserve under section 19.

Transmission of silver bullion by Secretary of State.

"(3) If the Secretary of State for India shall think it expedient to expend the gold coin or bullion held by him under sub-section (1) or any other funds at his disposal in the purchase of silver bullion and to transmit the same to India for currency purposes, then—

(a) the silver bullion so purchased shall, until rupees are added to the currency reserve under clause (b) of this sub-section, be held as security for currency notes; and

(b) the Government of India shall, on receiving such silver bullion, give directions for coining the same into rupees as soon as convenient, and shall add to the currency reserve a number of the rupees so coined equal in value, at the rate fixed by section 12 of the Indian Coinage Act, 1870, to the price of the silver bullion so purchased and transmitted as aforesaid." XXIII of 1870.

Purchase of silver by Government of India.

"(4) (a) Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prohibit the Government of India from expending any gold coin or gold bullion held as part of the currency reserve under section 19 in the purchase of silver bullion.

"(b) The silver bullion so purchased shall, until rupees are added to the currency reserve under clause (c) of this sub-section, take the place of the gold so expended as security for the currency notes issued.

"(c) On receiving such silver bullion, the Government of India shall give directions for coining the same into rupees as soon as convenient, and shall add to the currency reserve under section 19 a number of the rupees so coined equal in value, at the rate fixed by section 12 of the Indian Coinage Act, 1870, to the gold so expended by the Government of India.

XXIII of 1870.

"(5) If the Government of India shall appropriate and set apart in India as a part of the currency reserve under section 19 an amount of coin of the Government of India equal in value to any notes issued under this section, the gold held by the Secretary of State for India as a reserve to secure the payment of such notes shall be dealt with as the Secretary of State shall direct.

Gold held as reserve by Secretary of State may be replaced by coin added to reserve in India.

"(6) Coin or bullion held by the Secretary of State or in transit to India, or in the custody of the Mint Master during coinage, shall be separately shown in the abstract of accounts made up under section 27."

Account.

3. The Indian Paper Currency Act, 1898, and the Indian Paper Currency Act Amendment Act, 1898, are hereby repealed.

Repeal.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Paper Currency Act, 1898 (II of 1898), expires on July 20 of this year. In answer to a question in the Legislative Council on March 21 last, the Hon'ble Mr. Dawkins stated that it was the intention of the Government of India to prolong that Act for a further period of two years, and the present Bill has been prepared in accordance with that declaration.

In the present Bill, the opportunity is taken to provide for a more convenient procedure under circumstances when it is desired to increase the stock of rupees in the Currency Reserve by the coinage of silver bullion which may be bought for the purpose.

During the last few months it has been necessary to coin a considerable number of rupees to meet increasing requirements for silver coin, and a similar necessity may occur again and possibly at short notice. At present, purchases of silver for coinage can only be effected by employing the Treasury balances, either in London or in India, and their employment may be a cause of inconvenience through the resulting locking up of funds required for current administrative purposes.

It is considered desirable to provide the Government with the means of purchasing silver without the risk of this inconvenience. It is accordingly proposed to take power to use the gold in the Currency Reserve for the purchase of silver for coinage and to issue currency notes on the security of the silver so purchased, until the completion of the coinage shall enable the Government to pay rupees into the Reserve. Under this arrangement, it will be possible to make additions to the silver coinage by using the gold in the Currency Reserve for the purchase of silver bullion, and at the same time the meeting of calls on the Currency Reserve for rupees demanded in exchange for gold or currency notes will be facilitated.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd June, 1900:

NO. 4 OF 1900.

A Bill to provide for the Court-fee payable on certain Applications to the Court of the Financial Commissioner of the Punjab.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the court-fee payable on applications to the Court of the Financial Commissioner of the Punjab for the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction under section 84 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887; It is hereby enacted as follows: XVI of 1887.

Amendment of No. 13, First Schedule, Act VII, 1870.

1. To the first column of No. 13 of the First Schedule to the Court-fees Act, 1870, as inserted therein by section 71 of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, as amended by the Punjab Courts Act, 1899, the following words shall be added, namely :—"or to the Court of the Financial Commissioner of the Punjab for the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction under section 84 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887." VII of 1870. XVIII of 1884. XXV of 1899. XVI of 1887.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Ahmad Ali v. Sultan Muhammad, decided by the Financial Commissioner, Punjab, on the 12th January, 1900.

THE intention of the present Bill is to remove a formal irregularity to which the attention of the Government of India has been directed in consequence of the marginally noted decision. When section 71 of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, was enacted, the revisional jurisdiction of the Financial Commissioner was exercised under section 622 of the Code of Civil Procedure and was accordingly so entered in the new No. 13, which that section inserted in the first schedule to the Court-fees Act, 1870. When, however, section 84 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, became law, this reference to section 622 of the Code ceased to be appropriate, and when section 71 of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, was recast by section 6 of the Punjab Courts Act, 1899, all mention of the Financial Commissioner was omitted as unnecessary. The effect has, however, been that applications for revision in the Court of the Financial Commissioner are now chargeable, irrespective of their value, with a fixed duty of one rupee only under article 1 (c), Schedule II of the Court-fees Act, 1870. This result, which was never intended, has been represented by the Local Government as undesirable, and the amendment of the law proposed in the present Bill has been undertaken with a view to restoring the scale of court-fees approved by sixteen years' experience.

(2) When any such schedule has been so left, the occupier of the house or part to which it relates shall fill it up, or cause it to be filled up, to the best of his knowledge or belief, so far as regards the inmates of such house or part, as the case may be, at the time aforesaid, and shall sign his name thereto, and, when so required, shall deliver the schedule so filled up and signed to the census-officer or to such person as he may direct.

(2) Unless and until a notification is published under sub-section (1), all prosecutions under this Act shall, in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, be instituted before a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere before the District Magistrate.

(3) No prosecution under this Act shall be instituted except with the previous sanction of the Local Government, or with the previous sanction of some officer authorised by the Local Government in this behalf.

Records of census not admissible in evidence in certain proceedings.

12. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, no entry in any book, register or record made by a census-officer in the discharge of his duty as such officer, and no entry in a schedule delivered under section 9, shall be admissible as evidence in any civil proceeding or any proceeding under Chapter XII or Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

Temporary suspension of local enactments and rules as to mode of taking census in municipalities.

13. Notwithstanding anything in any enactment or rule with respect to the mode in which a census is to be taken in any municipality, the municipal authority may, at the time appointed for the taking of the census of British India during the year 1901, cause the census of the municipality to be taken wholly or in part by any method authorised by this Act.

14. Notwithstanding anything in any enactment or rule, in regard to municipal, local or village funds, the Local Government may direct that the whole or any part of any expenses incurred for anything done in accordance with this Act, may be charged to any municipal, local or village fund constituted for, and on behalf of, the area within which such expenses were incurred.

Power to make rules.

15. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, the Governor General in Council may make rules providing—

(b) for the enumeration of persons employed on railways and their families and of other classes of the population for whom it may be necessary or expedient to make special provision;

(c) for the enumeration of persons travelling on the night when a census is taken.

(3) The Governor General in Council may, by general or special order, direct that all or any of the powers conferred upon him by this section may also be exercised by any Local Government with respect to the territories administered by it.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE present Bill closely follows the lines of the Indian Census Act, 1890, which was itself only slightly modified from the previous enactment of 1880. Apart from alterations of form necessitated by intermediate legislation or intended to secure greater clearness, substantially only four amendments affecting the subject-matter have been suggested by the experience of the last census. In clause 4 (e) the convenience of railways and of other commercial or industrial enterprises has been consulted by providing for special arrangements for enumeration through their own local officers. Clause 10 (a) has been recast with the object of removing any doubt about the power, which has rarely been required but must always be held in reserve, to punish persons refusing, or neglecting to use due diligence in performing, any duty under the Act. By clause 14 it is proposed to legalize arrangements, which were found to be expedient on the last occasion, for defraying expenses, mostly for petty charges, out of local rates and taxes to an extent varying with circumstances. Finally, the power now to be taken in clause 15 is required to give proper authority to such rules as, in practice, must always be issued by the executive Government for the disposal of questions of detail incidentally arising in the working of the Act.

146 A. By or on behalf of any local authority for possession of any public street or road or any part thereof from which it has been dispossessed or of which it has discontinued the possession.	Thirty years	The date of dispossession or discontinuance.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE necessity for the present Bill has arisen in consequence of the marginally noted decision of the Hon'ble High Court of Madras. It was there held that local authorities, to whom the Crown has ceded the custodianship of public highways cannot claim, under article 149 of the second schedule appended to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, the benefit of the sixty years' rule applicable to suits instituted by, or on behalf of, the Secretary of State for India in Council. Inquiry from the various Local Governments has elicited a substantial consensus of opinion that, more especially in connection with encroachment upon highways, the position of the Crown and of local authorities as defined in section 3 (28) of the General Clauses Act, 1897, towards the immoveable property entrusted to them is similar though not identical. While the difficulty of detecting gradual and insidious encroachments is in both cases greater than that experienced by a private individual, the highways supervised by a local authority ordinarily lie in a narrower compass, and are consequently more easily controlled, than the wide and often unoccupied areas forming portion of the Crown-lands. Under these circumstances, a preponderating opinion has been expressed in favour of extending the period of limitation, from twelve years as enjoyed by private individuals, to thirty in the case of a local authority.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th July, 1900:

NO. 7 OF 1900.

A Bill to amend the Law of Evidence with respect to Bankers' Books.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891; It is hereby enacted as follows:

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1900; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Amended definition of "company".

2. For the definition of "company" contained in section 2, sub-section (1), of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely:

"(1) 'company' means a company registered under any of the enactments relating to companies for the time being in force in the United Kingdom or any of the Colonies or Dependencies thereof or in British India or incorporated by an Act of Parliament or of the Governor General in Council, or by Royal Charter or Letters Patent;."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Empress v. Patrick McGuire, Full Bench reference decided on the 5th March, 1900.

THE necessity for the present Bill was suggested by the marginally noted ruling of the Hon'ble High Court of Calcutta, to which the attention of the Government of India was directed by the Hon'ble the Advocate General of Bengal, and by a memorial of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce. It was held by the Full Bench that, under the terms of the definition of "company" in section 2 (1) of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891 (XVIII of 1891), the Calcutta branches of banking companies registered under enactments in force in the United Kingdom or in foreign countries were not entitled to statutory privileges in regard to proving the contents of bankers' books. The Bill proposes to extend those privileges to companies registered under enactments in force in the United Kingdom or in any of its colonies or dependencies; but, in the case of companies registered under foreign enactments only, the Government of India are of opinion that the discretionary power conferred by section 3 of the Act of 1891 upon Local Governments still provides the most convenient procedure.

2. Clause 1.—We have provided that the Act is to come into force on such day as the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct.

3. Clause 2.—We have expanded the definition of "agriculturist" by empowering the Local Government to determine the question of status by reference to an earlier settlement when the first regular settlement has been made in or since the year 1870. We have also provided that where a Civil Court or other competent authority has given a decision which involves a rectification of the settlement, the definition is to be construed with due regard to such decision. We have also empowered the Local Government to restrict as well as to extend this definition. Our hon'ble colleague Sir Harnam Singh, for reasons which are stated in his separate minute, proposed to widen this definition, but we were unable to accept his opinion on the point.

We have provided that all expressions which are defined in the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, or in the Punjab Land-revenue Act, 1887, shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, have the meanings assigned to them in these Acts, respectively.

We have expanded the definition of "land" so as to include a share in the profits of an estate or holding, any dues or percentage of land-revenue payable by an inferior landowner to a superior landowner, a right to receive rent and any right to water enjoyed by the owner or occupier of land as such. We have also thought it expedient to define the expressions "permanent alienation" and "usufructuary mortgage." Our definition of a usufructuary mortgage is substantially identical with the definition in section 58 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.

4. Clause 3.—In this clause we have amended sub-clause (b) by providing that a person purchasing land as an agriculturist must actually hold land as such in the village, and we have added a proviso which will restrain a person acquiring land under the same clause from alienating without sanction unless the alienee is a member of an agricultural tribe or an agriculturist holding land in the village. We have further amended sub-clause (1) of this clause by dispensing with the sanction of the Revenue-officer in the cases where it was proposed that such sanction should be given as a matter of course.

In sub-clause (2) of the same clause we propose to enact that a permanent alienation of land shall not take effect as such until the required sanction is given, and we propose to add words which make it clear that the sanction may be given after the act of alienation is otherwise completed.

5. Clause 4.—In this clause we have widened the power which it is proposed to confer on the Local Government by enabling it to group districts and tribes for the purposes of the Act.

6. Clause 5—In this clause we think it desirable to extend the saving for rights of pre-emption to reversionary rights and to questions of title generally.

7. Clause 6.—In this clause, which provides for the forms of mortgage to be used by members of agricultural tribes raising money on the security of their land, we have recast the opening sentence and we have also redrafted form (b) and have added a new form (c) by which the mortgagor may recognise the mortgagee as a landlord within the meaning of the Tenancy Act while himself remaining in cultivating occupancy. We think it possible that it may be found necessary to provide additional forms of mortgage, and we have therefore added a new clause (d) which enables the Local Government by general or special order to authorize the adoption of forms not specifically set forth in the Act.

8. Clauses 7 and 8.—It is in our opinion expedient that the rules which apply to mortgages under clause 6 and the conditions which may be inserted in such mortgages should be prescribed in the Act. We have therefore inserted a new clause, numbered 7, which provides (1) that while the mortgagee remains in possession no interest shall accrue on the mortgage-debt, (2) that in the case of mortgages in form (a) or form (b) the mortgage-debt shall be extinguished at the end of the term for which possession is given, (3) that the mortgagor may redeem his land at any time, and (4) that in the case of an usufructuary mortgage the mortgagor shall not be deemed to bind himself personally to repay the mortgage-money. The effect of the last-mentioned rule will be that the creditor will have no security for principal or interest beyond the rent or profits of the land for the term of possession permitted by the Act. The new clause, numbered 8, provides for the conditions which may be inserted in mortgages by agreement between the parties. It is not easy to include all the conditions which parties may legitimately desire to insert in any general description. We therefore propose to enact that, in addition to the specific conditions mentioned in the clause, any condition may be inserted which the Local Government by general or special order may declare to be admissible.

9. Clause 9.—This new clause empowers the Deputy Commissioner to revise and alter the terms of a mortgage which is not in accordance with the provisions of the Act. In one case we propose that this power should be retrospective. When a member of an agricultural tribe has mortgaged his land by way of conditional sale, we are of opinion that the condition is mischievous in itself and at variance with the policy of the existing law of the Punjab. We propose that in such a case the Deputy Commissioner shall have power to put the mortgagee to his election whether he will retain his mortgage with the condition struck out or accept in lieu thereof a mortgage in form (a) or in form (b) as permitted by clause 6.

If a suit is instituted in a Civil Court on any mortgage to which this clause applies, we propose to direct the Court to refer the case to the Deputy Commissioner with a view to the exercise of his power of revision.

10. Clause 10.—This clause provides that in future mortgages of agricultural land, whether made by members of agricultural tribes or others, any condition which is intended to operate by way of conditional sale shall be void.

11. Clause 11.—In clause 11 (being clause 7 of the Bill as referred) we have amended the restrictions on leases by limiting them to cases in which a member of an agricultural tribe is making a lease to a person not a member of the same tribe or of a tribe in the same group. We have, in deference to the opinion of the local officers consulted, struck out the words "if the lessor shall so long live." We have also added the words "or farm" in order to make it clear that the clause extends to arrangements. which are, we believe, common in parts of the Punjab, by which a person is placed in management of the land of another on an undertaking to hand over the rent or a fixed portion of the rent to the owner.

12. Clause 12.—In clause 12 (formerly clause 8) we propose to enact that a person who has made a mortgage or lease as permitted by the Act may make a further temporary alienation of his land, provided that he does not exceed the full term of twenty years as permitted by the foregoing clauses.

13. Clause 13.—We have altered the language of the clause (formerly clause 9) so as to give effect to the alterations which we propose to make in previous clauses.

14. Clause 14.—We have re-drafted this clause (formerly clause 10) but have made no substantial change in its provisions.

15. Clause 15.—By clause 11 of the Bill as referred it was proposed to enact that any agreement by which an agriculturist hypothecates the produce of his land should be void. We think the proposed enactment went further than was necessary, and we have altered the clause (now numbered 15) so as to provide that such an agreement shall not take effect for more than one year unless it is sanctioned by a Deputy Commissioner.

16. Clause 16.—We have retained the substance of clause 12 in this clause, restricting its operation to land which belongs to a member of an agricultural tribe. We have added a new sub-clause which preserves the right of Government to recover arrears of land-revenue and dues which are recoverable as such arrears in any manner now permitted by law.

17. Clause 17.—We have in this clause retained the substance of clause 13, but we have somewhat amplified the language of its provisions.

18. Clauses 18 and 19.—We propose to insert a new clause 18 providing that transactions which require the sanction of a Revenue-officer shall not be entered in the record-of-rights or in the annual record under the provisions of the Punjab Land-revenue Act, 1887, until proof of such sanction is produced, and that no right claimed by reason of a transaction or condition declared by the Act to be null and void shall be entered in the record-of-rights or the annual record. By clause 19, which is also new, we propose to apply the provisions of Chapter II of that Act to the proceedings of Revenue-officers under this Act. The chapter in question provides among other matters for appeals, and clause 14 of the Bill as referred may therefore be dispensed with. We have omitted it accordingly.

19. Clause 20.—By this new clause we propose to direct that no legal practitioner shall appear on behalf of parties interested in proceedings under the Act. The object of the Act is to confer discretionary powers upon Revenue-officers for the protection of a certain class of landowners, and we think that the reasons for and against the exercise of such powers may be adequately stated by the parties without the assistance of professional lawyers.

20. Clause 21.—This new clause is modelled on section 158 of the Punjab Land-revenue Act, 1887, and provides that the Civil Courts shall not exercise jurisdiction in matters which the Local Government or a Revenue-officer is empowered by the Act to dispose of.

21. Clause 22.—This new clause provides that suits to determine the rent to be paid under a mortgage made in form (c) as permitted by clause 6 shall be tried in the same manner as the suits mentioned in the first group of section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

22. Clause 23.—This clause, which is new, indicates the Revenue-officers by whom the powers given by the Act may be exercised.

23. Clauses 24 and 25.—These clauses (formerly numbered 15 and 16) have not been materially altered by us.

MINUTE OF DISSENT.

THE modifications suggested by the Select Committee have not, in my opinion, materially improved the Bill. Its arbitrary character remains unchanged and it may fail to give general satisfaction.

Definition of agriculturist.

2. Section 2 (1).—To begin with the definition of "agriculturist." This definition is not complete. It does not exhaust the full meaning of the word. It excludes from its scope persons who ought to be included, and who have every right to be designated by the term agriculturists.

An arbitrary limit of time.

3. A limit of period has been fixed after which persons, even if their (or their agnate ancestors') names were recorded at any regular settlement, would not be recognised as agriculturists within the meaning of this Act. The year 1870 seems to be an arbitrary limit. The majority of those persons belonging to the artisan and the menial classes who combine an interest in land with other occupations (and their number comes to several hundred thousands) have become land-owners, or have become otherwise connected with land, within the last thirty years. All these persons would be excluded if this limit be adhered to.

Reasons assigned for this limit.

4. This limit has been taken, I understand, with a view to fix a standard of agricultural tribes determined as such immediately after the annexation of the Province. It should be remembered, in the first place, that a considerable number of persons belonging to non-agricultural tribes were recognised as agriculturists at the first regular settlement, and they will not now be excluded. In the next place, it should be borne in mind that all agriculturists do not belong exclusively to recognised agricultural tribes, but to various other tribes which probably were not connected with agriculture at their origin, but a considerable proportion of the members of which are now engaged in agriculture. It would be an arbitrary act of the Legislature if these persons be now all cast out from the purview of the Act.

Authority given to the Local Government to legislate by notifications.

5. It is true that the Bill empowers the Local Government to determine another limit. This limit is to be fixed, at its discretion, either at or before or after 1870. The reason for giving such extensive legislative powers to the Local Government is not quite clear. The Select Committee could have easily determined this limit in consultation with the Local Government. I think that any difficulty that might have been felt could have been obviated if it had been declared that a person whose (or whose agnate ancestor's) name is recorded at any regular settlement would be deemed an agriculturist. Had this been done, there would have been no necessity for fixing any arbitrary period of limitation. The object of legislation becomes defeated when a Local Government is authorised, in its executive capacity, to exercise legislative powers by rules, orders and notifications, without granting to the public and to those who are vitally interested in the question an ample opportunity to discuss and consider its action in all its bearings. The Legislature, I venture to say, abrogates its function when it delegates to a Local Government its legitimate work. Any rules that the Local Government would propose to make in this connection should, I think, be embodied, with the approval of the Select Committee, in the Act itself. These remarks apply with equal force to section 4, in which the Local Government is empowered to make and notify rules about groups of agricultural tribes and groups of agricultural districts.

*I sign this Report subject to my Minute of Dissent.

The definition of agriculturist not exhaustive.

6. I have to point out that the definition of agriculturist as it stands will exclude persons who have come to possess land by exchange, purchase or gift; who have inherited land from their cognate ancestors or collateral relatives, whose names were recorded at the first regular settlement; as also those who were only cultivators (tenants-at-will) at the first regular settlement, but subsequently became land-owners or acquired occupancy-rights.

7. It will thus be seen that the definition noticed is neither clear nor exhaustive, and that, therefore, as a definition it is defective.

Restriction of right of second purchaser.

8. Section 3.—It would appear from the wording of the proviso to section 3 that, if an agriculturist belonging to a non-agricultural tribe desires to make a permanent alienation of land acquired under clause (b), he would not be at liberty to make such permanent alienation unless he should make it to "a member of an agricultural tribe or an agriculturist holding land in the village." The effect of such a proviso would be that, if the member of a non-agricultural tribe should sell his land to another member of a non-agricultural tribe, the second purchaser would not be allowed to alienate to any person other than an agriculturist. Such an interference with the proprietary rights of a non-agriculturist cannot be justified.

Separation of Hindus from Muhammadans in the same agricultural group.

9. Section 4.—I am given to understand that the Local Government, in determining what bodies of persons in any district or group of districts are to be deemed agricultural tribes, propose to separate Hindus from Muhammadans, and to place them in separate groups, even though they belong to the same agricultural tribe. The apparent reason for such a distinction is grounded on the apprehension that, if Hindu and Muhammadan agriculturists were allowed to be indiscriminately mixed up in the same group, the former, who as a rule are richer than the latter, would be enabled to buy up their impoverished Muhammadan brethren. But it should be borne in mind that the result of such a distinction would be a still greater reduction of the value of the agricultural lands in the possession of the Muhammadans, and they might find it difficult to realise by sale the full value of the lands they alienate to their Muhammadan brethren.

Perpetual mortgages from an economical point of view.

10. Sections 6 to 10.—It will inevitably follow from the operation of the proposed measure that agricultural lands in the Province will be tied to, what may be called, perpetual mortgages. Those who require money to meet urgent domestic and agricultural demands will raise it even at the sacrifice of their property. There will be nothing to prevent a mortgage upon mortgage after the expiry of the term fixed for the first mortgage. It is vain to suppose that the successors of a mortgagor with no increased resources to fall back upon, but with all the ancestral and domestic obligations and agricultural responsibilities intact, would either be able to repudiate the mortgagee's rights or be freed from the crushing weight of debt. The mortgaged property, when it is heavily encumbered, will have no chance of being redeemed, and will only be like a dead weight upon the mortgagor and his successors. The period permitted by law will only serve to accumulate interest and render the burden every year more heavy to bear. As a rule, those who own property feel naturally disinclined to part with it. They prefer to resort to temporary alienations and hope to redeem the property some time or other. But their hopes are often frustrated and the property which they wish to save brings them to utter ruin. From an economical point of view, therefore, it is a mistaken policy to prolong their distress and allow their property to be encumbered for an indefinite period by forced legislation. Concession of a right of free disposal is in the long run far better than restriction of such a right.

Re-mortgage on statutory extinction of first mortgage-debt inevitable.

11. The lands under usufructuary mortgages will, no doubt, be freed from all encumbrances after twenty years, and the mortgage-debt extinguished. But few, very few, among the mortgagors would, in their impoverished condition, be prevented from running into debt again, and the consequence will be that the very same lands will be re-mortgaged in order to provide for absolute necessities. Practically, therefore, agricultural lands will be, as I said before, under continuous mortgages.

Effect of continuous mortgages from a political point of view.

12. From a political point of view, the consequences of perpetual mortgages would be disastrous. Persons goaded on with debt and under the constant apprehension of losing their property are apt to ascribe all their miseries to the hard, unyielding character of the laws of the country, and to what they would call the capricious decisions of the administrators of these laws. It is not difficult to conceive what serious results may follow from such mistaken beliefs. I venture to think that the Legislature should not afford ground for such vain imaginings.

13. Section 7 (3).—Under this provision the mortgagor may redeem his land at any time during the currency of the mortgage. I am afraid that the feeling of uncertainty, which this provision would be calculated to produce, as to the period when the mortgage might be redeemed, would affect the assurance of the money-lender with regard to the security of his investment, and it cannot be denied that this would be to the disadvantage of the mortgagor.

Uncertainty with regard to period of redemption.

14. Sections 10-11.—His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor expressed it as his opinion that there should be a provision in the Bill in regard to improvements on mortgaged lands. His Honour said:

Improvements on mortgaged lands.

"I draw attention to the suggestions of Mr. Fanshawe, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Field and Mr. Meredith regarding permission to improve land in the hands of a mortgagee and compensation for such improvements, on the analogy of section 64 of the Punjab Tenancy Act. It seems very desirable that some such provision should be made. I would insert between sections 6 and 7 of the (original) Bill the following:

6-A. (1) No improvements of a permanent nature shall be effected during the currency of a usufructuary mortgage except with the sanction of a Revenue-officer previously obtained.

(2) At the conclusion of a usufructuary mortgage the value of any improvements effected to the land shall be duly assessed by the Revenue-officer, who shall make such order as to the payment of compensation as he considers equitable."

His Honour's recommendation has not been accepted by the Select Committee.

15. I am of opinion that, unless improvements, as suggested by His Honour, be permitted on the mortgaged land, the property may be liable to deterioration, or it may be greatly damaged and may consequently be materially depreciated in value. It is unjustifiable, I believe, not to allow improvements to be made by the mortgagee, even with the assent of the mortgagor, or even with the permission of a Revenue-officer.

16. Section 9 (2).—The Select Committee has not seen its way to modify the provision relating to mortgages of land by way of conditional sale made before the commencement of the proposed law. The result of the provision will be the repudiation of all existing deeds of conditional sale. I have the highest authority for stating that this total upsetting of a number of past contracts cannot be defended.

Repudiation of mortgages by way of conditional sale made before the commencement of this Act.

17. Some of the eminent officers of the Punjab Commission, who were consulted, even went so far as to state that people will be justified in considering such a wholesale repudiation of past contracts as a flagrant act of bad faith. To give such a retrospective effect is against principles of justice and is not consistent with the well-recognised spirit of Indian legislation.

18. When people come to realise the fact that all their past contracts have been cancelled by the Legislature and that the assurances of the existing laws have been set at naught, their implicit confidence in the principles of action adopted by the British Government will be greatly shaken, and this from a political point of view is certainly to be deeply regretted. It cannot be too often repeated that the security of British rule should be based on the palladium of British justice.

Effect of such repudiation.

19. Such repudiation will be viewed in the same light as the repudiation of British loans, or putting aside the sanads granted to Chiefs or large land-holders in the British territories. Those who urge what is called political necessity in vindication of such an act cannot but admit that political necessity in its strongest form also demands that British faith should be kept intact and that the ordinances of existing British law should never be allowed to be lightly dealt with.

Political necessity.

20. There are people who are apt to accept the necessity for such measure (as well as for repudiation of pledges regarding proprietary rights solemnly guaranteed by the British Government half a century ago, and upon which the agricultural classes have hitherto firmly relied) on the strength of opinion expressed by a numerical majority. I venture to say that in the decision of a question of this kind, in which the immutable principles of British justice are involved, the views which may be expressed by a selected body of officers, who, when consulted, were not requested to discuss the principles of the Bill, should not, for obvious reasons, be allowed to have a preponderating value. The question of British justice and British principles of governance should be considered on higher grounds and due weight ought to be given to the policy of maintaining British faith.

Importance of maintaining British faith.

21. Section 9 (2).—The sub-section 9 (2) as it has been framed will not only apply to the agricultural tribes, but will also affect with equal force the interests of the non-agricultural tribes, and the latter will not have the power, any more than their brethren of the favoured tribes, to make in future mortgages of their lands by way of conditional sale. This does not seem to me to be reasonable.

22. Section 16.—Following the Dekkan Agriculturists' Relief Act, the Bill provides that no land shall be sold in execution of any decree or order, whether passed before or after the commencement of this Act. Such a provision, in my opinion, is not necessary in the Punjab. Here no such sale is permitted without the sanction of the Financial Commissioner, and it is well known that this permission is never given without careful consideration. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, concurring with the Financial Commissioner's views on the subject, and adhering to the recommendation of the Simla Committee, is of opinion that this section should be omitted. When two such high and competent authorities are in favour of the omission of this provision, I do not think it should be retained in contravention of recognised principles of justice and equity. In the words of an eminent officer, "a far-reaching measure of this sort is less likely to fail if it does injustice to nobody."

Execution sale of land forbidden.

23. Section 20.—Section 20 prohibits legal practitioners from appearing before a Revenue-officer on behalf of agriculturists. It does not seem reasonable to make such a prohibition. There are agriculturists and agriculturists. There are persons among them who are incapable of putting the facts of their cases clearly before a Revenue-officer. In such circumstances, especially when their opponents are intelligent, shrewd men of business, it is necessary to employ qualified advocates to represent their cases. It may be said that no hardship need be felt when the Revenue-officer would have the power of exercising his executive discretion, and when recognised agents among the relatives of the agriculturists would be allowed to appear on behalf of their kinsmen. I see no reason why the appearance of lawyers should be prohibited when no objection would be made to the appearance of such recognised agents.

Appearance of legal practitioners forbidden.

24. The effect of the measure will be to restrict the alienation of self-acquired property. Persons who have acquired property, otherwise than from an ancestral source, naturally wish to exercise full proprietary rights over such property. Coparceners cannot claim it and tribesmen have not the slightest interest in it. Right of free disposal is an inalienable incident of it, and the law of the country ought not to interfere with it. Those who acquire property have to pay full market-price, and it is not proper to restrict their right of free disposal in such a way as to compel them to part with it at a reduced value. Self-acquired property, it should be remembered, remains as such only during the life-time of the acquirer and becomes ancestral after his death, so that no great mischief is likely to be done if the owner be permitted to exercise his proprietary rights during the term of his life. I could quote the opinions of eminent officers in support of my view, but I do not think it necessary to do so here. I strongly incline to the belief that interference with the right of free transfer of self-acquired property will be a source of intense dissatisfaction.

Restriction of alienation of self-acquired property.

25. If we take into account the immense interests at stake, and the drastic and revolutionary character of the changes proposed, it would be a question worthy of serious consideration, before the present scheme becomes law, whether it is likely to prove of any real benefit to those for whose advantage it has been devised. I consider that the measure is not calculated to serve the purpose for which it is intended. It will be powerless to effectively remove the cause of agricultural indebtedness; but on the contrary it will increase the burden of the agricultural classes, curtail their credit, reduce the value of their lands, and make them liable to sink deeper into debt from which it will not be possible for them to extricate themselves. It will, no doubt, put a stop to permanent alienations from the agricultural to the non-agricultural tribes, but it will enormously increase mortgages of agricultural lands. These temporary alienations will, as I have said before, take the form of perpetual mortgages, which will prevent land-owners from having any control over their property. What good then, may I be permitted to ask, would the proposed measure do to the agricultural community? It should never be forgotten that the irresistible result of the measure will be the creation of a large number of money-lending agriculturists who would be enabled by the power of law to appropriate the holdings of their more indigent brethren at a greatly reduced price. I am led to apprehend that when the measure will be in full operation there will be monster fishes in the agricultural community, who will be encouraged by law to swallow smaller fishes. The Punjab hitherto has gloried in a revenue-settlement which created on a large scale a body of flourishing peasant-proprietors. The existing laws strengthened their status and protected their rights and privileges to the incalculable benefit of the Province. The necessity for having middlemen was sedulously avoided and their interference was rigidly excluded. Under the proposed arrangements, however, the old policy will be reversed, and the rule of middlemen will be established and strengthened.

Effect of the proposed measure on the condition of the agricultural classes.

Agriculturist middlemen.

26. I fear that the majority of peasant-proprietors in the Province will be reduced to the state of serfs of a worse character than that of serfs during the middle ages in Europe

They will be entirely under the power and mercy of their richer brethren. The advocates of the measure suppose that, if the law were to give to the impoverished agriculturists one final chance to redeem their properties and bring them back to their own families, they might be enabled to save themselves from ruin. From my own experience of the agricultural conditions of the Province, and from the knowledge I have of the habits and ideas of the land-owners, I feel no hesitation in stating that the proposed measure will not be able to attain the object in view. Under the operation of the proposed law the impoverishment and wretchedness of the land-owners will be increased and their condition made worse than it is under the existing arrangements.

Agricultural banks.

27. I can conceive of only one remedy by which the agriculturists may be saved from their own improvidence and utter ruin. If Government sees its way to starting agricultural banks or inducing the existing banks to advance money on valuable security to the agriculturists at a low rate of interest, real help may be rendered to the impoverished land-owners, and they may be enabled by careful management to save their properties. But the proposal to leave them at the mercy of their own exacting brethren of the same tribes will accentuate their distress, and render their condition even more deserving of commiseration than it is at present.

28. I cannot ignore the fact that the present legislation has been undertaken to relieve agricultural distress in the Province, and I fully appreciate the benevolent intentions of those by whom the scheme under consideration has been framed. A good deal might be said in favour of the measure, but the main question at issue is whether the proposed measure is calculated to ameliorate the condition of the agricultural classes. For reasons I have given before, my opinion is that the condition of the agriculturists would be no better. Nevertheless, no person would be happier than I should be if I prove to be a false prophet.

29. Strictly speaking, I have perhaps in the last portion of my note transgressed the limits of a minute of dissent from the Report of a Select Committee, and if I have done so the importance and far-reaching effects of the measure under consideration must plead my excuse.

HARNAM SINGH, AHLUWALIA.

PUNJAB GOVERNMENT.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the better preservation and protection of certain portions of the territories of the Punjab situate within or adjacent to the Siwalik mountain range or affected or liable to be affected by the action of streams and torrents, such as are commonly called chos, flowing through or from, or by the deboisement of forests within that range, was presented to the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 14th July 1900:—

We, the undersigned, members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to provide for the better preservation and protection of certain portions of the territories of the Punjab situate within or adjacent to the Siwálik mountain range or affected or liable to be affected by the action of streams and torrents, such as are commonly called chos, flowing through or from, or by the deboisement of forests within, that range, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted on the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed hereto.

No. 2759, dated 27th July 1899, from Commissioner, Jullundur.
Opinion dated 4th September 1899, from Commissioner, Jullundur.
Note dated 14th October 1899, from Commissioner, Jullundur.
No. 414, dated 1st September 1899, from Commissioner, Lahore.
No. 320, dated 6th September 1899, from Captain Parsons.
No. 775, dated 8th September 1899, from Major Inglis.
Petition dated 19th October 1899, from Umar Bakhsh and others of the Hoshiarpur District.

2. We have slightly altered the arrangement of the language used in the title and preamble.

3. In sub-clause (d) of clause 2, the definition of the expression "person interested" has been simplified by the omission of the words "right to or" and of the last ten words, which are superfluous, and the addition of the word "any" before the word "measures."

4. We have omitted sub-clause (2) of clause 3, as being sufficiently covered by the provisions of section 14 of India General Clauses Act, 1897, and the corresponding provision of the Punjab General Clauses Act, 1898.

5. The language of the portion of clause 4 which governs the sub-clauses (a) to (g), has been shortened and simplified without altering the meaning or scope. A few unimportant verbal alterations have been made in the sub-clauses.

6. Similar amendments have been made in clause 5, which forms the complement of clause 4.

7. We have omitted clause 7 of the Bill, thus giving effect to a suggestion of the Government of India. We consider that there is no necessity for this clause. The section does not purport to prevent the transfer of or succession to existing rights, and new rights can hardly be created in a notified area after the date of the notification under clause 3, but, even if such rights could be so acquired, the remedy lies in the prompt issue of orders under clauses 4 or 5. The numbering of the succeeding clauses has been altered accordingly.

8. Sub-clauses (1) and (2) of clause 8 (now 7) have been merged into a single clause without altering the sense. Sub-clause (3) has been omitted as being superfluous. Sub-clause (4) becomes sub-clause (2); the language has been altered so as to bring it into harmony with the other changes made in this clause, the scope and meaning of which are not affected.

9. A few superfluous words have been omitted from sub-clause (1) of clause 9 (now 8). In sub-clause (2) of this clause, the order of the conditions under which the Government may take over the bed of a cho, has been more logically arranged, but the language has not been altered. In the last line of sub-clause (2), before the first proviso, the words "and subject to such conditions (if any)," have been added after the word "period." The object in view being to leave it to the Government, when taking over any cho bed area for a time only, to specify not only the period for, but also the conditions subject to which, it is to be so taken over. This will enable arrangements to be made with persons interested in the area which may be advantageous both to them and to the Government, and which may be calculated to remove any feeling of hardship involved in the transfer.

We have omitted the second proviso to sub-clause (2) as we see no reason why the decision of the Deputy Commissioner, as to whether any land is or is not cultivated or culturable, should not be subject to appeal and revision by higher Revenue authorities as provided in the Bill (see clause 18—now 17).

10. A proviso has been added to clause 10 (now 9—which extinguishes or suspends all private rights in cho bed areas notified under clause 9 (now 8)), requiring reasonable provision to be made, as far as circumstances admit, for the reservation of convenient rights of way and water to persons previously exercising them. We consider it desirable to protect, to this extent, the interests of the persons affected by the action of the Government.

11. We have omitted clause 11 and renumbered the subsequent clauses accordingly. The first part of clause 11 is merged in the new clause 11, which takes the place of sub-clause (3) of clause 12 (now 10). We consider the second portion of clause 11 unnecessary, more especially in view of the provision, as to conditions, which we have inserted in sub-clause (2) of clause 9 (now 8).

12. Clause 12 now becomes clause 10. The last fifty-one words of sub-clause (1) of this clause, as to the finality of the decision of the Deputy Commissioner in regard to the limits of the areas dealt with, have been omitted for the reason given for omitting the second proviso to sub-clause (2) of clause 9 (now 8). We think that there can be no object in excluding such orders from revision by the Commissioner and Financial Commissioner, as provided in the Bill (see clause 18—now 17).

In sub-clause (2) of clause 12 (now 10), the words " enter upon and" have been omitted as being superfluous.

13. Sub-clause (3) of clause 12 (now 10), becomes clause 11, and we have altered it so as to bar compensation for any thing at any time, in good faith, done under the three preceding clauses relating to cho beds.

14. A few slight alterations have been made in the language of clauses 13 and 14 (now 12 and 13) of the Bill, but no material change is involved.

15. Sub-clause (2) of clause 15 (now 14) has been recast as to language, as we consider that the intention may be better and more briefly expressed in the manner in which the sub-clause now stands.

The language of sub-clause (4) of this clause has been shortened but without affecting its meaning.

16. We have made no material amendments in any of the remaining clauses. A few minor alterations, consequent on the amendments made in previous clauses, have been effected and redundancies of expression have been excised.

17. We have reduced the penalties contained in clause 19 (now 18), as to imprisonment, from six months to one month, and, as to fine, from Rs. 500 to Rs. 100, as we regard the penalties now provided as being adequate to the purpose intended.

18. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows :—

In English.

Punjab Government Gazette—August 31st, and September 7th and 14th, 1899.

In Urdu.

Punjab Government Gazette (Urdu)—14th, 21st and 28th September 1899.

19. We think that the measure has not been so altered as to require re-publication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, has now been in operation for eight years and certain defects and omissions have been brought to notice which it is the object of this Bill to, respectively, remedy and supply. The amendments which it is proposed to make are all of a non-contentious kind, and several of them merely involve slight verbal alterations.

The only important additions to the Act which it is proposed to make, are those contained in clause 8 of the Bill. These relate to the powers of Committees in regard to the carrying out of proper schemes of lighting, water-supply, drainage and sewage. In providing systems for the supply of water, gas and the like and in carrying out efficient drainage and sewage works, it is often necessary to carry the main arteries of supply through or under private lands, and, in all such systems, there must be adequate power to control private connections with the main channels of supply. In England such powers are conferred, in regard to water-supply and sewage, on all local authorities, by the Public Health Act, 1875, and other statutes. The supply of gas and electricity and the like is, in England, chiefly in the hands of private companies and the powers conferred on local authorities are not so extensive or definite. Similar powers are taken in the Presidency Towns in India, in their respective Municipal laws. The Bill aims at supplying the necessary powers in the case Municipalities in the Punjab, subject to all proper safeguards. It may be mentioned that, under the Municipal Act and rules, no large projects for the execution of public works can be carried out without the sanction of the Local Government, and all such works are constructed by or under the supervision of Government agency, and that there is, therefore, no danger of any misuse of the powers which it is proposed to take in the Bill.

The following note explains the provisions of the various clauses of the Bill.

ALWEYNE TURNER, J. WILSON,

Secretary, Legislative Council. Member.

NOTE EXPLAINING THE CLAUSES OF THE BILL.

Clauses 1 and 2.—These are the necessary formal preliminary clauses.

Clause 3 (see also clause 4).—Section 11 of the Act states the grounds on which a member may be removed from office. It is proposed to add to these grounds by providing that any disqualification which, if it arose before election, would render a candidate ineligible, will, if it arises after election, be a ground for removal from office.

Clause 4.—This clause effects a corresponding alteration in section 18 of the Act by adding thereto a proviso giving power to the proper authority to refuse to notify the election of any person who could be removed from office under any of the provisions of section 11, thus rendering the election void.

The amendments proposed in clauses 3 and 4 supply an obvious omission in the existing law. As that law now stands, there would appear to be no power to refuse to notify an election, though the person elected might have to be removed immediately afterwards, while a disqualification for election arising after the election takes place, would be no ground for refusing to notify the election or for removing the person elected from office.

Clause 5.—This clause amends clause (b) of section 71 of the Act. The use of the word "rules" in this clause is obviously a mistake, as there can be no prosecutions for offences under the rules made under the Act (vide sub-section (9) of section 3); the word should be "bye-laws." The Hackney Carriages Act, 1879, and rules made thereunder, has been added to the other laws, fines realised under which go into the Municipal Fund.

Clause 7.—This amends sub-section (3) of section 100 of the Act, by substituting the word "by public notice" for the words "by bye-laws." The fees to be charged in respect of the disposal of the dead bodies of animals may vary from time to time and, as the law now stands, an alteration of the bye-law, with the formalities and delays involved, is necessary on each occasion in which any alteration in the fees becomes necessary. As is several similar provisions, the Committee should have power to fix the fees by public notice.

Clause 8 (see also clause 13).—It has been found that the absence of the word "timber" before the word "wood" in section 103 of the Act, has led to difficulty and inconvenience, and this clause makes the necessary addition. In clause 13 of the Bill, an addition is made to the clauses of section 144, enabling Committees to regulate the stacking of timber and wood. This power is much needed in hill municipalities where careless stacking of timber and wood frequently causes landslips or other grave inconveniences.

Clause 9.—This clause adds to the Act certain sections, as 120 A to H, both inclusive, dealing with the power to run main pipes, main sewers and the like, through private grounds and to regulate all private connections therewith—

Section 120 A.—This section is based on provisions contained in the Public Health Act, 1875 (England); the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1888; the Indian Telegraphs Act, 1885, and similar Acts. It provides that, subject to proper notice and payment of compensation for damage, mains may be run through private lands.

Sections 120 B and C contain supplementary provisions.

Sections 120 D—H relate to connections, ferrules, meters and the like.

Powers of entry for purposes of survey, inspection and the like, are already given by sections 106—110 of the Act and particularly section 108. Compensation will be assessed under the provisions of section 149.

Clause 10.—This clause makes a few verbal corrections in sections 122, 123 and 125 of the Act. Sub-section (1) of section 122 omits to specify latrines and urinals amongst the matters which the Committee may regulate in the case of owners who are not employers of labour, though the liability of large house-holders in these respects should be the same as those of employers of more than twenty workmen (sub-section (2)) of the same section. The words "latrine, urinal" are omitted from section 123, while the word "privy" is omitted from section 125. This gives rise to a distinction between "privies" and "latrines" and between "urinals" and "other receptacles for filth." If any distinction can be drawn between a privy and a latrine, it would seem to lie in the assumption that a latrine is a compartment containing several seats, while the privy has only one. There can be no doubt that urinals should be mentioned throughout these sections. The alterations necessary to render these sections consistent and to remove all doubts as to their meaning have been effected.

(1) prohibiting the letting off of fire-works, fire-arms and the like without permission and payment of fees ;

(2) regulating connections, meters and the like, and the charges in respect thereof, in connection with systems of lighting, water-supply, &c.

Clause 12.—This clause adds a sub-section to section 143 of the Act, giving power to Committees, with the sanction of the Local Government, to extend the operation of bye-laws relating to the licensing of vehicles and animals and the rates of hire to be charged for them, to roads and places beyond Municipal limits. This is a very necessary provision.

Clause 13.—See note on clause 7.

Clause 14.—Amends section 150 of the Act, so as to omit the words—"at a walking pace." It is necessary to enable Committees to require that all vehicles driven, at whatever pace, at night, shall carry lights.

Clause 15.—This clause adds a section after section 168 of the Act, regulating bill-sticking, and is modelled on the Bombay Municipal Act.

Clause 16.—This clause amends sub-section (1) of Section 173 of the Act, which relates to fire-brigades, so as to empower the officer of the Public Works Department, in regard to public buildings in his charge, to exercise the authority given by the section.

Clause 17.—This clause adds provisions to section 211 to the Act, enabling the Government to fix the term of office of members of Committees of small towns, and to delegate the power to appoint such members to Commissioners.

THE following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 14th July 1900.

Bill No. II of 1900.

A Bill to amend Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in respect of the descent of Jágírs.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in respect of the descent of Jágírs;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

...—"Punj- ..." is defin- ...n the Punj- ...General ...uses Act, ...8.

Short title, local extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Punjab Descent of Jágírs Act, 1900;

(2) It extends to the Punjab ; and

(3) It shall come into force at once.

IV of ...

New section substituted for Section 8 of Act IV of 1872.

2 The following section shall be substituted for Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, namely—

" Rule of descent in family of assignee of land revenue."

" 8. (1) Where the Government has heretofore declared or at any time hereafter declares that any rule of descent in respect of succession to any assignment of land-revenue shall prevail in the family of assignees, such rule of descent shall be deemed to prevail, and to have prevailed from the time when the declaration was made, anything in any law or contract to the contrary notwithstanding :

Provided that no such declaration shall hereafter be made unless and until—

(a) the Government is satisfied that the rule of descent to be so declared actually prevails in the family and has been, continuously and without breach, observed in all successions (if any) to the assignment since it was made, or

(b) the assignee or his successor in interest for the time being has, by written instrument duly executed by him, either before or after the passing of this Act, signified, on behalf of himself and his family, acceptance of the rule of descent to be so declared and either no succession has taken place since such acceptance, or else in all successions which have taken place since such acceptance the assignment has in fact not devolved otherwise than it would have devolved had the said rule of descent been in force.

(2) Any declaration made under sub-section (1) may be amended, varied or rescinded by the Government, but always subject to the proviso thereto.

(3) Where the rule of descent declared under this section to prevail involves the devolution of the assignment of land-revenue to a single person as impartible property, the assignment shall not be liable to seizure, attachment or sequestration by process of any Court at the instance of a creditor for any demand against the assignee or his successor for the time being in interest, or in satisfaction of any decree or order."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE objects in view in amending Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, as proposed in this Bill, are—

(1) to check the sub-division of jágírs or revenue-free assignments among numerous heirs and the consequent gradual deterioration in social status of many of the leading families in this Province ; and

Section 8 of the Act, (IV of 1872), validates any declaration, as to the rule of descent to prevail in any family or families of assignees of land-revenue, made by the Government by enacting that the rule of descent so declared " shall be held to prevail, and to have prevailed * * * from the time when the declaration was made." The intention was obviously to enable the Government to do what it is proposed in the present Bill to take power to do, but unfortunately the words " has declared," as used in the section, have been held to preclude the application of the section to declarations made after the passing of that Act.

It is open to the Government to impose such conditions as to it may seem fit on grants of the character of revenue assignments, and thus to regulate their descent, but advantage of this fact has not always been taken in the past, and evils have arisen in consequence, which render early action necessary.

The proposed measure restricts the power of the Local Government to make declarations as to the rule of descent, by two conditions, namely, that either (1) the rule declared be the rule which has always prevailed or (2) that the assignee for the time being formally and voluntarily accepts the rule to be declared, as binding on himself and his family. The acceptance is to be effected by an instrument signed by the assignee or his successor for the time being, and an acceptance signified before the passing of the proposed measure will be as operative as one given after it has become law. These safeguards supply a defect in the existing law, and are calculated to remove all possible objection to the amendment proposed in the Bill.

"(3) The Local Government may delegate to the Commissioner of any Division the power, to be exercised within such Division, to appoint the members of a committee under clause (d) of sub-section (1)."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, has now been in operation for eight years, and certain defects and omissions have been brought to notice which it is the object of this Bill to, respectively, remedy and supply. The amendments which it is proposed to make are all of a non-contentious kind, and several of them merely involve slight verbal alterations.

The only important additions to the Act which it is proposed to make, are those contained in clause 8 of the Bill. These relate to the powers of Committees in regard to the carrying out of proper schemes of lighting, water-supply, drainage and sewage. In providing systems for the supply of water, gas and the like and in carrying out efficient drainage and sewage works, it is often necessary to carry the main arteries of supply through or under private lands, and, in all such systems, there must be adequate power to control private connections with the main channels of supply. In England such powers are conferred, in regard to water-supply and sewage, on all local authorities, by the Public Health Act, 1875, and other statutes. The supply of gas and electricity and the like is, in England, chiefly in the hands of private companies and the powers conferred on local authorities are not so extensive or definite. Similar powers are taken in the Presidency Towns in India, in their respective Municipal laws. The Bill aims at supplying the necessary powers in the case Municipalities in the Punjab, subject to all proper safeguards. It may be mentioned that, under the Municipal Act and rules, no large projects for the execution of public works can be carried out without the sanction of the Local Government, and all such works are constructed by or under the supervision of Government agency, and that there is, therefore, no danger of any misuse of the powers which it is proposed to take in the Bill.

ALWEYNE TURNER, J. WILSON,

Secretary, Legislative Council. Member.

NOTE EXPLAINING THE CLAUSES OF THE BILL.

Clauses 1 and 2.—These are the necessary formal preliminary clauses.

Clause 3 (see also clause 4).—Section 11 of the Act states the grounds on which a member may be removed from office. It is proposed to add to these grounds by providing that any disqualification which, if it arose before election, would render a candidate ineligible, will, if it arises after election, be a ground for removal from office.

Clause 4.—This clause effects a corresponding alteration in section 18 of the Act by adding thereto a proviso giving power to the proper authority to refuse to notify the election of any person who could be removed from office under any of the provisions of section 11, thus rendering the election void.

The amendments proposed in clauses 3 and 4 supply an obvious omission in the existing law. As that law now stands, there would appear to be no power to refuse to notify an election, though the person elected might have to be removed immediately afterwards, while a disqualification for election arising after the election takes place, would be no ground for refusing to notify the election or for removing the person elected from office.

Clause 5.—This clause amends clause (b) of section 71 of the Act. The use of the word "rules" in this clause is obviously a mistake, as there can be no prosecutions for offences under the rules made under the Act (vide sub-section (9) of section 3); the word should be "bye-laws." The Hackney Carriages Act, 1879, and rules made thereunder, has been added to the other laws, fines realised under which go into the Municipal Fund.

Clause 7.—This amends sub-section (3) of section 100 of the Act, by substituting the word "by public notice" for the words "by bye-laws." The fees to be charged in respect of the disposal of the dead bodies of animals may vary from time to time and, as the law now stands, an alteration of the bye-law, with the formalities and delays involved, is necessary on each occasion in which any alteration in the fees becomes necessary. As in several similar provisions, the Committee should have power to fix the fees by public notice.

Clause 8 (see also clause 13).—It has been found that the absence of the word "timber" before the word "wood" in section 103 of the Act, has led to difficulty and inconvenience, and this clause makes the necessary addition. In clause 13 of the Bill, an addition is made to the clauses of section 144, enabling Committees to regulate the stacking of timber and wood. This power is much needed in hill municipalities where careless stacking of timber and wood frequently causes landslips or other grave inconveniences.

Clause 9.—This clause adds to the Act certain sections, as 120 A to H, both inclusive, dealing with the power to run main pipes, main sewers and the like, through private grounds and to regulate all private connections therewith—

Section 120 A.—This section is based on provisions contained in the Public Health Act, 1875 (England); the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1888; the Indian Telegraphs Act, 1885, and similar Acts. It provides that, subject to proper notice and payment of compensation for damage, mains may be run through private lands.

Sections 120 B and C contain supplementary provisions.

Sections 120 D—H relate to connections, ferrules, meters and the like.

Powers of entry for purposes of survey, inspection and the like, are already given by sections 106—110 of the Act and particularly section 108. Compensation will be assessed under the provisions of section 149.

Clause 10.—This clause makes a few verbal corrections in sections 122, 123 and 125 of the Act. Sub-section (1) of section 122 omits to specify latrines and urinals amongst the matters which the Committee may regulate in the case of owners who are not employers of labour, though the liability of large house-holders in these respects should be the same as those of employers of more than twenty workmen (sub-section (2)) of the same section. The words "latrine, urinal" are omitted from section 123, while the word "privy" is omitted from section 125. This gives rise to a distinction between "privies" and "latrines" and between "urinals" and "other receptacles for filth." If any distinction can be drawn between a privy and a latrine, it would seem to lie in the assumption that a latrine is a compartment containing several seats, while the privy has only one. There can be no doubt that urinals should be mentioned throughout these sections. The alterations necessary to render these sections consistent and to remove all doubts as to their meaning have been effected.

Clause 11.—Clauses have here been added to sub-section (1) of section 143 of the Act, expressly empowering Committees to make bye-laws,—

(1) prohibiting the letting off of fire-works, fire-arms and the like without permission and payment of fees ;

(2) regulating connections, meters and the like, and the charges in respect thereof, in connection with systems of lighting, water-supply, &c.

Clause 12.—This clause adds a sub-section to section 143 of the Act, giving power to Committees, with the sanction of the Local Government, to extend the operation of bye-laws relating to the licensing of vehicles and animals and the rates of hire to be charged for them, to roads and places beyond Municipal limits. This is a very necessary provision.

Clause 13.—See note on clause 7.

Clause 14.—Amends section 150 of the Act, so as to omit the words—"at a walking pace." It is necessary to enable Committees to require that all vehicles driven, at whatever pace, at night, shall carry lights.

Clause 15.—This clause adds a section after section 168 of the Act, regulating bill-sticking, and is modelled on the Bombay Municipal Act.

Clause 16.—This clause amends sub-section (1) of Section 173 of the Act, which relates to fire-brigades, so as to empower the officer of the Public Works Department, in regard to public buildings in his charge, to exercise the authority given by the section.

Clause 17.—This clause adds provisions to section 211 of the Act, enabling the Government to fix the term of office of members of Committees of small towns, and to delegate the power to appoint such members to Commissioners.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in respect of the descent of Jágírs ;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

(2) It extends to the Punjab ; and

(3) It shall come into force at once.

Act IV of 1872.

New section substituted for Section 8 of Act IV of 1872.

2. The following section shall be substituted for Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, namely—

"Rule of descent in family of assignee of land revenue."

"8. (1) Where the Government has heretofore declared or at any time hereafter declares that any rule of descent in respect of succession to any assignment of land-revenue shall prevail in the family of assignees, such rule of descent shall be deemed to prevail, and to have prevailed from the time when the declaration was made, anything in any law or contract to the contrary notwithstanding :

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE objects in view in amending Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, as proposed in this Bill, are—

(1) to check the sub-division of jágírs or revenue-free assignments among numerous heirs and the consequent gradual deterioration in social status of many of the leading families in this Province ; and

(2) to secure these grants from attachment in execution of the decrees of the Civil Courts.

Section 8 of the Act, (IV of 1872), validates any declaration, as to the rule of descent to prevail in any family or families of assignees of land-revenue, made by the Government by enacting that the rule of descent so declared "shall be held to prevail, and to have prevailed * * * from the time when the declaration was made." The intention was obviously to enable the Government to do what it is proposed in the present Bill to take power to do, but unfortunately the words "has declared," as used in the section, have been held to preclude the application of the section to declarations made after the passing of that Act.

It is open to the Government to impose such conditions as to it may seem fit on grants of the character of revenue assignments, and thus to regulate their descent, but advantage of this fact has not always been taken in the past, and evils have arisen in consequence, which render early action necessary.

The proposed measure restricts the power of the Local Government to make declarations as to the rule of descent, by two conditions, namely, that either (1) the rule declared be the rule which has always prevailed or (2) that the assignee for the time being formally and voluntarily accepts the rule to be declared, as binding on himself and his family. The acceptance is to be effected by an instrument signed by the assignee or his successor for the time being, and an acceptance signified before the passing of the proposed measure will be as operative as one given after it has become law. These safeguards supply a defect in the existing law, and are calculated to remove all possible objection to the amendment proposed in the Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, has now been in operation for eight years, and certain defects and omissions have been brought to notice which it is the object of this Bill to, respectively, remedy and supply. The amendments which it is proposed to make are all of a non-contentious kind, and several of them merely involve slight verbal alterations.

The only important additions to the Act which it is proposed to make, are those contained in clause 8 of the Bill. These relate to the powers of Committees in regard to the carrying out of proper schemes of lighting, water-supply, drainage and sewage. In providing systems for the supply of water, gas and the like and in carrying out efficient drainage and sewage works, it is often necessary to carry the main arteries of supply through or under private lands, and, in all such systems, there must be adequate power to control private connections with the main channels of supply. In England such powers are conferred, in regard to water-supply and sewage, on all local authorities, by the Public Health Act, 1875, and other statutes. The supply of gas and electricity and the like is, in England, chiefly in the hands of private companies and the powers conferred on local authorities are not so extensive or definite. Similar powers are taken in the Presidency Towns in India, in their respective Municipal laws. The Bill aims at supplying the necessary powers in the case Municipalities in the Punjab, subject to all proper safeguards. It may be mentioned that, under the Municipal Act and rules, no large projects for the execution of public works can be carried out without the sanction of the Local Government, and all such works are constructed by or under the supervision of Government agency, and that there is, therefore, no danger of any misuse of the powers which it is proposed to take in the Bill.

The following note explains the provisions of the various clauses of the Bill.

Secretary, Legislative Council. Member.

NOTE EXPLAINING THE CLAUSES OF THE BILL.

Clauses 1 and 2.—These are the necessary formal preliminary clauses.

Clause 3 (see also clause 4).—Section 11 of the Act states the grounds on which a member may be removed from office. It is proposed to add to these grounds by providing that any disqualification which, if it arose before election, would render a candidate ineligible, will, if it arises after election, be a ground for removal from office.

Clause 4.—This clause effects a corresponding alteration in section 18 of the Act by adding thereto a proviso giving power to the proper authority to refuse to notify the election of any person who could be removed from office under any of the provisions of section 11, thus rendering the election void.

The amendments proposed in clauses 3 and 4 supply an obvious omission in the existing law. As that law now stands, there would appear to be no power to refuse to notify an election, though the person elected might have to be removed immediately afterwards, while a disqualification for election arising after the election takes place, would be no ground for refusing to notify the election or for removing the person elected from office.

Clause 5.—This clause amends clause (b) of section 71 of the Act. The use of the word "rules" in this clause is obviously a mistake, as there can be no prosecutions for offences under the rules made under the Act (vide sub-section (9) of section 3); the word should be "bye-laws." The Hackney Carriages Act, 1879, and rules made thereunder, has been added to the other laws, fines realised under which go into the Municipal Fund.

Clause 7.—This amends sub-section (3) of section 100 of the Act, by substituting the word "by public notice" for the words "by bye-laws." The fees to be charged in respect of the disposal of the dead bodies of animals may vary from time to time and, as the law now stands, an alteration of the bye-law, with the formalities and delays involved, is necessary on each occasion in which any alteration in the fees becomes necessary. As in several similar provisions, the Committee should have power to fix the fees by public notice.

Clause 8 (see also clause 13).—It has been found that the absence of the word "timber" before the word "wood" in section 103 of the Act, has led to difficulty and inconvenience, and this clause makes the necessary addition. In clause 13 of the Bill, an addition is made to the clauses of section 144, enabling Committees to regulate the stacking of timber and wood. This power is much needed in hill municipalities where careless stacking of timber and wood frequently causes landslips or other grave inconveniences.

Clause 9.—This clause adds to the Act certain sections, as 120 A to H, both inclusive, dealing with the power to run main pipes, main sewers and the like, through private grounds and to regulate all private connections therewith—

Section 120 A.—This section is based on provisions contained in the Public Health Act, 1875 (England); the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1888; the Indian Telegraphs Act, 1885, and similar Acts. It provides that, subject to proper notice and payment of compensation for damage, mains may be run through private lands.

Sections 120 B and C contain supplementary provisions.

Sections 120 D—H relate to connections, ferrules, meters and the like.

Powers of entry for purposes of survey, inspection and the like, are already given by sections 106—110 of the Act and particularly section 108. Compensation will be assessed under the provisions of section 149.

Clause 10.—This clause makes a few verbal corrections in sections 122, 123 and 125 of the Act. Sub-section (1) of section 122 omits to specify latrines and urinals amongst the matters which the Committee may regulate in the case of owners who are not employers of labour, though the liability of large house-holders in these respects should be the same as those of employers of more than twenty workmen (sub-section (2)) of the same section. The words "latrine, urinal" are omitted from section 123, while the word "privy" is omitted from section 125. This gives rise to a distinction between "privies" and "latrines" and between "urinals" and "other receptacles for filth." If any distinction can be drawn between a privy and a latrine, it would seem to lie in the assumption that a latrine is a compartment containing several seats, while the privy has only one. There can be no doubt that urinals should be mentioned throughout these sections. The alterations necessary to render these sections consistent and to remove all doubts as to their meaning have been effected.

Clause 11.—Clauses have here been added to sub-section (1) of section 143 of the Act, expressly empowering Committees to make bye-laws,—

(1) prohibiting the letting off of fire-works, fire-arms and the like without permission and payment of fees;

(2) regulating connections, meters and the like, and the charges in respect thereof, in connection with systems of lighting, water-supply, &c.

Clause 12.—This clause adds a sub-section to section 143 of the Act, giving power to Committees, with the sanction of the Local Government, to extend the operation of bye-laws relating to the licensing of vehicles and animals and the rates of hire to be charged for them, to roads and places beyond Municipal limits. This is a very necessary provision.

Clause 13.—See note on clause 7.

Clause 14.—Amends section 150 of the Act, so as to omit the words—"at a walking pace." It is necessary to enable Committees to require that all vehicles driven, at whatever pace, at night, shall carry lights.

Clause 15.—This clause adds a section after section 168 of the Act, regulating bill-sticking, and is modelled on the Bombay Municipal Act.

Clause 16.—This clause amends sub-section (1) of Section 173 of the Act, which relates to fire-brigades, so as to empower the officer of the Public Works Department, in regard to public buildings in his charge, to exercise the authority given by the section.

Clause 17.—This clause adds provisions to section 211 of the Act, enabling the Government to fix the term of office of members of Committees of small towns, and to delegate the power to appoint such members to Commissioners.

THE following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 14th July 1900.

Bill No. II of 1900.

A Bill to amend Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in respect of the descent of Jágírs.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in respect of the descent of Jágírs;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Note—"Punjab" is defined in the Punjab General Clauses Act, 1898.

Short title, local extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Punjab Descent of Jágírs Act, 1900 ;

(2) It extends to the Punjab ; and

(3) It shall come into force at once.

Act IV of 1872.

New section substituted for Section 8 of Act IV of 1872.

2. The following section shall be substituted for Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, namely—

"Rule of descent in family of assignee of land revenue."

" 8. (1) Where the Government has heretofore declared or at any time hereafter declares that any rule of descent in respect of succession to any assignment of land-revenue shall prevail in the family of assignees, such rule of descent shall be deemed to prevail, and to have prevailed from the time when the declaration was made, anything in any law or contract to the contrary notwithstanding :

Provided that no such declaration shall hereafter be made unless and until—

(a) the Government is satisfied that the rule of descent to be so declared actually prevails in the family and has been, continuously and without breach, observed in all successions (if any) to the assignment since it was made, or

(b) the assignee or his successor in interest for the time being has, by written instrument duly executed by him, either before or after the passing of this Act, signified, on behalf of himself and his family, acceptance of the rule of descent to be so declared and either no succession has taken place since such acceptance, or else in all successions which have taken place since such acceptance the assignment has in fact not devolved otherwise than it would have devolved had the said rule of descent been in force.

(2) Any declaration made under sub-section (1) may be amended, varied or rescinded by the Government, but always subject to the proviso thereto.

(3) Where the rule of descent declared under this section to prevail involves the devolution of the assignment of land-revenue to a single person as impartible property, the assignment shall not be liable to seizure, attachment or sequestration by process of any Court at the instance of a creditor for any demand against the assignee or his successor for the time being in interest, or in satisfaction of any decree or order."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE objects in view in amending Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, as proposed in this Bill, are—

(1) to check the sub-division of jágírs or revenue-free assignments among numerous heirs and the consequent gradual deterioration in social status of many of the leading families in this Province ; and

(2) to secure these grants from attachment in execution of the decrees of the Civil Courts.

Section 8 of the Act, (IV of 1872), validates any declaration, as to the rule of descent to prevail in any family or families of assignees of land-revenue, made by the Government by enacting that the rule of descent so declared " shall be held to prevail, and to have prevailed * * * from the time when the declaration was made." The intention was obviously to enable the Government to do what it is proposed in the present Bill to take power to do, but unfortunately the words " has declared," as used in the section, have been held to preclude the application of the section to declarations made after the passing of that Act.

It is open to the Government to impose such conditions as to it may seem fit on grants of the character of revenue assignments, and thus to regulate their descent, but advantage of this fact has not always been taken in the past, and evils have arisen in consequence, which render early action necessary.

The proposed measure restricts the power of the Local Government to make declarations as to the rule of descent, by two conditions, namely, that either (1) the rule declared be the rule which has always prevailed or (2) that the assignee for the time being formally and voluntarily accepts the rule to be declared, as binding on himself and his family. The acceptance is to be effected by an instrument signed by the assignee or his successor for the time being, and an acceptance signified before the passing of the proposed measure will be as operative as one given after it has become law. These safeguards supply a defect in the existing law, and are calculated to remove all possible objection to the amendment proposed in the Bill.

PUNJAB GOVERNMENT.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, was presented to the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd September 1900:—

WE, the undersigned members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in respect of the descent of jágírs, was referred, have now the honor to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed hereto.

2. We have added to the Bill sections 8 A, 8 B and 8 C which empower the Government where necessary—

(1) to pass over heirs unfit to succeed;

(2) to require any successor to an assignment in respect of which a declaration has been made under section 8 to provide suitable maintenance out of the assignment for members of the family of the late or any former holder of the assignment.

3. These additions have been made in accordance with the advice of Mr. E. W. Parker, late Legal Remembrancer to the Punjab Government; and appear to us to be consistent with the policy of Government as declared in paragraph 8 of the letter of the Government of India in the Revenue Department, No. $\frac{330}{202-2}$, dated the 9th February 1899.

4. We are of opinion that where the rule of descent already actually prevailing in any family of assignees and continuously and without breach observed in all successions (if any) to the assignment since it was made involves the devolution of the assignment as impartible property to a single person, the assignment should have the benefit of the exemption from attachment and the like accorded in certain cases by sub-section (3) of section 8. In particular we think this benefit should extend to all the assignments granted in perpetuity after the 25th November 1859 which, under the orders of that date, are inheritable, unless a different rule of succession has been prescribed in the grant, integrally by a single heir.

5. It appears to us, however, that this result can be attained by including all jágírs which come within the above descriptions in declarations under section 8 (1) made in accordance with proviso (a) of that sub-section. As the Bill thus makes sufficient provision in this behalf we propose no further alteration.

6. The Bill as introduced was published in the Punjab Government Gazette—

In English

On the 26th July, 2nd and 9th August 1900.

In Urdu

On the 2nd, 9th and 16th August 1900.

7. We are of opinion that the Bill has not been so altered as to require re-publication, and we recommend that the Bill as amended be passed.

Annexure to Report of Select Committee.

Bill No. II of 1900.

AS AMENDED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

A Bill to amend section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in respect of the descent of Jágírs.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in respect of the descent of Jágírs;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

[Note—"Punjab" is defined in the Punjab General Clauses Act, 1898.]

Short title, local extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Punjab Descent of Jágírs Act, 1900;

(2) It extends to the Punjab; and

(3) It shall come into force at once.

New section substituted for section 8 of Act IV of 1872.

[Act IV of 1872.]

2 The following section shall be substituted for section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, namely—

"Rule of descent in family of assignee of land-revenue."

"8. (1) Where the Government has heretofore declared or at any time hereafter declares that any rule of descent in respect of succession to any assignment of land-revenue shall prevail in the family of assignees, such rule of descent shall be deemed to prevail, and to have prevailed from the time when the declaration was made, anything in any law or contract to the contrary notwithstanding:

Provided that no such declaration shall hereafter be made unless and until—

(a) the Government is satisfied that the rule of descent to be so declared actually prevails in the family and has been, continuously and without breach, observed in all successions (if any) to the assignment since it was made, or

(b) the assignee or his successor in interest for the time being has, by written instrument duly executed by him, either before or after the passing of this Act, signified, on behalf of himself and his family, acceptance of the rule of descent to be so declared and either no succession has taken place since such acceptance, or else in all successions which have taken place since such acceptance the assignment has in fact not devolved otherwise than it would have devolved had the said rule of descent been in force.

(2) Any declaration made under sub-section (1) may be amended, varied or rescinded by the Government, but always subject to the proviso thereto.

(3) Where the rule of descent declared under this section to prevail involves the devolution of the assignment of land-revenue to a single person as impartible property, the assignment shall not be liable to seizure, attachment or sequestration by process of any Court at the instance of a creditor for any demand against the assignee or his successor for the time being in interest, or in satisfaction of any decree or order.

Power to annex certain conditions to assignments when the rule of descent is declared.

8 A. When the Government makes any declaration under section 8 it may by notification in the local Government Gazette direct that the rule of descent thereby declared to prevail shall be subject to the following conditions or either of them, namely :—

(a) That each successor to the assignment shall be approved and accepted as such by Government.

(b) That any successor to the assignment shall, if the Government so require, make such provision out of the assignment as the Government may consider suitable for the maintenance of the widow or widows (if any) and other members of the family (if any) of the last or any previous holder of the assignment:

Provided that—

(1) the Government shall not refuse to approve and accept as a successor to the assignment any person who by the rule of descent declared under section 8 to prevail is next in order of succession unless that person is in the opinion of Government unfit to succeed to the assignment; and

(2) if the Government should exercise its authority under clause (a) of this section and refuse to accept as the successor the person indicated by the rule of descent as next in order of succession, then the next person entitled to succeed after the person so rejected, who is approved and accepted by Government, shall succeed.

8 B. When the Government has issued a notification under the authority of section 8 or of section 8 A of this Act, it shall have full power and authority to do all acts and things necessary to enforce the rule of descent declared by such notification to prevail and all or any of the conditions attached thereto.

Power to enforce rules and conditions under sections 8 and 8 A.

8 C. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary which may appear in the conditions on which any assignment has been made, the Government is hereby empowered to declare that the rules, conditions and powers enacted by sections 8, 8 A and 8 B of this Act may be made applicable after notification in the local Government Gazette to such assignments.

Authority for Government to declare former assignments subject to the rules, conditions and powers enacted by sections 8, 8 A and 8 B.

PUNJAB LIMITATION (ANCESTRAL LAND ALIENATION) BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. MADAN GOPAL moved that the report of the Select Committee on the Bill to regulate the period of limitation of suits arising out of the alienation of land by persons subject to the Customary Law in force in the Punjab, be taken into consideration. He said :—

"In moving that the Bill to regulate the period of limitation for suits arising out of the alienation of ancestral land by persons who are subject to the Customary Law in force in the Punjab be taken into consideration, I will briefly recall to the Council the circumstances under which the Bill was introduced, and make some remarks on the changes which it has undergone in form and in some of its details when passing through the Select Committee.

"In this province, a peasant proprietor belonging to an agricultural tribe has been found, by inquiries made by Settlement and Judicial Officers, not to be competent, by Customary Law, to transfer ancestral land without necessity or without the consent of agnates descended from the same common ancestor to whom the land originally belonged. These agnates have power to control dispositions which would act prejudicially to their interests. The alienation gives them a cause of action to have it set aside as against them, so as not to affect their succession. The question as to the date on which their cause of action arises and when the period of limitation for a suit by them commences to run, though at first it appears to be very simple, has in practice given rise to several conflicting rulings. Up to 1895, the general belief was that twelve years' actual possession gave a good title. This was in accordance with the general policy of the Limitation Law. The Ruling No. 18 of 1895 laid down that this general belief was unfounded. For the reasons given in the judgment, the date when the possession of the alienee became adverse to the reversioner is not the date of the alienation, but the date of the death of the last owner. So that if the transfer took place, say, in 1860, and the alienor died in 1890—a not uncommon occurrence—the reversioner would be competent to sue the alienee till 1902—i. e., forty-two years after the alienation. Even the learned Judges themselves felt that their pronouncement would lead to very serious consequences and that hundreds of titles, till then deemed secure, might be called in question. Accordingly they drew the attention of the Government to this evil in April 1895. The matter has thus been under discussion for the last six years. In August last, I had the honour to introduce the Bill by which the restoration of the old period of limitation was proposed. The matter was referred to a Select Committee which submitted its report in November last. The amended Bill and the Report of the Select Committee were republished six months ago, so that the Council will see that the matter has received long and anxious consideration and been before the public for at least nine months and is, in my opinion, now ripe for consideration and to be passed into law.

"The Select Committee considered the following points :—

"(a). The substitution of the word "land" for "immoveable property." The Secretary of State for India had suggested that the period of limitation should count from the date on which the transfer was attested in the Register of Mutations. As our Revenue papers only deal with agricultural land, the presumption is that the scope of the measure was intended, in that quarter, to be confined to such land. Moreover, so far as enquiries have gone, it has been established that a restriction as to alienation exists only as regards agricultural land and not quâ any other property—moveable or immoveable. As to moveable property, the power of the proprietor is absolute, and, as to ancestral houses, inquiries have not shown that custom placed any restriction on his right of alienation. The Bill was, therefore, so amended as to leave out the indefinite expression "property" and to confine it to agricultural land. In consequence of the above, a definition of "land" was inserted in section 3. This definition was taken bodily from the Tenancy Act. This was the view of the Select Committee, but there have been divergent views on the point which will be mentioned when I move for leave to make certain amendments.

"(b). In Article 1 of the first column of the Schedule the words "son or" were added before the word "reversioner."

"(c). Another change made was in the starting point of limitation: whereas in the first Bill, this point was the date of the alienation, the Select Committee fixed three separate starting points. Accepting the suggestion of the Secretary of State, it was provided that the period of limitation will begin to run from the date of the attestation of the entry, if any, made in the Register of Mutations. Such registers are maintained under the Land Revenue Act and, under section 34, it is obligatory on the alienees to report the fact of alienation to the Patwári. Not only is this obligation laid down by law, but it is exceedingly likely that, in his own interest, to remove all cloud from his title, the alienee will be induced to make this report. The next provision is one which lays down that the period of limitation will also run from the date of taking physical possession of the property alienated. Those who are conversant with the law of limitation will see at once that this provision will apply only to those cases where actual tangible possession is taken, i.e., some corporeal or perceptible act done which of itself conveys, or ought to convey, to the mind of a person, notice that his right has been prejudiced. It excludes the notion of possession through a tenant. The third starting point was provided for cases where there was no present right to possession,—where, by the nature of the transaction, the alienor does not give or agree to give immediate possession to the alienee. This provision was made for cases of what are called simple or collateral mortgages, or hypothecs in the language of the Roman Law. As the matter will have to be discussed in connection with an amendment on the point, no more need be said at present on the subject.

"(d). An important change was made in regard to the date from which limitation should begin to count in cases where the alienor may have died before this measure becomes law.

"After due consideration, the Select Committee were of opinion that the second clause of Article 2 of the Bill should be omitted. The object of the Bill is to restore the state of things which existed before the Full Bench Ruling above referred to was passed, i.e., that the law should be placed on the basis upon which it had previously been believed to stand. The Legislature has made no provision in the Limitation Act for suits of the nature of those contemplated in this Bill, so that we are not changing any law, but simply enacting a law where none existed before.

"And even if we were abrogating a right—if a right can be said to have been created by a ruling of Court—we were removing the more harmful of two evils.

"This requires some explanation. There are two evils: Insecurity of title of those who bought at a time when the theory of the restricted right of alienation was not known and paid full value for the property believing it to be unincumbered. Why should these people be punished for an innocent act? Why should the theory of restricted ownership be used retrospectively to their disadvantage? In support of the other evil, a remonstrance has been made against our passing a law which would have the effect of prejudicially affecting reversioners who have an existing right to sue. Are reversioners deserving of more consideration than those men whose titles have been twice assailed, (i), when it was ruled that a proprietor has a restricted power of alienation, and (ii), when it was decided that the limitation for a suit for possession by the reversioner begins from the death of the alienor. These persons are entitled to say: (i) "we bought the property at a time when the law did not recognise the right of any other than the alienor in the property, why should ex post facto law operate against us? and (ii) we submitted to this harsh treatment and have now matured our title by twelve years' adverse possession. We have obtained full and complete title in another way well known to law. Even this you assail and assail so as to affect past transactions." Who suffers the greater hardship? The alienees who may be ousted of their property, for which they paid full value, by judicial legislation, which admittedly affected past transactions of long standing and affected them violently and abruptly, or the reversioners who did not stir themselves but lay dormant for over twelve years at first and have now done nothing to impeach titles for six years? There is such a thing as retrospective legislation, and this is eminently a case for our interference. Surely the alienees are more innocent, having paid full value and been allowed to treat the property as their own for all these years.

"There is, of course, nothing essentially wrong and unjust in retrospective laws. Our only duty is to safeguard vested rights. And, in my humble opinion, the alienees have stronger vested rights than the agnates. The large majority of persons who are likely to be affected are ignorant villagers who give but little thought to the decisions of Courts. It is a large assumption that the people know anything about changes in law made by judicial decisions and, therefore, we should not be deterred in making any provision which deprives a person of a right which it was never intended he should have and he never contemplated that he possessed. Again, more than five years have passed since the publication of the Full Bench Ruling and the time that has intervened has been sufficiently long for vigilant people to have enforced their rights and we are not bound to assist the indolent or help the dilatory. Again, it is indefensible and inequitable to leave a large number of titles open to question for a considerable time. The popular doctrine of twelve years' adverse possession giving a complete and secure title, is eminently desirable and should be maintained, especially because the purchasers were, in most cases, unaware that the Chief Court would, at a future time, hold that an agriculturist land-owner had a restricted power of alienation. Moreover, there does not seem to be any justification in the Customary Law for placing the son or reversioner in a different position, as regards limitation, to that allotted to a son governed by Hindu Law. Twelve years seem to be ample time to allow, for any one who desires to do so, to contest an alienation. It is, on the whole, more important to give an immediate and complete security to all alienees who have had possession for twelve years than to compromise matters by safeguarding the rights which a certain number of reversioners have believed themselves to possess since 1895. In addition to this it seems to be illogical to enact a saving clause for cases where the alienor may have died before the passing of the Act. This could be made clear by the following examples:—

"On a certain date in 1886, A alienated to B and C to D. Suppose A dies one day before this measure becomes law and C a day after. According to the view of our critics, the reversioners of B should have twelve years, or some shorter time, from the death of A, whereas the reversioners of C should have no such time, to bring their suit—why should a difference of two days in the demise of the two alienors make all this difference of years? In either case the hardship is equal. There is no greater severity in the former. The proposed omission would make the two cases alike, the limitation uniform, and the treatment logical

"These are the grounds on which we have made the alterations."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. MADAN GOPAL stated that certain amendments, of which he had given notice, stood in the list of business circulated to Members; he desired to put those amendments in a somewhat altered form, as shown in the printed paper now placed on the table. The changes made were more in the form and language than in the substance of the amendments.

His Honour the President said that, with reference to Rule 27 of the Rules of Business, it was open to any Member to object to the proposed amendments being moved in their altered form.

There being no objection, the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill proceeded to move the first amendment standing in his name, and, in doing so, said :—

"The first amendment which I beg leave to propose is as regards the definition of the word "land." There appears to be some difference of opinion as to what property is governed by the Customary Law. The Members of the Select Committee followed the opinions of eminent Judges, like Sir M. Plowden, Sir Charles Roe, and Mr. Justice Chatterji, in holding that the Customary Law places restrictions on the alienation of agricultural land only. The whole principle underlying the enjoyment of, and succession to, lands in villages held by a body of proprietors belonging to one tribe or descended from a common ancestor is that the land does not belong absolutely to the individual holder for the time being—that all the members of the village community originally held their lands in common—that the land provided the subsistence of the group and must not leave its possession, and restrictive rules were made to secure the common interests of the family or the clan. These rules, from their nature, apply to lands only which existed originally and have come down from ancestors. Houses and enclosures have increased according to the requirements of the increasing population. While in the original settlers' time there may have been a few houses only, as their descendants increased in numbers, more accommodation was required and houses multiplied. The alienation of these houses concerns only the members of the domestic family, as opposed to dispositions of ancestral land which affect the genealogical family or all the descendants of the original owner. Again, the right of dwelling in a village is distinct from that of holding land in the estate attached to the village. When a sharer's share is alienated, his dwelling house does not necessarily go with it. As an additional reason it may be mentioned that these so-called usages have acquired great support from the policy of the British Government which considers it politically expedient to prevent the transfer of land from the agricultural tribes to outsiders. Most Indian officials who have administered justice are distinctly of opinion that there would have been no recognition of these usages but for this policy. During the Muhammadan and Sikh times, alienations to strangers sometimes took place. There are many instances extant, but no objection was ever raised. Since land has become marketable under British auspices and the scarcity of land with increase of population is making itself felt, the tribal feeling has changed and has taken advantage of the policy, and the feeling now is that a co-sharer has only a life interest in the land he inherits—a sort of general law of entail. British policy has had its last manifestation in the Land Alienation Bill introduced into the Imperial Council last year. That Bill confines itself to agricultural land only. Inasmuch as the policy underlying these customs and the proposed Bill is the same, there does not appear to be any reason why these customs should cover a wider ground. But it is the opinion of some officers of great ability and experience that the restriction as to alienation applies also to the homestead of the village—to the houses and enclosures in the abádi, and, in deference to their opinions, I move that, for clause (b) of Section 3 of the Bill, the following be substituted, namely—

"(b) the expression "land" shall mean land which is occupied or has "been let for agricultural purposes, or for purposes subservient to agriculture, "or for pasture, and shall include buildings and other structures on such land, "and also land included within the limits of village sites, and buildings and other "structures on such land."

The Hon'ble MR WILSON said :—"I desire to support this amendment, which will have the effect of extending the benefit of the Act to land and houses in the village, instead of confining it to agricultural land outside the village site. I understand that although it has not been distinctly held by the Chief Court that the custom restricting alienation, without consent of the heirs or reversioners, extends to land and houses inside the village site, it has not been ruled that it does not apply to such property. My own impression is that there are villages in the Punjab in which such a custom can be proved to exist, and, as we are, by this Act, making titles in alienated land more secure, I think the opportunity should be taken to secure the titles in such land situated inside village sites and in the houses located on it. Personally I should have preferred that, as originally proposed, this Act should extend to all ancestral immoveable property, but it seems to be the general opinion that there is no custom restricting alienation of house-property in towns, even though it be ancestral. Accepting that view, I accept the present amendment as sufficient, seeing that it will cover all ancestral immoveable property except house-property in towns, which requires no such protection."

The Hon'ble Nawáb MUHAMMAD HAYAT KHAN said that he agreed with the Hon'ble MR. WILSON in thinking that the original wording of the Bill, by which it applied to all ancestral immoveable property and not merely to ancestral land, was preferable, but the definition of the expression land now proposed would remove any real objection to the expression "ancestral land," as it would cover the case of houses and land in the village site. He wished, however, to be informed whether, if a person owned agricultural land in village A and a house in the abádi of, but no agricultural land in, village B, the proposed definition would extend to the house in the abádi of village B ?

The Hon'ble the Mover replied that it would.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. MADAN GOPAL said :—" The next amendment that I desire to lay before the Council is with respect to the starting time of limitation as provided for in the Schedule. Transactions which have to be considered may be divided into two broad classes. First, those in which possession is given, or agreed to be given, i. e., in which a present right to possession is given by the transfer. These are cases of sale, gift, usufructuary mortgage and exchange. These, again, may be sub-divided into (a) where possession is taken ; (b) where, though the right to possession is given, yet for some cause possession is not taken. In the former case, limitation can safely run from the date of attestation of the transaction in the Revenue Records (an act which takes place publicly in the village itself) or from the date the alienee has acquired physical possession of the land. The second is the case which has presented some difficulty. The question is put—What of those cases where a right to possession is given and yet possession is not taken ? If time were to run from the date of alienation, it would be very hard on the reversioner, as the twelve years may run out before he becomes aware of the transfer. Suppose A, the land-owner, lets land to B, and while B is in possession as tenant, a secret sale is made to him. If the period of limitation were to count from the date of sale, which ex hypothesi is kept secret, it might run out before the reversioner becomes aware of his right to assail the transaction. This is possible but, in my opinion, exceedingly unlikely. An alienee, in his own interest and to safeguard his title, will in all probability have the transaction entered in the Revenue papers. It is not in human nature, much less in the nature of a wily money-lender, to buy property and yet not take all precautions against his title being questioned. But granted that there may be such cases, there is the law contained in Section 18 of the Limitation Act which lays down that if the parties to a contract intentionally conceal the fact of sale, in that case the reversioner will be taken to have been kept from the knowledge of his right to sue by fraud, and time will run against him from the moment he discovers the fraud, i. e., obtains knowledge of the transaction. In my opinion this provision will amply meet such cases. But it has been thought, by gentlemen for whose opinions I have great respect, that there may still be cases that are not covered by section 18 and, in deference to their views, I propose that the following be substituted for the entries in the third column of the Schedule to the Bill, opposite the first article in the first column of the Schedule, namely—

"First—in any case in which, at the time of the alienation, possession is "given or agreed to be given"—

"(a) the date (if any) on which the alienation was attested by the "Revenue-officer having jurisdiction, in the register of mutations maintained "under the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887;

"(b) or, if the alienation has not been so attested—the date on which "the alienee takes physical possession of the land alienated;

"(c) or, in cases not provided for in (a) or (b)—when the facts entitling "the plaintiff to impeach the alienation first become known to him.

"Second—In the case of a mortgage without possession—the date of "the alienation."

"As respects these last I may state that, as the reversioner will enter into possession on the death of the alienor, a declaratory suit is optional for him. He need not bring it and will suffer no damage, and, therefore, there is no harm in making the date of alienation the starting point for a declaratory suit in his case.

"A warning is, however, necessary with respect to the alteration in (c). Our Courts are notorious as quarters where perjury is most committed. While a Ját will speak the truth under the village tree in the midst of his own people and dare not speak otherwise for fear of disgrace, he feels no compunction of conscience in telling a lie in Court, and, when charged with it, will excuse himself on the ground that the statement was made in Court, as if that is the usual thing and a matter of course. If we lay down, as the starting point, the date on which the reversioner becomes aware of his right to sue, a flood of false evidence will be let in on the Courts and they will not know how to repel it. Everything will depend on the statement of the plaintiff. Even if he had earlier notice, he will try and fix the time when he obtained the information at some date within the period of limitation, and his statement, even though false, will have to be accepted. This is a grave evil, but it may be said, on the other side, that the defendant has to thank himself for this disadvantage. If he had only made a report, this difficulty would not have arisen and consequently the merits are in favour of the reversioner. On this ground I lay the amendment before Council."

The Hon'ble MR. WILSON said:—"In supporting this amendment I should like to add a few remarks to the explanation given by the Hon'ble Mover. In all cases in which possession of agricultural land is given, or agreed to be given, the alienee is bound, by Section 34 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, to give notice of his acquisition of the right to the Patwári, in order that an order attesting the alienation may be passed by a Revenue-officer, and it is only in cases in which the alienee has failed in that duty, and has failed to take physical possession of the land alienated, that he will have to prove the plaintiff's knowledge of the facts in order that he may benefit from clause (1) (c) of the amendment. If the alienee has fraudulently, or otherwise, failed to perform his duty in this respect or to take possession, it is only fair to the reversioners that their right to sue should not be injured by his failure, and he will have himself to blame if his failure makes it difficult for him to prove when the facts became known to the reversioner."

The Hon'ble MR. CUNNINGHAM said:—"I should like to suggest a sight alteration in the form of this amendment. I should prefer to see clause (b) placed before clause (a), so that physical possession should supply the first, and the attestation in mutation proceedings the second starting point of limitation—thus following the natural order of events. This would necessitate a slight modification of language, thus—

" (a) the date on which the alienee takes physical possession of the land "alienated ;

" (b) or, if physical possession has not been taken, the date (if any) on " which the alienation was attested, &c., as in the Hon'ble Mover's paper."

The Hon'ble MR. MADAN GOPAL said that he saw no serious objection to the transposition of clauses (a) and (b), but it would, perhaps, be better to make all three clauses alternative rather than successive, and to provide that the earliest contingency, in point of time, should be the starting point for limitation.

The Hon'ble MR. WILSON said he was afraid he must object to the Hon'ble MR. CUNNINGHAM'S proposal, as it was the duty of the alienee to have the alienation entered by a Revenue-officer and, if he failed to carry out this duty, he should not benefit by his failure.

His Honour the President said :—" I think I must overrule the amendment suggested by the Hon'ble MR. CUNNINGHAM on the ground that it is out of order under Rule 27 and is objected to. I am not prepared to suspend the rules in order to admit of its being put to the Council."

The Hon'ble Nawáb MUHAMMAD HAYAT KHAN said :—" I wish to propose a further amendment to clause (c) of the amendment put forward by the Hon'ble MR. MADAN GOPAL. On the one hand, no provision is made for making the date of the registration of the deed evidencing the alienation a starting point for limitation, while, on the other hand, the cases in which the period is to run from the date on which the facts entitling the plaintiff to impeach the alienation first become known to him, should be narrowed down as closely as possible, as it is extremely difficult to fix the time when the facts first come to the plaintiff's knowledge and the door to false evidence and hard swearing is thus opened. I would suggest that the following be added to clause (c), namely—

" in case the deed is not registered, and,

" if it is registered, the date of registration."

The Hon'ble MR. MADAN GOPAL thought there was no serious objection to the proposed amendment.

The Hon'ble MR. WILSON said :—" I am compelled to object to this alteration also. In all cases, when such alienations are effected by registered deed, it is the duty of the alienee to have the alienation attested, and he should not be in a position to neglect that duty and then claim that the period should run from the date of registration, which may have been concealed from the reversioners."

His Honour the President said :—" For the reasons given on the Hon'ble MR. CUNNINGHAM'S amendment, I must disallow the Hon'ble the Nawáb's amendment also."

The motion, as made by the Hon'ble MR. MADAN GOPAL, was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. MADAN GOPAL said :—" The third amendment which I beg leave to move is, that the following be substituted for the entries (a) and (b) in the third column of the Schedule to the Bill, opposite the second article in the first column of the Schedule, namely—

" First—If no declaratory decree has been obtained—

" (a) as in (a) above ;

" (b) as in (b) above;

" (c) or, in cases not provided for in (a) or (b)—when the facts " entitling the plaintiff to impeach the alienation first become " known to him, or the date of the alienor's death, whichever " event happens first.

" Second—If a declaratory decree has been obtained—the date of the " alienor's death."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. MADAN GOPAL said :—" I now move that the Bill, as amended, be passed. I do not think I need make any further remarks in support of the motion.

His Honour the President said—

" This Bill, which has for its object the settling of titles in cases where certain ancestral property has been alienated by persons subject to the Customary Law in force in the Punjab and such alienation is impugned, has been necessitated by a decision of the Chief Court, Punjab, passed in 1895, whereby the period of limitation for suits to dispute such alienations was ruled to commence from the death of the transferor, thus disturbing the generally received notion that twelve years' continuous possession gave a good title in such cases. The result of the Bill, which this Council is about to pass into law, will be practically to restore the twelve year period of limitation instead of leaving the period dependent on the life of the alienor. The case appears simple, but it has proved somewhat intricate, and I have to express my obligation to the Hon'ble Mover for the time and pains he has bestowed upon it—and for the able exposition of the subject which he has given in his speech. There can be no question that this small piece of legislation is much needed and will serve a useful purpose."

The motion was put and agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT.

The Council adjourned sine die.

THE PUNJAB LAND PRESERVATION (CHOS) BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. H. C. Fanshawe presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the better preservation and protection of certain portions of the territories of the Punjab situate within or adjacent to the Siwálik Mountain Range or affected or liable to be affected by the action of streams and torrents, such as are commonly called chos, flowing through or from, or by the deboisement of forests within that range. He said:

"I have the honor to present the report of the Select Committee upon the Chos Bill and to move that it be taken into consideration. I must ask for the indulgence of this Council for the long delay in presenting it, as the report bears the date of October last. At the time of signing, however, it was agreed that the members of the Select Committee should consider it once more, if necessary, when all the opinions of officers upon the Bill had been received. It was impossible, however, for me, owing in the first place to the visit of His Excellency the Viceroy to Delhi, and in the second place to the pressure of famine work, to be present at the meetings of this Council, subsequent to October, or to consider the report further with the other members of the Select Committee, and as these gentlemen are now no longer Members of the Council, I present the amended Bill and report as originally framed by us.

I need not, I think, detain the Council with any statement of the change made in the Bill by the Select Committee as these are fully contained in our report. So far as they are not changes of drafting they are all in the direction of safeguarding private rights of various kinds, but at the same time they do not I think, in any way affect the essential provisions of the Bill for the protection of the Siwálik slopes and restriction of the damage done by chos torrents in the past. The amendments of the Bill as amended by the Select Committee, which by the leave of the Council I shall have to move, are also all in the same direction. The Select Committee were of opinion that no such change had been made in the Bill as called for its republication, and I now beg to move that the report and the " amended Bill be taken into consideration."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. H. C. Fanshawe then proposed that the amendments to the Bill suggested by the Select Committ ee be accepted.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. H. C. Fanshawe asked leave to propose the amendments of which he had given notice, and which had been set down on the List of Business circulated to members. He said:—

"The first amendment which I have to propose is merely a verbal one, namely, that the words "or lying waste" in the second line of clause (2) of Section 8 be omitted as being superfluous."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. H. C. Fanshawe said: "My second amendment relates to the proviso to clause (2) of Section 8 of the amended Bill. This amendment is proposed in accordance with the wishes of the Government of India, and will, I think, commend itself to all. It is that to the words of the proviso which at present exempts only cultivated or culturable land from the effect of a declaration by Government under the section the following words be added "or yields any produce of substantial value," thus widening the category of lands exempted."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. H. C. Fanshawe said: "The third amendment also relates to Section 8, and if approved will take the form of clause (3) of that section, the present clause 3 being renumbered clause 4. It is provided on the suggestion of local officers to facilitate the ascertainment of the wishes of the majority of owners and occupiers of a cho: bed when Government proposes to take action under Section 8 with regard to such a bed, and is as follows:—

"When the owners or occupiers of such locality are unable to agree among themselves regarding the carrying out of such measures, the decision of those paying the larger amount of land revenue shall be held to be binding on all."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. H. C. Fanshawe said: "The fourth and last amendment which I have to propose is also in part brought forward in accordance with the wishes of higher authority and fulfils the statement which I made in introducing the Bill, that the original owners of the land reclaimed by the action of Government in chos beds vested in Government should be allowed the first opportunity of purchasing such land should Government decide to sell it. This too is, I think, a provision which will meet with the approval of all. The second clause of the new section merely provides for the keeping of accounts to allow the values mentioned in the first clause to be ascertained. The new section by which it is proposed to give effect to the above principle will be inserted after Section 11 of the amended Bill and be numbered Section 12, and the numbering of the succeeding sections will be altered accordingly, and is as follows:—

"12. (1) If in any case the Local Government decides to dispose of any land acquired absolutely and in perpetuity under the provision of Section 8, clause (2), it shall in the first instance offer the proprietary right of the land to the original owner or owners thereof for such price as it considers proper not exceeding—

"(a) the amount expended by Government on the reclamation of the land, or

"(b) the capitalised value of the net income arising from the land reclaimed.

"(2) For the purpose of ascertaining the amount expended on the reclamation of the land, the Local Government shall at the time of declaring the land to be vested in it under Section 8, clause (2), give such directions as it may consider necessary for keeping proper accounts of the expenditure it may incur in reclaiming and protecting the said land."

The Hon'ble Nawáb Muhammad Hayát Khán asked whether it was intended that sub-clause (b) of clause (1) of the proposed section would apply to the original owners as well as the public; if so he would wish, with the leave of the President, to propose an amendment.

The Hon'ble Mr. H. C. Fanshawe replied in the affirmative, but having explained the terms of the section and having pointed out that the clause might be for the benefit of the original owners, as the capitalised value of the next income might be less than the amount expended by Government on the reclamation of the land, and that the section only declared that the maximum price should not exceed either of the amount mentioned in the two sub-clauses (a) and (b), the Hon'ble Nawáb Muhammad Hayát Khán begged leave to withdraw his application to be allowed to propose an amendment.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. H. C. Fanshawe said: "I have now the honor to propose that the Bill, as amended, be passed."

His Honor the President said: "As explained by the Hon'ble Mr. Fanshawe in introducing this Bill in August last, measures for arresting the serious damage caused in the Hoshiárpur and Jullundur Districts by the erosion of the Siwálik Range of hills in the former have been under consideration since 1876, when the evil was first brought prominently to notice by that friend of the people, Mr. Coldstream, then Deputy Commissioner of Hoshiárpur. It was discussed in the early stages of the proceedings by Mr. Baden-Powell, brother of the defender of Mafeking, and noted on in the Punjab Government Secretariat by two Members of this Council, the Hon'ble Mr. Tupper and the Hon'ble Mover, and every Lieutenant-Governor and Financial Commissioner since then has had a hand in elaborating the scheme which is now before us. When at last the proposals reached the Government of India and the Secretary of State they met with a cordial reception. And no wonder, for the magnitude of the evil will be fully appreciated when it is considered that no less than 120,000 acres of cultivated land in 1,070 villages have been practically devastated by the inundation of sand poured over the face of the country by the ever-widening torrents descending into the fertile plains of Hoshiárpur and Jullundur from the neighbouring Siwálik Range.

"To deal with such an enemy, drastic measures are necessary. The evil has been caused by the denudation of the hills and it is only their afforestation that can stop it. This means closure of grazing and interference with rights long exercised but long abused. Every effort has been made to make this interference as little oppressive as is possible under the circumstances, but even if the precautionary provisions embodied in the Bill fail to deprive it of some of its stringency there is a certain retributive fairness in exacting some curtailment of their privileges from those who, without realizing perhaps what they were doing, have by stripping their hills of every particle of verdure rendered them sources of irreparable injury to their neighbours in the plains below. For substantial interference in their rights they will receive compensation; the indirect restraint involving some inconvenience and possibly some loss is the price they will pay for the inconsiderate use they have made of these hills in the past.

"At the same time an attempt has been made to keep the balance between the inhabitants of the hills and those in the plains who have hitherto been the sufferers and in whose interests the measure is devised. The owners of the villages in the plains affected by the torrents are to be called upon to help Government in its efforts to help them by planting out the sandy beds, a measure which has already been found possible and beneficial, or by other means, and in default the Bill reserves to Government the power to step in and take its own measures, the rights of the owners of such beds being held in abeyance or even extinguished.

"These are the main outlines of the measure to which this Council is now asked to give its assent. If there were greater power of co-operative action on the part of the people they might have been left to take such action themselves, or at most a measure putting the means of self-help at their disposal would have been sufficient. The Bill to some extent aims at doing this, but more is required. If the Government does not undertake the remedy, it will not be applied. We have tried to apply it in such a way as to avoid hardship to all parties, and though we cannot be sure of complete success in repairing past damage we are pretty confident that the measure will, if left to its operation, have a beneficial effect in preventing further deterioration of one of the most fertile tracts in the Province."

The motion was put and agreed to.

BILL TO AMEND THE PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT, 1891.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Punjab Municipal Act, 1891. He said: "I have to move for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Punjab Municipal Act, 1891. The principal object of the Bill is to acquire power to lay water-supply and drainage pipes through private properties in Simla in connection with the works contemplated under the scheme for the improvement of the town now about to be undertaken; and it has been thought advisable at the same time, in view of possible future developments, to take similar powers as regards lighting and telephonic communication; and also to give similar powers to any Municipal Committee that may hereafter wish to make improvements of this nature within the area under its charge. The interests of private owners are safeguarded by the provisions requiring the Committee to give previous notice to the owner or occupier of any private property before commencing operations on his land, to conduct those operations in such a manner as not to create a nuisance, and to pay reasonable compensation for any damage occasioned or substantial inconvenience caused, by any such operations. Such powers are commonly exercised in England by local authorities under the Acts relating to the public health, and in India by the Committees of the Presidency Towns, and it is desirable that they should be conferred on the Municipalities of the Punjab in order to enable them to take proper measures for the common good.

"The opportunity has been taken to propose a number of comparatively unimportant amendments in the Punjab Municipal Act of 1891, in order to remedy omissions and defects which have been brought to notice in the working of the Act during the last nine years. These are all of a non-contentious nature and I need not detain the Council by enumerating them.

"I beg to move for leave to introduce the Bill."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr J. Wilson introduced the Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson moved that the Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon.

The motion was put and agreed to.

BILL TO AMEND SECTION 8 OF THE PUNJAB LAWS ACT, 1872.

The Hon'ble Mr. C. L. Tupper moved for leave to introduce the Bill to amend Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872. He said: "The measure which I am about to ask leave to introduce is described as a Bill to amend Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act in respect of the descent of jágírs. Its main object may be briefly indicated by saying that it is a Jágírdár's Primogeniture Bill: and it is founded on a principle which was accepted by the Government of India forty years ago and needs only to be stated to carry with it its own justification. It was in May, 1860, within a fortnight of the date of his famous Despatch which proposed the distribution of adoption sanads to Ruling Chiefs, that Lord Canning directed his Under-Secretary to use these expressive terms:—'It is,' he wrote, 'politically desirable that primogeniture should be encouraged. The Governor-General believes that a more unfortunate prospect cannot be before a people, especially a people amongst whom society is of a feudal form than that of the gradual dissolution of all their wealthy and influential families into numerous poor and proud descendants. His Excellency also believes that the task of governing such a people in contentment becomes more and more difficult as this change progresses.' The Bill makes no arbitrary change in the rules of succession applicable to jágírs, but it puts it in the power of jágírdárs to co-operate with Government in establishing, by their own act, rules which will prevent the sub-division of their jágírs among numerous heirs and the consequent gradual deterioration in social status of many of the leading families of this Province. The distribution of the adoption sanads was intended to be a sign to Ruling Chiefs throughout India that Her Majesty desired the perpetuation of their Governments and the continuance of the representation and dignity of their houses. The present Bill cannot, of course, compare either in range or importance with such a measure as that just mentioned. But having regard to the passage I have quoted from Lord Canning's letter, I think we may, without arrogating too much for the Bill, at least claim for it that it is on the lines of his policy. It affords at any rate some evidence that the Government of India and the Local Government cherish the honour and reputation of those who in this part of India are the leaders of the people; and desire that the holders of all considerable perpetual jágírs shall from generation to generation maintain a position befitting their traditions and descent, and enabling them to do loyal service to Government in all times of need.

"This is not the first time that an attempt has been made either to empower the Government to declare the rule of succession in jágír cases or to induce the more important jágírdárs to accept the rule of primogeniture. There are in the Delhi territory, which became British territory in 1803, but was not included in the Punjab until after the Mutiny, some heritable and transferable grants under the old Regulations which are excluded from the measures now contemplated. Under orders passed by the Government of India on the 25th November, 1859, assignments granted in perpetuity after that date are inheritable, unless a different rule of succession has been prescribed in the grant, integrally by a single heir, whose right does not become complete until his inheritance has been confirmed or recognised by the Local Government. It may be said, therefore, that in the case of grants made since the 25th November, 1859, the needful rule of succession already exists in the sanad. Similarly, owing to the foresight of the late Colonel Wace, satisfactory rules of succession, supported by a Frontier Regulation of 1872, have been laid down for the Hazára jágírs. As regards other jágírs, though there are distinctions between the cis-Sutlej jágírs and the trans-Sutlej jágírs and the jágírs of the rest of the Punjab, as also between the political jágírs of the Kángra Hills, where a riásat origin has preserved the rule of primogeniture, and the political jágírs of Sikh conquerors in the plains, amongst whom the rules of succession applicable to ordinary property were often applied to political power, it is sufficient for present purposes to say that in the early days of Punjab administration the local authorities assumed, in accordance with the practice of their Sikh predecessors, that they had plenary power to regulate successions. We may now, perhaps, regret that when this assumption was consistent with the fact the opportunity was not taken to lay down generally that modified rule of primogeniture which was prescribed for future grants in 1859. The relative claims of the State and of heirs and collaterals to lapses or to continuance, as the case might be, were fully dealt with; but it is not now easy to explain the omission to prescribe the only rule of succession which can save great houses from slow but sure obliteration.

"As the Civil Courts became more firmly established the power which the Government at first exercised of moulding successions was gradually lost. At first the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts was barred by the Punjab Civil Code and a circular of the Board of Administration; but on the extension of the Civil Procedure Code to the Punjab and the institution of the Chief Court, that jurisdiction was asserted. Thus in 1867 the Chief Court declared that where there was no reservation in the original grant, the Government must be held to be precluded from all interference in the succession. The Government, however, though the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts was admitted for a time, did not long acquiesce in this position. In 1871 the Pensions Act was passed, and once more the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts was barred except on express reference made in particular cases by executive authority. In 1872 was enacted that section of the Punjab Laws Act which the present Bill amends. It prescribed that 'in all cases in which Government has declared any rule of descent to prevail in any family or families of assignees of land revenue, such rule of descent shall be held to prevail, and to have prevailed amongst them from the time when the declaration was made.' Both of these enactments failed to do what was really wanted; that was and is to enable the jágírdár and the Government to concur in establishing for the future a rule of primogeniture. It was found ten years ago that the section in the Punjab Laws Act had effect only in respect of declarations made before the date on which that Act came into force. Revenue Officers frequently held that the Pensions Act enabled the Government to regulate jágír successions at will, because it barred the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts except upon the certificate of the Collector which could be refused when there was reason for refusal. But these opinions were practically of no avail, because the Government was restrained by certain legal and equitable considerations, to be mentioned presently, from an exercise of power possibly possessed but not expressly conferred by the legislature.

"Meanwhile, some 10 or 11 years before the time of the Pensions Act and the Laws Act, a fairly vigorous effort had been made to induce jágírdárs to declare for the rule of primogeniture. In 1861 the Government directed that those jágírdárs holding in perpetuity whose revenue exceeded Rs. 250 per annum and who wished the succession of their jágírs to be regulated in future by the rule of primogeniture, should execute deeds to that effect. It appears that deeds were executed in some 47 cases, but in no more than 25 cases did the deed establish primogeniture or succession by a single heir. The force of these deeds, both those purporting to establish primogeniture and others, has never been adequately discussed or generally determined; and in 18 cases the deed has been ignored and succession has taken place in contravention of its terms. It is not necessary for me to trouble the Council with a recital of the considerable number of cases in which from 1859 to the present day the power of Government to regulate jágír cases has been more or less in issue. In considering these cases I perceive a familiar conflict of ideas which we have assimilated in this country with ideas which we have brought with us from home. The Sikh rulers resumed grants at will, and the Punjab local authorities, inheriting perhaps some of the traditions of their predecessors, and relying on the tabula rasa of previous tenures which Lord Dalhousie proclaimed, have been disposed throughout to assert that the Government of the day has an inherent right to regulate successions to the proceeds of its own bounty. The Government of India, on the other hand, though admitting the expediency of primogeniture, has been led by the legal and equitable considerations which I mentioned just now, to hold that the rule of integral descent to a single heir can be applied only when it is in accordance with custom, or the terms of the grant, or has been accepted by the grantee. The Supreme Government has thus acted on the well recognised rule of English law governing grants from the Crown, viz., that the Government at the time of making or confirming a grant possesses an absolute power of regulating the succession, but when once the conditions of a grant have been prescribed and the grant has actually been made, this absolute power is lost. The old Punjab rule and the rule of English law are in conflict; and the Bill reconciles the disparity by reviving the power of regulating the succession with the consent of the grantee. I trust it will be felt that this compromise is both expedient and just.

"I can best fortify this hope by explaining as briefly as may be, how it is intended that the Bill shall work.

"The cases which are being and will be taken up are those of perpetual jágírs exceeding Rs. 250 in value held from some date prior to that of the orders of 1859.

"The Government, if satisfied that the rule of primogeniture actually prevails in the family and has been continuously and without breach observed in all successions to the assignment since it was made, may declare accordingly, and this rule will then prevail for the future.

"If, however, the intention is to introduce the rule of primogeniture or some modification of it which will have the effect of preventing or diminishing the disintegration of the jágír, the jágírdár will be given the opportunity of executing a written instrument accepting such a rule of descent which, when declared by the Local Government, will become binding in all future successions.

"A form of instrument has been prepared and approved by Government and is about to be circulated to all Commissioners for use by jágírdárs. It contains two important provisions which are not at present in the Bill. These are, first, that if the person who would take under the rule of primogeniture is unfit to succeed, the Government may pass him over in favour of the next fit heir; and, secondly, that the succession may be conditional on the successor making adequate provision out of the grant for the proper maintenance of the widow or widows and child or children (if any) of the last or any previous holder.

"Simultaneously with the discussion which led to this Bill a question arose as to the liability of land revenue assignments to attachment by order of Court. It will be observed from the last clause of the Bill that jágírdárs can exempt their jágírs from this liability by accepting the rule of integral descent to a single heir.

"Finally, I would point out that while no one is under any compulsion to execute the written instruments proposed, the leading jágírdárs of the Province have now an opportunity of co-operating with Government in a political matter of importance. I sincerely hope that many of them will avail themselves of this opportunity, and will thus establish on a firm basis a most salutary rule which will conduce alike to the dignity and stability of their houses and to the ends of good administration, and will do much to ensure that the ability of their successors to serve the State shall not be less than their own.

"With these remarks I beg to move for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872."

BILL TO AMEND SECTION 8 OF THE PUNJAB LAWS ACT, 1872.

The Hon'ble Mr. Tupper presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend Section 8 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872. He said: "In presenting the Report of the Select Committee on the Descent of Jágírs Bill I have to make a few remarks in modification of what I said in regard to the working of the measure at the last meeting of this Council.

"The original intention was to take up only the cases of those perpetual jágírs exceeding Rs. 250 in annual value which have been held from some date prior to that of the orders of 1859; the assumption being that in all later cases a rule of integral descent to a single heir would be provided in the sanad. It has, however, been pointed out that it is only by means of a declaration of the rule of descent under Section 8 as amended that a jágírdár can make certain of that exemption of the jágír from seizure, attachment or sequestration by process of Court which is conferred by clause 8, sub-clause (3), of the Bill. Accordingly it is now proposed to call for a return of all perpetual jágírs of the annual value of Rs. 250 and upwards, from whatever date they run; and in all cases in which the actually prevailing rule of descent involves the devolution of the assignment to a single person as impartible property, to make a declaration accordingly under the amended law. The consequence will be that in all these cases the jágírs will get the benefit of freedom from attachment by order of Court.

"As regards perpetual jágírs of the value just mentioned where the rule of descent does not at present involve devolution to a single heir, the form of instrument providing for the acceptance of the rule of primogeniture which will be offered to the jágírdárs will be slightly amended so as to bring it into accordance with what we propose to enact to-day.

"I mentioned at the last discussion that by the form of instrument the Government was empowered when necessary to pass over heirs unfit to succeed and to require the successor to the grant to provide suitable maintenance out of the assignment for members of the family. These provisions now appear in the Bill, and will therefore be applicable not only in cases in which an instrument accepting the rule of primogeniture is now executed, but also in all cases in which a declaration is made under clause 8, sub-clause (1) (a).

"These rules are in accordance with past practice and the necessities of the case. It will be observed from the provisos to clause 8 A that special care has been taken to show that the power to pass over an unfit heir is subject to the claim of the family to the continuance of the assignment. The language now used on the subject of maintenance differs slightly from that employed in the form of instrument which has been approved. As I said last time, the succession might be conditional on the successor making adequate provision out of the grant for the proper maintenance of the widow or widows and child or children (if any) of the last of any previous holder. This form of words, however, would exclude members of the family who were not descendants of the last or any previous holder, as for instance the nephews of the deceased jágírdár or his first cousins if the grant had been made to his father. It would also exclude sons whose legitimacy or full legitimacy might be questioned, but who might be acknowledged as sons and by family custom admitted to maintenance. The reference therefore to the members of the family has now been made sufficiently wide to include all whose claims to maintenance might in any case deserve consideration.

"With these remarks I beg to submit the Report of the Select Committee."

The Hon'ble Mr. Tupper moved that the Report of the Select Committee and the Bill as amended be taken into consideration.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Tupper said: "I have now the honor to propose that the Bill, as amended, be passed."

His Honor the President said: "The object of this Bill was so fully and ably expounded by the Hon'ble Mover at the meeting of this Council held on the 14th July last, that it is unnecessary for me to undertake any description of it. It embodies all that can now be done to rectify an omission dating from more than half a century ago, whereby the descent of jágír grants made in perpetuity to the influential families of the Punjab prior of 1859 has been governed by the law or custom applying to the grantee, instead of the only law which was calculated to maintain the dignity of those families and their usefulness to the State, the law, I mean, of primogeniture. The attempt which was made by Lord Canning in 1860 to place this matter on a proper footing failed of any large measure of success, because the adoption of the rule of primogeniture was made to depend upon the will, not alone of the head of the family but also of his reversioners. Under the operation of the Bill which is about to become law the option will rest solely with the grantee for the time being, and we hope that this option will be largely used. I shall be glad if the few remarks which I have to make on this occasion help in any way to bring about this result.

"And first I have to observe that the jágírdár who elects to apply the rule of primogeniture to his jágír will in no way limit the chances of its continuance. Every member of the family who under the prevailing method of partition could inherit the smallest share in the original grant will, if the rule of primogeniture is applied, be entitled to succeed to the whole if there is no nearer heir surviving. The lapse of these ancient grants is the last thing which the Government desires, and there is no latent design in this measure for swelling the Treasury receipts.

"Secondly, it is to the enormous advantage of the fine old families of this aristocratic frontier Province that the Government bounty which represents their insignia should devolve upon one single member at a time, and that member the head of the family. For rendering the best service to the Government, for adequately maintaining the dignity of the house, for preserving harmony amongst its members, each family needs its head, its spokesman, its representative, with whom all the visible tokens of authority should rest, and under a rule of primogeniture I see greater probabilities of an increase in the number of men of the stamp of Sir Sahib Diál, Sir Nehal Singh Chachi, and Sir Imám Bakhsh Khán.

"And, lastly, there is the tangible benefit, secured by the adoption of the rule of primogeniture, of immunity from attachment or sequestration of the jágír which is subject to that rule of descent.

"The officers of Government will do their part to persuade the jágírdárs of the Province to whom these remarks apply to exercise their discretion wisely in their own interests, and in those of their family which the Government desires to maintain in honour, wealth and dignity. It will rest with the jágírdárs themselves to decide whether they will avail themselves of the opportunity now afforded to them, and I hope to find that they will do so freely. They may rest assured that if they do, the advantages which I have described will be theirs, and that they have nothing to fear from seconding the efforts of the Government which have been made solely in their interests."

The motion was put and agreed to.

BILL TO AMEND THE PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT, 1891.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson said: "The Bill to amend the Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, has been circulated for opinion, and opinions have been received from the Municipalities of Delhi, Simla, Lahore and Amritsar, from the Deputy Commissioners of those districts and of Ráwalpindi, and from the Commissioners of Delhi, Lahore and Ráwalpindi. All are agreed that the amendments of the Act which are proposed in the Bill as introduced are advisable. Some comparatively unimportant alterations in the wording have been suggested, and I am about to propose amendments accordingly. A number of other valuable suggestions have been made for the amendment of other sections of the Act than those dealt with in this Bill, but it has not been considered advisable to take action on them at present, as the proposed amendments are mostly of a contentious nature, and would require to be more fully discussed than they have yet been. They will no doubt be taken up and receive full consideration in the proper quarter. Meanwhile I have to propose only such amendments as relate to the clauses of the present Bill.

"I beg to move that the Bill to amend the Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, be now taken into consideration."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson asked leave to propose the amendments of which he had given notice, and which had been circulated to members. He said: "The new clause (f) of sub-section (1) of Section 11 enables the Local Government to remove by notification any member of Committee who has since his election become subject to any disqualification which would have rendered him ineligible if it had existed at the time of his election. The words which it is now proposed to add will enable the Local Government to remove any member who was actually disqualified at the time of his election, but whose disqualification was not brought to light at the time.

"I move that in clause 3 of the Bill the following words be added to the proposed new clause (f) of sub-section (1) of Section 11 :—

"'or if it appears that he was at the time of his election subject to any such disqualification.'"

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson said: "I beg to move that in clause 9 of the Bill in the proposed new Section 120 A for the word 'sewage' in line seven the word 'sewerage' be substituted."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson said: "It has been pointed out that the proposed new Section 120 A does not cover the case of a ventilating pipe being carried up the side of a building. I therefore move that in clause 9 of the Bill in the proposed new Section 120 A for the words 'or over any building or land' in line twelve the words 'over or up the side of any land or building' be substituted."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson said: "The fourth amendment is of some importance. As the clause stands in the Bill the Municipal Committee are given the power to carry out water-supply, drainage, and other works, 'provided that no nuisance is created by any such operations.' The word 'nuisance' has nowhere been authoritatively defined, and it might be argued that almost any operations affecting private property, as for instance digging a drain through a garden, are a nuisance to the owner or occupier. The addition of the words proposed in the amendment will enable the Committee to carry on the work so long as no unnecessary inconvenience is caused; while the further proviso and Section 120 B will entitle the owner or occupier to compensation for any real damage done.

" I beg to move that in clause 9 of the Bill in the first proviso to the proposed new Section 120 A after the word 'nuisance' in line one and before the word 'is' the following words be inserted :—

" 'more than is necessarily caused by the proper execution of the work.' "

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson said: "Amendment 5 is required for the same reasons as amendment 3. I beg to move that in clause 9 of the Bill in the proposed new Section 120 B for the words 'or over' in line four the words 'over or up the side of' be substituted."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson said: "Amendment 6 is proposed in accordance with a suggestion made by the Secretary to the Municipal Committee of Amritsar and supported by the Commissioner of Lahore. It explains itself.

" I therefore beg to move that in clause 10 of the Bill after the word 'added' in line four the following words be inserted, namely :—' In sub-section 3 of Section 122 after the word 'privy' wherever it occurs the words 'latrine or urinal' shall be added.' "

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson said: "Amendment 7. As Section 120 H gives the Committee full power to fix rates and charges in respect of connections and meters, it is unnecessary to repeat the provisions regarding those charges. I therefore beg to move that in clause 11 of the Bill the words beginning with 'the fees' in line eight to the end of the clause inclusive be omitted from the proposed new clause (m) in sub-section (1) of Section 143."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson said: "Amendment 8. Under the proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 143 no bye-law made under clause (a) or clause (b) of that sub-section by the Committee of a Municipality in which the Hackney Carriage Act, 1879, is in force (as it is for instance in Lahore and Amritsar and other large towns) applies to any vehicle to which that Act applies. The other insertion of the words proposed in this amendment is therefore necessary to render the proposed sub-section (4) operative in the neighbourhood of such towns. The Municipal Committee is the authority which makes rules for a Municipality under the Hackney Carriage Act, and the powers conferred for this purpose under that Act are practically the same as those conferred by clauses (a) and (b) above quoted ; so that the rules regarding vehicles plying for hire are much the same, under whichever Act they are passed.

" I therefore move that in clause 12 of the Bill in the proposed new sub-section (4) of Section 143 at line three after the words 'of sub-section (1)' and before the word 'may' the words 'or of any rules made under the Hackney Carriage Act, 1879,' be inserted."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson said: "Amendment 9. This corrects what seems to have been merely a clerical mistake.

" I therefore beg to move that in clause 15 of the Bill in the proposed new Section 168 A the word 'board' be inserted between the words 'tree' and 'fence' in line eight."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. J. Wilson said: "I have now to move that the Bill to amend the Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, as amended, be passed."

His Honor the President said: "I have only to say, in regard to this Bill, that the necessity for passing it without delay arises from the circumstances of Simla, where it has been found necessary to secure for the Municipal Committee certain powers relating to the schemes for improving the drainage, lighting and water-supply which, it is hoped, will greatly improve the summer capital of the Supreme and Punjab Governments. In view of this special urgency no provisions have been admitted into the present Bill which seemed likely from their controversial nature to impede its course through this Council, and the opportunity has only been seized to make a few other amendments which experience has shown to be desirable and which hardly admit of criticism. This line of treatment which was explained by the Hon'ble Mover in his speech introducing the Bill has been strictly adhered to, and accounts for our having had to disregard some valuable suggestions which may be taken up at a future date."

The motion was put and agreed to.

No. 2666.

Simla, the 6th June 1900.

THREE-AND-A-HALF PER CENT. LOAN OF 1900-1.

His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor-General in Council has resolved to borrow three hundred lakhs of rupees for the public service in the following manner:

2. Promissory Notes will be issued for the said amount, bearing interest at the rate of Three-and-a-half Per Centum Per Annum, payable half-yearly on the 30th day of June and the 31st day of December. The notes will be in the form annexed to this Notification and they will not be discharged before the 31st day of December 1920, nor until the expiration of three months after notice of payment to be published in the Government Gazette.

Tenders.

3. Tenders for the whole or any part of the said amount of Rs. 3,00,00,000 will be received by the Comptroller-General from this date to noon of Wednesday, the 4th July next. Tenders must be for sums of 100 Rupees or 300 Rupees or multiples of those sums.

4. Each tender must be addressed, in the form annexed to this Notification, to the Comptroller-General, Calcutta, and enclosed in a closed cover, superscribed "Tender for the Three-and-a-half Per Cent. Loan." If the tenderer is not resident in India, he must name an agent resident in India to whom an allotment-certificate may be issued, if any part of the loan is allotted to such tenderer.

NOTE.—Tenders made in accordance with these instructions will also be received by the Accountants-General at Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, and Lahore, on account of the Comptroller-General, Calcutta, on the 3rd July and up to the local time corresponding to 12 o'clock in Calcutta on the 4th July; provided that—

(a) they are delivered personally or by clerk or messenger at the Accountant-General's Office (where a receipt will be given for them);

(b) they are made on printed forms, to be obtained at the same office or at the local Presidency Bank;

(c) each tender is for not less than Rs. 10,000;

(d) the deposit is either a promissory note or a Treasury Receipt from the local Office of the Presidency Bank, or a cheque on a local Bank in favour of the Accountant-General;

(e) the amount of the tender is made payable either in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, or Lahore;

and the Accountant General will return deposits on non-accepted tenders, and will issue allotment-cetificates so far as the tenders are payable in Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, or Lahore.

5. The rate at which each tender is made must be specified in rupees or rupees and annas: a tender in which no rate is thus specified, but a subscription is offered in some other terms—as, for example, at the recorded minimum, or at some specified percentage in addition to the recorded minimum, or at the average of the accepted tenders—will be rejected as null and void.

6. The rate at which a tender is made must not contain a fraction of an anna: if a rate containing a fraction of an anna is inserted in any tender, such fraction will be struck out and the tender treated as if the rate did not contain such fraction of an anna.

Deposits.

7. Each tender must be accompanied by a deposit of not less than one-hundredth, or, if the tender be for less than Five Lakhs of Rupees, then for not less than one-fiftieth part of the tender. The deposit must be in one of the following forms: (a) a receipt for the amount from the Head Office of the Bank of Bengal, or Madras, or Bombay, or one of their Branches, or from an officer in charge of some Public Treasury, or (b) a cheque drawn in favour of the Comptroller-General on a Bank in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, or Lahore, or (c) Government Promissory Notes[1] standing in the name of, or endorsed to, the tenderer or the person making the deposit.

[1] It is particularly requested that such Promissory Notes may NOT be endorsed to the Comptroller-General.

8. (a) Deposits, not being promissory notes, will, in the case of accepted tenders, be credited proportionately in part payment of the allotment-certificates issued in respect of the tender, and will bear interest for the purpose of clause 16 below from the date of the opening of tenders. When a tender is not accepted in full, the deposits, when they are not in the form of promissory notes, will be credited as far as possible proportionately in even tens of rupees in part payment of the allotment-certificates issued in respect of it. If any allotment-certificate is not fully taken up, the deposit credited in respect of it will be forfeited.

(b) Promissory notes deposited in respect of any accepted tender will be held until all the allotment-certificates issued in respect of the tender are paid up, and will, if the allotment-certificates are not fully taken up, be appropriated by the Government and cancelled.

Opening of Tenders.

9. The Governor-General in Council reserves the right to declare, on or before the 27th June, the minimum rate at which tenders will be accepted. If not so declared, the said minimum rate will be recorded under the signature of the Comptroller-General, and, before the tenders are opened, placed upon the table in a sealed envelope, but will not be declared unless some tender is rejected only because it is below the recorded minimum.

10. Tenders will be opened publicly by the Comptroller-General at the Treasury Buildings, Calcutta, at noon (Calcutta time), on Wednesday, the 4th July next, and those received under the terms of the note under clause 4 will be similarly opened by the Accountants-General at Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, and Lahore at the local time corresponding to noon Calcutta time, on the same day; but the contents of the tenders will not be disclosed otherwise than as provided in clause 12.

11. Tenders at rates not below the minimum rate will be accepted in the order of the rates tendered, beginning with the highest rate. The amount allotted at the lowest rate at which tenders are accepted will be divided amongst those who have tendered at this rate in proportion, as nearly as may be found convenient, to the amounts of their tenders; provided that no allotment will be issued if the amount distributable on any tender is less than Rs. 100: preference will however be given to small tenders, not exceeding Rs. 2,000, at the lowest rate, such tenders receiving allotments in full as far as possible.

Allotment-Certificates.

12. To each tenderer (or to his agent) whose tender is accepted in whole or in part such number of allotment-certificates as may be necessary to make up the aggregate amount allotted to him will be issued by the Comptroller-General[2] as soon as possible after the 4th July; and an alphabetical list of the names of those to whom such allotment-certificates are issued will be posted for general information at the Head Offices of the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay.

[2] For tenders received by the Accountants-General at Madras, Bombay, Allahabad, or Lahore, and payable at those places, the Accountant-General will issue the allotment-certificates.

13. If the allotment made on any tender is less than Rs. 3,000, then the whole of the allotment-certificates (after credit of the deposit under clause 8 (a)) will be made payable upon the 20th August.

Otherwise the whole amount of each allotment will be divided into three instalments as follows:

Instalment I.—As near as convenient to 35 per cent., but not exceeding 35 per cent., payable upon the 20th July:

Instalment II.—As near as convenient to 35 per cent., but not exceeding 35 per cent., payable upon the 20th August:

Instalment III.—The balance payable upon the 12th September:

and allotment-certificates will be issued for each instalment separately.

But the whole or any part of any accepted tender may be paid at any time after receipt of the allotment-certificates.

The words "as near as convenient" refer to the necessity for making each instalment an exact multiple of Rs. 100.

14. Any allotment-certificate will, on application to the Comptroller-General, be exchanged for an equivalent amount of allotment-certificates of smaller denominations; provided that if any payment (beyond the deposit) is recorded upon the cancelled certificate, it can be taken against, and recorded upon, only one of the certificates issued in exchange.

15. Payment of any allotment-certificate may be made to the account of the Government in the Head Office of the Bank of Bengal or Madras or Bombay, or in any Branch of these Banks, or into any Public Treasury or Treasuries in India which may be named in the tender in respect of which it was issued. Receipts for such payments will be given by the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, or their Branches, or by the officers in charge of the Government Treasuries at which payment is made, by enfacement upon the relative certificate.

Issue of Promissory Notes.

16. (a) When any allotment-certificate is fully paid up, the holder will, on presenting it duly receipted at the place where it was paid, obtain from the Public Debt Office, Calcutta, promissory notes of such values as he may desire (each note being in even hundreds and not less than Rs. 100), bearing interest from 31st December 1900, and he will also receive interest at $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum from the dates on which he may have made payment till the 30th of December 1900.

(b) Or he may, at his option, by paying interest at the said rate from 30th June 1900 to the dates on which he may have made payment, obtain promissory notes as above, bearing interest from 30th June 1900.
